2 NEW DRY SHOOTINGS STIR IRE IN HOUSE; MAY SPEED HOOVER'S PLAN

Clancy, of Michigan, Goes to Get Data on Affair Near Detroit.

SENDS MELLON LETTER ASKING FOR ACTION

Treasury to Investigate Minnesota Killing, Lowman Asserts.

ENFORCEMENT ARMY ON BORDER GROWING

Force Will Be Increased to 400, Is Report, as New Agents Arrive.

(By United Press.)

Indignation aroused by reports of two new prohibition shootings gave promise yesterday of hastening the reorganization of Federal law enforcement agencies advocated by President Hoover.

Newspaper accounts of the slaying at International Falls, Minn., of Henry Virkkula and the perhaps fatal shooting at Detroit, Mich., of Archibald Eugster, both by United States border patrolmen, produced a storm of resolutions and oratory in the House.

The most recent shootings have aroused Congress at a time when it has before it a definite proposal for reforms in the prohibition enforcement service from the President. Mr. Hoover recently asked the House and Senate to appoint a joint commission to study the feasibility of consolidating enforcement organizations under the Justice Department.

His suggestion probably will be acted upon soon by the Senate. Senator Jones (Republican), Washington, author of the Jones "five and ten" law, introduced a resolution providing for appointment of such a commission, and it has been reported favorably by the Senate judiciary committee.

Once passed, it is expected to receive prompt concurrence in the House, where a similar resolution was introduced yesterday by Representative Stalker (Republican), New York.

Pending a report by this commission, which would be made next September if the Jones resolution is adopted, Mr. Hoover may act to stop unnecessary use of firearms by Federal officers. He already has issued one warning to enforcement agencies against violence.

Clancy Will Investigate.

Representative Clancy (Republican), Michigan, and Representative Pittenger (Republican), Minnesota, took the lead yesterday in denouncing the tactics of border patrolmen in their districts. Clancy set out for Detroit to conduct an independent investigation of the Eugster shooting when he heard of the incident.

"These murders by customs guards and prohibition agents must cease," Clancy said, before leaving. He also took time to write letters to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Attorney General Mitchell and Assistant Commissioner of Customs Frank Dow, demanding suspension of the officers who did the shooting and a thorough investigation of the case.

"I have found that hair-trigger and drunken prohibition agents who have a tendency to shoot innocent persons are very much afraid of suspension pending their trial," he wrote. "I know of course that you do not wish any men, women or children killed by Federal prohibition agents during the present drive in the rivers and lakes around Detroit."

Previously Clancy had issued a statement protesting the concentration of dry forces at Detroit, declaring that "tragedies will be almost inevitable" and that such a concentration can accomplish nothing.

Condemned by Pettenger.

Pittenger inserted a speech in the Congressional Record condemning the Virkkula slaying and suggesting that the President's law enforcement commission begin its work with an investigation of this tragedy.

"It is time to inquire if superior officers and men in charge of the work have established and are putting into effect a program where subordinates are authorized to kill on suspicion," he said.

"If they deny such a program, then it is high time to find out if private individuals or organizations of individuals put the stamp of approval on such methods as those which led to the tragedy in question.

"I do not favor the killing of human beings as part of a program of law enforcement. To advocate such a principle is to advocate mob law. We do not want to return to barbarian days when people charged with crime were first killed and then guilt determined afterward."

Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, announced shortly after his return from Detroit, where he

Prelates and Mexican Ruler Confer Today

THE REV. EDMUND A. WALSH, vice president of Georgetown University, left, as he appeared in Mexico City with Bishop Pascual Diaz, right.

Settlement of Religious Issue Expected After Single Parley.

Mexico City, June 11 (A.P.).—An authoritative source tonight said the first conference of Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz with President Emilio Portes Gil looking toward settlement of the religious controversy probably will be held tomorrow and surely within 48 hours. Bishop Pascul Diaz is expected to be the only other person present.

Hope was held out that the negotiations will be so far advanced that after a single conference a report may be cabled to the Vatican.

Yesterday archbishop Ruiz, with his conferee, Bishop Pascual Diaz, called at the presidential palace and talked for a half hour with Fernando Torreblanca, the president's secretary. It was reported the visit was for the purpose of arranging the conference with Senor Portes Gil.

While the prelates were at the palace the president himself was closeted 3 miles away with Ambassador Morrow at Chapultepec Castle. It was said no date had been set for his interview with the Roman Catholic prelates.

Some observers related the various incidents, unexpected return of Ambassador Morrow and Gen. Calles, who reached the capital today, the con-

JACK KELLEHER IS GUILTY ON 23 GAMING COUNTS

Jurors Deliberate an Hour Before Deciding Fate of Sportsman.

MAXIMUM PENALTY OF 50 YEARS FACED

PRISONER IS JAILED; SENTENCE ON JUNE 22

Former Employe's Evidence of Bets Is Big Aid to Prosecution.

Facing a long prison sentence, Jack B. Kelleher, prominent Capital sportsman, was lodged in a cell at the District Jail to await his fate after conviction of a two-year-old gambling charge last night in the District Supreme Court.

A jury of four women and eight men reported the sportsman guilty of all charges in a 23-count indictment, after only an hour's debate. Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy denied bail and ordered Kelleher to jail to await sentence, which will probably be imposed on June 22.

As a result of the verdict, the dapper sportsman faces a maximum penalty of 50 years. The indictment, which was reported on February 8, 1927, contained six felony charges, each of which lays the prisoner open to a five-year sentence. The other counts, mainly, were misdemeanor charges carrying a one-year penalty.

Wife Sobs at Verdict.

When the verdict was announced shortly after 7 o'clock, Mrs. Anna Kelleher, pretty, dark-haired wife of the sportsman, wept hysterically. She was the chief witness in the defense. Kelleher did not take the stand.

Kelleher is the only "big shot" among local sportsmen to face trial of a gambling charge in recent criminal court history.

The trial consumed two days and abounded in thrills, but the outstanding sensation came in the waning moments of the proceedings when Daniel Thew Wright, chief of defense counsel, read into the record a list of persons prominent in business and sporting circles of the Capital.

The list, according to the prosecution, contained the names of persons who patronized the gambling establishment of Kelleher, but the defense held that the names were those of friends of the sportsman and that the list was used as a reminder in mailing out seasonal greeting cards.

HOOVER POLICY ON OIL FOUGHT BY 3 SENATORS

Conservation and Barring of Prospecting Rapped in New Attack.

KING TO ASK INQUIRY ON EXECUTIVE'S RIGHT

Cutting and Bratton Also Agree Plan Is Unfair in Floor Talks.

PARLEY IN COLORADO SEEKING PACT BASIS

"Alarming" Situation Denied by Delegates, Who Aid President's Scheme.

(Associated Press.)

An attack on President Hoover's oil conservation policy and the action of Mark L. Requa, chairman of the oil conference at Colorado Springs, in ruling out of order a resolution favoring rescinding of the executives' order barring prospecting on public lands was launched yesterday on the floor of the Senate.

Senator Cutting (Republican), New Mexico, began the assault by challenging Requa's right to prevent discussion in the conference on any matter pertinent to the issues involved.

The challenge immediately drew from Senator King (Democrat), Utah, a statement that the oil order was "one of the most lawless acts ever committed by any person." King was joined by Senator Bratton (Democrat), New Mexico, who declared that the restrictive policy was an "injustice" to those who had money invested in oil lands.

Seeks Early Action.

King announced that he intended to urge the Senate judiciary committee to take early action on his resolution proposing an investigation of the President's right to curtail oil production on the public lands.

Both New Mexico Senators asserted that Requa's announcement before the conference that he would urge "coercive governmental regulation" if the oil industry continued to overproduce would be "ineffective" as far as their State was concerned.

"Any policy of coercion at the conference," Cutting said, "will be bitterly repudiated."

Colorado Springs, Colo., June 11 (A.P.).—The governors' oil conservation conference tonight turned over to the representatives of the governors of Texas, Oklahoma and California the problem of finding a basis on which an interstate conservation compact could be constructed.

SENATE IN 46-43 VOTE BREAKS WITH HOOVER TO UPHOLD DEBENTURE

Conference Group Report Is Rejected in Exciting Congress Revolt.

PRESIDENT PREPARES VIGOROUS STATEMENT

Urges Congress to Enact Measure and Avert Farm "Disaster."

G. O. P. LEADERS HOLD WHITE HOUSE PARLEY

Solution Scheme Is Adopted; House Vote on Proposal Seen Tomorrow.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The expected open break between the President and the Senate came yesterday after he had suffered his second defeat at its hands on the debenture farm relief plan.

The Senate rejected the farm conference report, the debenture eliminated, by a vote of 46 to 43.

A short while later the President issued the second vigorous message since he has come into office, calling upon Congress to enact the conferees' report, and declaring that the debenture would "bring immediate profits to some speculators and disaster to the farmer."

But even before the President spoke, the House majority leaders had gotten together and dejectedly decided to back down on their determination not to permit a debenture vote in the House. They had been trying to protect Middle Western Republicans from the possible embarrassment that might come from a recorded vote, but Speaker Longworth, leaving the Senate immediately after the vote, crestfallen and red of face, immediately called a conference and talked at length with the White House over the telephone.

Subsequently the House leaders, together with Senate leaders, went to the White House for a conference with the President, after which it was announced a vote would be permitted in the House tomorrow. Those taking part in the conference at the White House were: Senators Watson, McNary, Reed, Edge and Moses, Speaker Longworth, House Majority Leader Tilson, Representative Snell, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and Secretary of War Good.

House Against Debenture.

It has been asserted repeatedly that the House is overwhelmingly against the debenture. That being the case it can be proved in 45 minutes tomorrow, and the farm bill will then be quickly gotten out of the way, as the debenture senators have declared that they will not pursue their cause further if the House once votes on the subject.

The President's message will serve to hold down the debenture strength that might develop in the House, now that it faces a vote. That was probably the purpose of it.

The farm bill without the debenture carried out in every particular the plan advanced during the campaign, the President declared.

"Every other plan of agricultural relief," he said, "was rejected in that campaign, and this plan was one of the most important issues in the principal agricultural States and was given as a mandate by an impressive majority in these States.

Subsidies Were Condemned.

"Subsidies were condemned in the course of the campaign, and the so-called debenture plan—that is, the giving of subsidies on exports—was not raised by either party nor by its proponents.

"No serious attempt has been made to meet the many practical objections I and leaders of Congress have advanced against this proposal. It was not accepted by the House of Representatives and has been overwhelmingly condemned by the press, and is opposed by many leading farm organi-

Galveston, Tex., June 11 (U.P.).—Miss Lisle Goldarbeiter, Miss Austria, was chosen beauty queen of the universe at the Galveston International beauty pageant tonight.

Miss Austria received all except one vote of the seven cast by the judges. The other went to Miss Roumania, represented by Miss Iagda Demetrescu.

The Austrian girl won the admiration of the onlookers by her pretty, sharply lined face, her slender grace and her typical brunette beauty. She wore a bright red flowering satin gown. As a bathing girl she wore a trim suit of green.

While Ann Woollard, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Woollard, of 4515 Connecticut avenue northwest, was fighting unsuccessfully for her life at Emergency Hospital last night, after being knocked down by an automobile at Connecticut avenue and Albermarle street, prominent citizens were planning to take their fight for immediate traffic protection at the scene of the accident to Congress if prompt action is not taken by the District Commissioners. The girl died at midnight.

Maj. Wyatt G. Franks, U. S. A., driver of the car which struck the child, was released last night on $3,000 bond on a charge of reckless driving. The child suffered a fractured skull and other injuries. Police said that the child was struck within two or three feet of the curb.

BIGAMIST BARES LIFE IN TORCH DEATH CASE

White-Haired Engineer Sobs as He Tells Court of Strange Union.

USED DRUG AFTER LOSSES

Elizabeth, N. J., June 11 (U.P.).—In a weak, nervous voice which sometimes broke into a sob, Henry Colin Campbell, white-haired bigamist, told a jury today of the strange courtship that led him into a bigamous union with Mrs. Mildred Mowry, 45-year-old nurse and "torch murder" victim.

Campbell, physically wrecked by chronic ill health, overpowering mental strain, and excessive use of drugs, was barely able to take the stand and give testimony.

He made no denial that he killed Mrs. Mowry and burned her body at a New Jersey roadside last February, but it appeared from his story that he hoped to save himself from the electric chair and win leniency by possibly showing himself to have been mentally unbalanced at the time of the murder.

The voice of the aging engineer was scarcely audible as he described the Shot Chinese May Die; Police See Tong War

Victim Seen Early in Evening Riding in Automobile With Two Others of His Race; Roundup of All Orientals Ordered by Officials.

With a Chinese, believed to be Lee King or Lee Ching, in a critical condition at Emergency Hospital with bullet wounds in his face and body, police early this morning saw a renewal of tong warfare and ordered a round-up of all the city's Chinese inhabitants.

The wounded Chinese was found lying on the sidewalk on Eleventh street northwest between L and M streets shortly after midnight. He was hurried to the hospital where surgeons said his chances for recovery were slight. He was unable to make a statement.

Headquarters detectives, who rushed to the hospital upon receipt of the report, immediately sensed the renewal of tong war activities. This viewpoint was given support by receipt of information that the man earlier in the night had been seen in an automobile with two of his countrymen.

The automobile in which he was reported to have been seen bore license tag R-150, according to police. A check on tag numbers revealed that the tag of that number had been issued to the Milestone Rent-a-Car Co., with offices at 325 Thirteenth street northwest.

Detectives were immediately dispatched to that place and learned that the automobile bearing that license had been rented at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon to a Chinese who signed himself as James Lee. The car was found, abandoned, at an early hour this morning several hours after the wounded Chinese was found. The auto was parked in lower Pennsylvania avenue.

Several taxicab drivers who have a stand near the scene where the Chinese was found reported to Policemen C. H. Stello and W. J. Rice, of the Second Precinct, that they heard pistol shots on Eleventh street and rushed to a corner in time to see the automobile drive off. They said the car contained three Chinese.

The taxicab drivers were the first to reach the wounded man, and hailed a passing automobile to send him to the hospital.

As the investigation continued in the early morning police still clung to the tong warfare theory, but said that it was the first time they had ever heard of a tong adopting gang methods. Police were convinced the Chinese had been "taken for a ride" by his fellow countrymen.

This view was given weight when hospital attaches turned over to the police a Federal court summons and a list containing Chinese names.

The summons ordered the wounded man to appear in Federal court at Norfolk, and was signed by the narcotic agent in charge at Baltimore.

The list of names showed notations of time and contained addresses of Chinese establishments on lower Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Police interpreted the list and the summons to indicate that the man had been spying on Chinese establishments for the Federal authorities.

Police said that the wounded man lived at 1423 Eleventh street northwest. He was found on the 1100 block of that street.

Police also said that Lee, the man that rented the automobile, gave his address as the 300 block of Pennsylvania avenue northwest. This is in

CITY IS UNDERTAXED, SIMMONS DECLARES

ANSWERS PRESS IN HOUSE

Washington is undertaxed rather than overtaxed, and the Federal contribution of $9,000,000 a year toward the cost of operating the city not only is fair but "generous," Representative Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska, declared in the House yesterday.

Simmons, who is chairman of the appropriations subcommittee in charge of local appropriations, arose in the House to answer two editorials criticizing the financial arrangement under which the city is conducted.

"At the present time," Simmons said "we are in the initial stages of another campaign to get more money out of the Federal Treasury for the District of Columbia. This has been evidenced by editorials appearing in the Washington press during the last two or three days evidenced by the action of the Citizens' Advisory Council last night, evidenced

HUDDLESTON BALKS AIRPORT BILL VOTE

Alabama Representative Says U. S. Should Not Assist Capital Project.

ROW OVER $500,000 ITEM

The joint resolution for a Federal contribution of $500,000 toward a national airport for Washington will be called up in the House again today, Chairman Wood, of the appropriations committee, announced late yesterday.

Action on the measure yesterday was blocked by Representative Huddleston (Democrat), of Alabama, who said he could not see why the Federal Government should contribute toward an airport for Washington any more than it should contribute toward airports in other cities.

Chairman Wood holds that Washington is in a different category. In a city like Chicago, he says, an airport is purely a commercial venture, designed to attract air traffic and airplane manufacturers. But an airport in Washington, he argues, would be essentially national in character and

Clash Is Staged in House Over America's Discovery

Honor of Being First to Set Foot on Western Hemisphere Is Claimed for Viking, Italian and Irishman; Credit Sought for Ericsson Is Omitted From Record.

A three-sided argument over who discovered America broke out in the House yesterday, the honor being claimed for a Viking, an Italian and an Irishman. No decision was reached.

The clash started when Representative Burtness, of North Dakota, whose father, a Scandinavian, migrated to Iceland in 1850, introduced a resolution in which was contained a statement that Leif Ericcson discovered the American mainland in the year 1000.

The resolution would authorize President Hoover to accept an invitation from the Kingdom of Iceland to participate in the one-thousandth anniversary of the Althing, the Icelandic Parliament, which first sat in 930. The measure also directs the President, as a mark of friendship for Iceland, to erect in that country a statue or other memorial to Ericcson.

These provisions were all right.

What caused the row was a "whereas" asserting that Ericcson had discovered America.

"Doesn't the gentleman know," asked Representative O'Connor, of Louisiana, "that many historians of repute attribute the discovery of America to an Irishman of the sixth century?"

"But the weight of historical authority favors Columbus as the discoverer," interpolated Representative LaGuardia, of New York.

"We are not writing history in these bills," LaGuardia said later. "Therefore, I move to have the reference to Ericcson as the first white man to set foot on the mainland of America stricken from the resolution."

LaGuardia had his way, and the House thus was prevented from giving credence to the theory that Ericcson was the discoverer of America. The amended resolution finally was passed and sent to the Senate.

nations. For no matter what the theory of the export subsidy may be, in the practical world we live in it will not bring equality but will bring further disparity to agriculture. It will bring immediate profits to some speculators and disaster to the farmer.

"I earnestly hope that the Congress will enact the conferees' report and allow us to enter upon the building of a sound agricultural system rather than to longer deprive the farmer of the relief which he so sorely needs."

Democratic-Progressives Win.

The Senate Democratic-Progressive coalition won its second victory by the same margin as the first, three votes, but there were some changes from the previous line-up. The coalition lost Trammell and Fletcher of Florida, but won Walsh of Massachussetts and King, who are opposed to the farm bill even without the debenture and therefore willing to assist in any move that works against its passage. They lost Kendrick, who was previously paired for the debenture but who yesterday was paired for the adoption of the conference report, and in his stead, gained Shipstead, who returned to the Senate after an absence of several weeks to vote.

A resolution was prepared by administration influences here several days ago and given to Glenn B. Skipper, Florida Republican national committeeman, who got it through the Democratic Florida Legislature in the rush of its closing sessions. It petitioned the Florida senators to vote against the debenture. It had the necessary effect, together with what Florida gets in the pending tariff bill and the $10,000,000 for losses sustained from the Mediterranean fruit fly.

The President at the last minute sought to win over some votes. Senator Couzens was a breakfast guest and later in the day, Senators Frazier and Nye, of North Dakota, were called to the White House. The President was unsuccessful, though, in persuading any of them to change their votes.

Preceding Debate Bitter.

The debate that preceded the vote was the most bitter since the days of the League of Nations fight. Senator Allen, of Kansas, who was appointed to support the President, again undertook the task, not having been a member long enough to realize that anything he might say at the particular time only intensified the bitterness. But he rushed in blindly, essaying another attack on Senator Borah, but drawing up short after one exchange. Then he was mercilessly handled by Senators Caraway, of Arkansas, and Brookhart, of Iowa.

Brookhart referred to him as the "temporary senator" from Kansas, while Caraway's opening sally was:

"I see now that the grasshopper was not the only plague to come out of Kansas." He finally had the Kansas senator in the position where all he could say was, in effect, "You're another one." Answering the Arkansan's sally that the President thought for him, Allen retorted that he did not, but that if it came to the point of accepting the President's judgment or that of Mr. Caraway, he would certainly accept that of the former.

Allen "Has No Mind."

Allen made a reference to Caraway's questioning of the processes of his mind, but the Arkansan denied it with the explanation: "I do not think he has any mind."

Caraway charged that debenture senators were being asked to follow the President's judgment, when he had none at the time the Senate agriculture committee visited him just before the extra session met. The President told the committee that he would rely on the judgment of his "experts," Caraway declared, adding that these "experts" were Secretary Mellon and Secretary Hyde.

"I dare any man here to stand up and say that when Secretary Hyde appeared before the committee," Caraway declared, "he had a single plan of farm relief."

Brookhart again told how he had gone down the line for the President during the campaign on the belief that he was a friend of the farmer. The President had frequented conferences with him on farm relief during the campaign, the irate Iowan charged, but after the election he found he never got a conference.

If the President is not the progressive that he, Brookhart, thought him to be, the Iowan declared, "the farmers had better get ready to elect a Progressive President."

The calling of the three senators to the White House was the subject of attack by Senator Johnson, of California.

"I'd rather be a frog living on dungeon mold," he shouted; "I'd rather be a dog baying at the moon and then bending to the lash. I'll stand by the President when I believe him to be right, but I will not stand by him when I believe him to be wrong, realizing full well what the consequences may be."

Vote on Report Tense.

The vote was one of the tensest ever held in the Senate, carrying as it did the open insurrection of the Progressives and the smoldering resentment against the President of some of the regulars. The result was not a surprise because the outcome has been a toss-up since the night before.

The manner in which the situation has shaped up in the past three or four days, however, was a distinct surprise. Up until that time it had been generally thought that the debenture fight in the Senate would die out to be revived when the tariff came up. But it suddenly developed that bitterness had intensified the fight. Senators were angered at the attack on them in Boston by Secretary of the Navy Adams, and by reports that the President or some of his close advisers wanted the Republican national committee to be used for a fight on them. Other senators were at patronage cross-purposes with the President.

It was such a situation that many regulars, outwardly supporting the President, did not have their heart in their work. It is significant that Allen was the only one to defend him in the crucial stage of the fight.

And Senator Joe Robinson came back in time to bolster up the waning Democrats.

FARM RELIEF DELAY BLAMED ON HOUSE

WOULD ABIDE BY RESULT

(Associated Press.)

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, declared in a statement issued last night that the responsibility for farm relief legislation rested upon the Republican leaders of the House who refused to permit a vote on the Senate's debenture plan.

Asserting that the question was up to the House, he said he would abide by whatever decision that body makes on the controversial export debenture, but insisted upon a House vote.

"The vote in the Senate refusing to agree to the conference report," he declared, "reflects the necessity for a vote in the House of Representatives on the debenture provision of the bill. It is difficult to understand those who assert that rather than to take such a vote the leaders of the majority in the House will permit the defeat of all farm relief legislation. All that the advocates of the debenture plan insist upon is an expression on the subject by the members of the House.

"The claim that the Senate, in inserting the arrangement for the issuance of debentures, violated the Constitution, is absurd. The courts have defined bills for raising revenue as meaning bills levying taxes to defray the expenses of the Government. No other interpretation has ever been given the provision of the Constitution requiring that bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House. No individual or group of individuals styling themselves 'leaders' has any right to assert arbitrarily that before the House shall vote upon a question, important legislation must be sacrificed.

"If the House takes a vote and rejects the debenture plan, its advocates in the Senate will be constrained to yield and the bill will be passed with debentures eliminated.

"There is no occasion for prolonged delay unless the majority leaders in the House choose to take responsibility for it. If they fear the debenture provision will be accepted by the House, the effort to suppress or prevent a vote on the subject is the more to be condemned."

Wales' Engagement To Princess Is Denied

London, June 11 (U.P.).—The often-repeated rumor that the Prince of Wales' engagement to beautiful Princess Ingrid, of Sweden, would be announced in the near future was going the rounds again today, but was denied by a spokesman at the prince's residence.

Princess Ingrid has been spending the season here as the guest of the Duke of Connaught, the king's uncle. The Prince of Wales was a guest at a dinner last week at which she was present, and he is expected to attend a ball in honor of the princess at the Swedish Embassy Friday night.

British Premier's Trip to U. S. to Be Made as Soon as Parliament Rises.

MINOR OFFICERS NAMED

London, June 11 (A.P.).—Premier Ramsay MacDonald will pay his contemplated visit to the United States as soon as parliament has risen at the end of July, unless an adverse reason should suddenly intervene, it was generally held in authoritative quarters tonight.

Departure at that time would leave the premier free for his projected visit in September to the League of Nations assembly meeting at Geneva.

"I can not make a statement of any kind tonight," Mr. MacDonald declared, as he was leaving London with his daughter Ishbel for his Scottish home in Lossiemouth.

The premier explained that he was going to Lossiemouth in search of rest and he expected to return again June 21 before the opening of parliament on June 25. Other visitors to Lossiemouth were expected to be the Earl and Countess de La Warr. The early's appointment as undersecretary of war in the new Labor cabinet was announced today.

Idea Finds Praise.

The idea of Premier MacDonald's visit to the United States has been accepted in London with nothing but praise, and on the part of the Conservative press with something of jealousy. These newspapers are now anxious to inform the world that former Premier Stanley Baldwin had accepted such an offer shortly before he resigned from office. Nothing was heard in London of this intention until the idea that Premier MacDonald would go was broached.

A good understanding with the United States would be of the first importance to the Labor administration, which would especially welcome any means of restricting expenditure on naval armaments obtainable by such an understanding.

The new government contemplates large expenditures to ameliorate social conditions among British people, and if these could be counterbalanced by savings in heavy naval estimates, Labor would consider it preferable to raising the necessary funds by additional taxation.

Junior Ministers Named.

The junior ministers of the MacDonald government were announced today, the list including Ben Turner, miners' leader, Arthur Ponsonby and Miss Susan Lawrence.

Admiralty—Parliamentary and financial secretary, C. G. Ammon; civil lord, G. Hall.

Ministry of agriculture—Parliamentary secretary, Rt. Hon. C. Addison.

Air ministry — Undersecretary of state, F. Montague.

Board of trade—Parliamentary secretary, W. R. Smith.

Mines department — Parliamentary secretary, Ben Turner.

Colonial office—Colonial undersecretary, W. Lunn.

Board of education—Parliamentary secretary, Morgan Jones.

Foreign office—Undersecretary, H. Dalton.

Ministry of health—Parliamentary secretary, Miss Susan Lawrence.

Treasury—Lords commissioners, J. Allen Parkinson, Charles Edwards and Alfred Barnes; financial secretary, F. W. Pethick-Lawrence.

Home office — Undersecretary, A. Short.

India office — Undersecretary, Dr. Drummond Shiels.

Ministry of labor — Parliamentary secretary, J. J. Lawson.

Ministry of transport—Parliamentary secretary, Lord Russell.

War office—Undersecretary, Lord de la Warr; financial secretary, E. Shinwell.

In connection with the appointments as lords commissioners of the treasury an explanation was attached to the official list that Maj. Clement Attlee's name did not appear because he was assigned to the Indian commission and the prime minister felt that until the commission's work was finished it would be improper to attach him to the government.

DAWES WILL INVITE PREMIER TO CAPITAL

U. S. Ambassador Expected to Pave Way for Success of MacDonald's Trip.

HOWARD DISCUSSES VISIT

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Formal invitation to Ramsay MacDonald to visit President Hoover will be extended this week by Ambassador Charles G. Dawes when the latter reaches London on Friday or Saturday, unless it should develop that the British premier has changed his mind about the proposed trip to America. The American Ambassador's first duty, therefore, will be to assure Ramsay MacDonald that President Hoover and the American people generally will be honored and delighted to welcome him.

Sir Esme Howard, the British Ambassador, conferred with Secretary of State Stimson yesterday, and the matter of the British premier's probable visit was discussed informally, but the definite announcement of an official invitation and acceptance is expected to come after Ambassador Dawes reaches London.

Incidentally, Ambassador Dawes will confer with the British prefier relative to matters which may profitably be discussed in advance of the premier's departure for the United States. Gen. Dawes has always been a believer in the value of direct personal contacts between statesmen and will probably use his influence to encourage the British premier's American visit in case there should be any doubt in the British leader's mind.

Instructions May Be Changed.

Important instructions which the American Ambassador is understood to have received relative to Anglo-American matters may be somewhat modified as a consequence of the prospective American visit of Ramsay MacDonald, but there will nevertheless be opportunity for the Ambassador to pave the way for the direct-contact conferences which may later be held at the White House.

President Hoover presumably is anxious to know when the British premier may be expected to be in Washington, how long he may be persuaded to remain and what general program he may be desirous of following. All this information will be obtained by Gen. Dawes and promptly transmitted to President Hoover. It has been reported that the premier expected to come here in July and also stated that he would prefer to come in September. The time of the visit may be important because of the bearing it will unquestionably have on foreign policies in which both governments are interested.

With respect to the naval reductions program, for example, the prospect of a conference between Ramsay MacDonald and President Hoover in September would have the effect of holding American plans in abeyance until after that time.

Work on Gi son Formula.

As a result of the last Geneva conference of the preparatory commission of the League of Nations there has been a steady grind of preparatory work in connection with the development of the Gibson formula for measuring relative fighting strength of navies. This work has been going on without interruption at the Navy Department here. Until the suggestion of the new British premier's visit reached Washington there was some thought that definite preliminary steps might be taken this summer.

It is also understood that Ambassador Dawes was expected to confer with the British premier relative to the next steps to be taken in connection with the naval reduction program and, if possible, to encourage action with the least necessary delay. A feature of President Hoover's plan to focus world attention on this naval problem was to encourage action and to discourage the long-drawn-out intervals which have so far followed each European conference on the subject.

It will be possible for Ambassador Dawes to explain to Ramsay MacDonald some of the peculiar difficulties which confront President Hoover in developing any foreign policy at this time. This will tend to obviate differences of viewpoint which otherwise might retard rather than promote the peace and naval reduction program to which both President Hoover and the British Premier are pledged.

Will Align Viewpoints.

Without these preliminary explanations, Ramsay MacDonald might find that certain of his announced policies would not altogether harmonize with the announced program of Mr. Hoover. An example of this was noted immediately after the new British Premier's election when it was stated on his behalf that freedom of the seas was the fundamental problem in naval reductions and that the cruiser problem, involving the proposed formula for measuring relative naval strength, was "rather subsidiary." As President Hoover had already stated that he regarded the formula as of fundamental importance, there was the prospect of a sharp divergence of viewpoint at the very outset of the new premier's regime. With the ground properly prepared in advance by Ambassador Dawes, it may be practicable to include freedom of the seas and the reduction problem based on the Gibson formula in the same conference so that both the Ramsay MacDonald and Hoover viewpoint may be given equal consideration at the same time.

Ambassador Hugh Gibson, America's chief representative at the last Geneva naval conference, probably will be in Washington when the British Premier arrives here, especially if it is deemed important for him to be available and in a position to provide latest information on the progress of the naval reductions work growing out of the last conference.

TRUST LAW VIOLATED BY 52 OIL CONCERNS

Standard of Indiana and New Jersey Among Those Convicted in U. S. Court.

PATENT PROCESS POOLED

Chicago, June 11 (A.P.).—Fifty-two oil companies, headed by the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, were convicted of violating the Sherman antitrust law in United States District Court here today.

The opinion, which overruled the report of a master in chancery, found the oil companies guilty of restraining trade and monopolizing the oil industry by pooling their interests in various oil cracking patents.

Defendants in the suit, grouped into two classes, included, besides the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, the Texas Co., the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey and the Gasoline Products Co. One individual also was named.

Three members of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, sitting en banc as district court judges, heard the case. Judges Evan A. Evans and George T. Page delivered the majority opinion. Judge A. B. Anderson dissented.

Court Grants Injunction.

The court ruled the Government entitled to an injunction restraining the companies from further violation of the law and called for an agreement between counsel on both sides for setting aside existing patent pooling arrangements.

The majority opinion sustained the Government's objections to a report by Master in Chancery Charles Martindale, of Indianapolis. Martindale, after taking evidence for two years, recommended dismissal of the suit on grounds that the Government had established no case.

The Government charged the oil companies pooled the patent interests and forced independent concerns to pay royalties for the privilege of using the patents. It also was charged the independent companies were forced to restrict their territories so as not to compete with the defendant companies.

Counsel for the defendant companies maintained there was no monopoly and that the pooling of patents served a good purpose in that it reduced the price of gasoline by eliminating costly litigations in connection with various claims to patent processes.

The majority opinion held that the patent agreements of the oil companies stepped outside the limits of lawful monopolies which arose from the issuance of the patents.

Packers' Case Is Cited.

"The patent monopoly itself is a property right, and agreements in respect thereto must be subject to the same antimonopoly tests and any other property rights," said the opinion.

The court harked back to the famous packers' case, in which the Government obtained dissolution of trust formations, for precedent.

"There is no substantial difference between agreements entered into by competing packing companies respecting the prices at which, or territories wherein, their products may be sold and an agreement between holders of patent monopolies which fix the rates of royalties that shall be charged to the licensees," the opinion stated.

The minority opinion of Judge Anderson stated merely that the master's report should be approved.

L. L. Stephens, general counsel for the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, stated tonight that he could not say what action his company would take until he had conferred with other attorneys.

"The court holds that our patents are valid, but that pooling of royalties is illegal," Stephens said. "The ultimate effect of the decision can not be determined at this time."

B. & O. Vice President To Retire on Saturday

Chicago, June 11 (A.P.).—Frank C. Bathelder, 72, vice president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and president of its Chicago Terminal Co., will retire June 15, after 55 years of active railroad service. He began his career as a telegraph operator with the Milwaukee Railroad in 1873. He will be succeeded by H. B. Voorhees, general manager of the Western lines at Cincinnati.

WARDEN OF ILLINOIS JAIL KILLS HIMSELF

Edward J. Fogarty, of South Bend, Ind., Is Suicide at Nephew's Home.

SERVICE RECORD IS LONG

South Bend, Ind., June 11 (A.P.).—Two bullets today ended the career of Edward J. Fogarty, of South Bend, warden of the Cook County Jail at Chicago, Ill. He committed suicide at the home of Edward Keller, a nephew.

Fogarty, who for ten years was mayor of South Bend and for fifteen years warden of the Indiana State Prison at Michigan City, had been suffering from a nervous breakdown. He was 63 years old.

His sister, Mrs. Charles Keller, whose home adjoins that of Edward Keller, heard the shots and, rushing into her son's home, found Fogarty lying on the living-room floor. Fogarty's brother-in-law, Police Sergeant Charles Keller, responded to the police call and rushed Fogarty to the hospital, where he died an hour later without having recovered consciousness.

Served at Indiana Prison.

Fogarty became warden of the Cook County Jail September 1, 1926, after having served in the same capacity at the Indiana State Prison for fifteen years. He resigned the Indiana State position at the request of Ed Jackson, then governor and a Republican.

Fogarty, a Democrat, had served much of the time as warden under Republican administration, his ability to handle prisoners overcoming any political objection to his retention.

Fogarty made a friend of virtually every prisoner who came under his jurisdiction. It was his lifelong argument that every one of them deserved "a man's chance to make good." He prided himself that he knew every prisoner both in the Chicago institution and at Michigan City by his first name.

Made Prison Self Sustaining.

The Indiana State Prison was put on a self-sustaining basis under Fogarty's management. Gardens and the farm were highly developed, while the overall, weaving, shirt and shoe factories also showed profits.

Warden Fogarty always was reticent about discussing the worst side. Neither would he discuss the actions of condemned prisoners. It was said that Fogarty not once in his long career passed on to a subordinate the unwelcome task of pulling the switch which electrocuted condemned prisoners.

Organist, Ousted by Film "Talkies," Leaps to Death

Despondent After Losing Job at New York Theater, Helen Moyer Jumps 12 Stories From Hotel; Hint of Quarrel With Sweetheart.

New York, June 11 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Despondent over losing her position as assistant organist at Loew's New York Theater, where "talkies" replaced the entire orchestra Sunday, Helen Moyer, 24, today jumped to her death from the twelfth floor of the Hotel Belvedere.

Fate nearly forestalled the suicide, for a moment after she ripped away the screen of her widow in that hotel a telephone call summoned her away. She dismissed the woman caller with, "I can not talk to you now," and returning to the window leaped out.

Timothy Ryan, an actor, who lives on the floor below in the Belvedere, heard the screen ripping away, and several minutes later saw what he thought was a bundle of clothes dropping past his window.

He looked out and saw a pair of slippers caught on the courtyard railing and her crumpled body on the pavement.

Police found a $10 bill pinned to a blank piece of note paper in her room, but otherwise there was nothing to indicate the motive for her suicide.

Miss Eleanor Allen, the organist at the same theater where Miss Moyer was employed, said the victim had been employed there for four years.

Detective Walsh is also investigating a report she quarreled with her sweetheart. Police have been unable to learn his name.

Miss Moyer was a native of Herkimer, N. Y., where she is survived by her parents and several brothers and sisters.

SWEDE FLIERS HELD AT ICELAND HAVEN

Three Attempts to Take Off Fail; To Try Again Today, They Say.

GREENLAND IS NEXT STOP

Reykjavik, Iceland, June 11 (U.P.).—The Swedish aviators in the airplane Sverige returned here tonight after their third unsuccessful attempt today to continue to Ivigtut, Greenland, on their projected flight from Stockholm to New York.

Capt. Albin Ahrenberg said the third return of the Sverige was due to a gasoline leakage.

The fliers had covered more than 65 miles when the gasoline pipe was damaged. The same trouble forced them down Sunday night on their flight from Bergen, Norway, here.

Capt. Ahrenberg announced that he hopes to make another attempt to reach Greenland tomorrow.

The Sverige, which arrived here last night after having been forced down on the southern coast of Iceland by motor trouble, first attempted to depart from Ivigtut, 900 miles away, at 4:10 a. m. (12:10 a. m. Eastern standard time).

The plane failed to rise with its heavy load, however, and returned from the outer harbor. The fliers landed and waited until 6:35 a. m. before attempting to get away again.

After making adjustments on the craft they made a second take-off at 6:35 a. m. The big craft soared into the air and raced westward in clear weather.

The plane returned at 8:30 a. m. and landed in the harbor. Capt. Albin Ahrenberg announced that the propeller was faulty and, with his two companions, Lieut. Axel Floden and Robert Ljunglund, he worked over the craft again and changed the propeller.

The weather continued good, with excellent visibility, and the fliers departed again for the third and last time, at 4:23 p. m. (12:23 p. m. Eastern standard time.

The three Swedish fliers went to bed early tonight, announcing that they intend to start for Ivigtut again early tomorrow morning.

SAFETY FIGHT SEEN AS AUTO KILLS GIRL

American Motorist, and members of the Forest Hill Citizens Association are leaders in the fight for immediate traffic relief at the intersection where the accident occurred.

Reduction of the speed limit at the intersection from 30 to 22 miles an hour will be asked as well as the installation of traffic lights. Until the lights are installed, the citizens will ask for the stationing of a traffic policeman at the intersection.

Patch termed the most recent accident as much the fault of Director of Traffic William H. Harland as of the driver of the car. He said that he had asked the District Commissioners for relief at the intersection more than a year ago, and that despite a number of appeals since then to Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty nothing had been done.

Will Carry Fight to Congress.

Patch announced that if the Commissioners or Harland fail to act immediately that he will take the matter to Congress, appealing to the District committees of the House and Senate.

Montgomery said that he had appealed for traffic relief six months ago.

Four fatal accidents have occurred at the intersection within the last year, it was said.

The Forest Hill Citizens Association, at a recent meeting, condemned the situation in the vicinity of Connecticut avenue and Albemarle street and appointed a committee to exercise every effort to bring about relief. This committee is due to report to the association tomorrow night.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

WOODROW WILSON'S "Freedom of the Seas"—the first of the famous fourteen points to be dropped overboard at Versailles—is about to get plenty of publicity, at least, if not serious consideration.

Two members of the new British cabinet have written letters which have just been received in Washington, stating that the writers favored this doctrine.

Ramsay MacDonald is believed by Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, to strongly favor action leading to treaties for the absolute freedom of neutral commerce in time of war. He expects the approaching visit of the British premier to Washington to inaugurate a movement which may eventually lead to such a treaty.

"Watch the new British premier make a gesture in the direction of freedom of the seas, which the opposition of the British prevented Woodrow Wilson from accomplishing at Versailles," said Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, in the midst of her speech to the Democrats Monday night at the dinner in honor of Jouett Shouse.

Mrs. Harriman declined to amplify her statement later, but it is understood to have been based on the letters from new British cabinet members already mentioned.

* * * *

ALL of which is highly interesting not only from the international standpoint, but from that of domestic politics, in view of the divergence in views between President Hoover and Senator Borah as to the best method of going at this peace and armament question.

President Hoover has made it clear that he favors an armament reduction move first. Senator Borah is skeptical as to the possibility of success if the frontal attack is made on naval building programs.

He believed that the peoples of the United States, of Great Britain and of Japan, the three great naval powers, must become "peace minded" before much can be done toward reducing navies.

Incidentally the senator is not discouraged by the argument that the proposed "freedom of the seas" treaties might become mere scraps of paper at the outbreak of war. The importance of such treaties, he believes, lies in the moral effect their negotiating and being in existence would have. The mental attitudes of the voters would be changed towards the necessity, he thinks, of a great commerce defending or commerce destroying navy.

* * * *

RAMSAY MACDONALD, Senator Borah believes, as a result of a great many letters he has received from England, and from very careful study of the situation, is willing to give up the idea of Britain being "mistress of the seas." Only such at attitude, he thinks, would make it possible for him to have a serious idea of agreeing with the U. S. on naval reduction.

Emphasis is lent this view by the fact that the one class of war vessel most discussed in connection with the hoped for armament reduction conferences is cruisers. Not battle cruisers, of which this country has never completed a single one, but cruisers of 10,000 tons and less. In short, commerce defenders and destroyers.

"IF the people know that a treaty has been signed by the great naval powers providing for freedom of the seas in time of war, they will not be insistent upon a greater and greater navy," said Senator Borah. "If they know that the expectancy is the moment war is declared neutral rights are to be disregarded, they will want the navy. They will want it as a guarantee that the ships of their country will not be unnecessarily interfered with. I am for a strong navy myself under those curcumstances."

* * * *

BUT the chief opponents of Ramsay MacDonald, assuming his attitude to be correctly interpreted here, of President Hoover, and of Senator Borah, cynical observers point out, will be the British Admiralty and the American Navy Department.

First, in the nature of things, they do not want naval armament limitation. They believe that force, to be used only for justice and self-defense, of course, is essential. They are skeptical of the idea of Mr. Borah that treaties such as the Kellogg pact and the Wilsonian freedom of the seas idea, are inclined to make peoples peace-minded. They do not want their countries to suffer by unpreparedness when the call to arms begins the process of reducing treaties to scraps of paper.

* * * *

AS to freedom of the seas, they know just what they want, a diplomat remarked in commenting on the letters from members of the MacDonald cabinet.

"They want a maximum of freedom for our ships, and a minimum for the other fellow's," he said.

The British Admiralty was strong enough to block MacDonald's hopes for armament reduction in his previous premiership, and to block President Coolidge's hopes at the same time.

And there is no indication that Fred Britten's suggestion that the admiralty experts be ignored in an interparliamentary armament reduction parley has gotten anywhere.

22 of Eastern Star Chapters to Secede

Jersey Official of Order Says New Ritual Bars Non-Christians.

Asbury Park, N. J., June 11 (A.P.).—E. M. Biron, patron of Grace Chapter 106, Order of the Eastern Star, of Atlantic City, today announced that 22 chapters had resolved to withdraw from the organization and form a new order.

Biron said 200 officers, past and present, of the 22 chapters met here Sunday in secret session to organize the "All Around Social Club," an order which, like the Eastern Star, would admit only close relatives of Master Masons.

The withdrawal, he said, was the result of the adoption three years ago of a ritual requirement which made the Order of Eastern Star "strictly Christian instead of nonsectarian."

Ten thousand members in New Jersey who profess the Jewish and other faiths, he added, "can have no other alternative than to withdraw from the order."

The new organization, of which Biron was named temporary president, will be "strictly nonsectarian."

WARSHIP TO DEFEND DUTCH FROM REBELS

Martial Law Declared at Curacaq to Foil New Venezuelan Raid.

MOB, DEFEATED, FLEES

Willemstad, Curacao, Dutch West Indies, June 11 (A.P.).—Martial law was proclaimed here yesterday to guard against any repetition of the successful raid made by Venezuelan revolutionists on Saturday night.

The governor of this Dutch colony, who was kidnaped by the raiders and forced to act as a hostage until they had safely landed in Venezuela, said today he was fully confident that the additional precautions taken would frustrate any further attempts by either Venezuelan rebels outside the colony or those possibly still on the island.

Public calm received additional encouragement today with the publication of news that Dutch warships were en route here from Holland to furnish additional protection.

Ate Ship's Provisions, Says Captain.

Caracas, Venezuela, June 11 (U.P.).—First details of the bold raid of Venezuelan rebels on the Dutch port of Willemstad, Island of Curacao, and the capture of an American ship which they forced to transport them to the mainland, were revealed today by Capt. A. T. Morris, of the S. S. Maracaibo.

The Maracaibo, which was commandeered by the rebel band of more than 400 men, arrived at La Guira, port of Caracas this morning.

Capt. Morris revealed that his radio messages sent immediately after the rebels had left the ship on Venezuelan soil notified the government of the danger and prepared them for the attack on the military garrison at Vela de Coro. The attack was repulsed.

The captain said the rebels ate up his entire stock of provisions.

Rebels in Joyous Mood.

Morris described how the revolutionaries attacked the garrison of Fort Amsterdam at Willemstad, abducted the governor of the island after dragging him from his bed, and forced the military commander to accompany them as they sailed away in the Maracaibo.

The rebels, who later attacked the garrison at Vela de Coro and were defeated, were in joyous mood when they seized his ship, Morris said. They shouted: "On to Caracas! Nobody can stop us!"

The captain said several men boarded his ship at Willemstad Saturday night, demanding that he transport them to Venezuelan soil, near Coro. He said he energetically refused.

A few minutes later about 400 men appeared, bringing the governor. The governor advised Capt. Morris not to resist the rebels, who already had attacked the fort and killed several of its defenders.

Revolvers Aimed at Captain.

A rebel guard was placed around the vessel and two of the leaders held revolvers aimed at the captain, threatening to kill him if he did not carry them to Venezuela, he said. The other officers on the vessel also were forced to obey at the point of guns and the captain of the island military was brought aboard a prisoner.

The rebels then ordered the ship's whistle sounded ten times, which was a prearranged signal to their confederates who had captured the fort, Rafael Simon Urbina, former Venezuelan general, commanded the rebels.

Shortly after the signal was given auto trucks bearing provisions and arms and munitions from the fort arrived at the dock and the supplies were loaded on the Maraclabo.

Shouting and singing, the rebels forced the officers to put the vessel out to sea. They anchored 3 miles off the Venezuelan coast near Vela de Coro and landed their supplies. Three of the ship's boats were broken.

After the landing the rebels permitted the Maracaibo to return to Willemstad.

The government announced tonight that Gen. Gabriel Lacle was killed when the rebels later attacked the garrison at Vela de Coro. Lacle was in command of the garrison.

The defeated rebels fled to the mountains after the attack on the garrison.

Munson Line Freighter Hits Reef Near Bahamas

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—The Munson Line freighter Munalbro is aground on Nucaras Reef off the Bahama Banks, the line officers here said today. She is in no immediate danger. The Munalbro, which left Baltimore June 3 for Felton, Cuba, went aground yesterday and had been unable to free herself. She carried no passengers. Details of the freighter's condition were not given. The salvage tug Warbler has been dispatched to her assistance.

Leviathan's Steward Can't Guess Right on Rum Needed

Dumped 100 Bottles Overboard on First Trip and Ran Dry in Midatlantic on Second; Now Wants Somebody to Invent Passengers' Thirst Tester.

New York, June 11 (U.P.).—A young man's fancy in spring is no more uncertain a quantity than the amount of alcohol required to make a given number of passengers feel that they have had a thoroughly successful crossing of the Atlantic, Chief Steward William J. Linn, of the recently dampened liner Leviathan, admitted sadly today.

Chief Steward Linn is an old salt, who can estimate to a pod how many green peas will take the Leviathan safely across. When it comes to lamb chops he can draw it as fine as the next. Generally, when the Leviathan pulls up in the North River somebody is just polishing off the last lamb chop. But when it comes to liquor, Linn has fallen down twice in two tries.

On the Leviathan's first westward passage as a wet ship, more than 100 bottles of whisky, champagne and liqueurs were tossed overboard at the 12-mile limit. And on its second, to the humiliation of the chief steward, the vessel went dry practically in Midatlantic.

In consequence, the following notice was inserted (free) in a New York evening newspaper today:

"Wanted—A thirst tester for Leviathan passengers. The instrument will be used on all passengers coming on board at Cherbourg and Southampton for the westbound trip. It must be painless or even pleasant of application. It should tell within a few swallows of how much alcohol each will want up to Ambrose Light. Inventor will receive a liberal reward from William J. Linn, chief steward."

"Why not?" Linn asked today. "They've invented gadgets to carry in your pocket to detect wood alcohol. There's really a fortune in it for the one who can judge accurately."

Linn explained that he was at a loss to account for the sponge-like qualities of the last batch of Leviathan guests as compared with the vitreosity of the preceding one, because he forecast the probable liquor consumption by the same mathematical tables.

In estimating the humidity expectations of 1 000 passengers—about the average at this season—Linn sets it arbitrarily at the equivalent of 200 quarts of whisky. That is, he counts four quarts of champagne as equal to one of whisky and two quarts of port or other heavy wine as equal to one. That makes it one quart of hard liquor for every five passengers.

"If we sold on the trip to Europe, we should need three times as much," said Linn. "Going over, everybody is feeling gay and out for a holiday. Coming back they've spent their money and see nothing but work ahead. They've had a big time, had all they wanted to drink, and are feeling like the morning after."

But everything having to do with the amount of liquor a given number of people will consume during a given number of days, Linn added, is pure guesswork. He has seen days on wet ships "when the bar didn't do $2 worth of business." Then the next day a mass impulse to have a drink would sweep the entire ship and the bar would be swamped.

It is a situation that saddens and harasses Chief Steward Linn. The Leviathan is sailing again Wednesday and soon he will have to make up his mind once more. He wishes that somebody would invent that five-day thirst-forecaster immediately.

Court of Claims Judge and Former Treasury Aid Is Heart Victim.

Judge McKenzie Moss, of the Federal Court of Claims, a former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, died at the Emergency Hospital last night of heart disease.

Judge Moss came to Washington from Bowling Green, Ky., to accept the appointment of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of public buildings in March, 1923, and served until he was named a judge of the Court of Claims by President Coolidge in June, 1928.

Judge Moss has been in ill health for some time. He was born in Christian County, Ky., January 3, 1868. He was a member of the Fifty-seventh Congress. He served as a circuit judge in Kentucky from 1901 to 1921 and then resigned to accept the post of general counsel to the Alien Property Custodian, serving until February, 1922, when he was named Deputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Norfolk, Va., June 11 (A.P.).—Two amphibian air liners, inaugurating New York-Buenos Aires air mail service, arrived at the Hampton Roads Naval Air Station today from Washington. The first of the craft came in at 9:40 a. m. and hopped off for Charleston, S. C., 50 minutes later.

The second arrived at 3:30 p. m., and will resume flight early tomorrow morning with the expectation of making Tampa before night fall.

HUDDLESTON BLOCKS VOTE ON AIRPORT BILL

undoubtedly would be used to a large extent by the Federal departments, especially the Department of Commerce and the Postoffice Department.

When Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was testifying before the Congressional Airport Commission, he declared that Washington should have an air terminal that would be a model for the Nation. And he was sure, he added, that the people of the country felt the same way about it.

When the airport commission drafted the resolution that was blocked yesterday by Huddleston, it provided that once the Federal Government had contributed $500,000 toward the national airport, subsequent appropriations toward that project should be carried in the regular District of Columbia appropriations bills. It is expected that within the next ten years something like $6,000,000 will be spent on the airport, or on several airports.

The District Commissioners had asked that the airport be paid for on a 50-50 basis—that is, half by the Federal Government and half by the District Government. Under the terms of the pending resolution, however, the District would have to pay nearer 75 per cent of the total.

Inasmuch as President Hoover had indorsed the resolution, it was expected that the House would adopt it without hesitancy. When Chairman Wood called it up yesterday, however, a somewhat fiery debate ensued.

Representative Schafer (Republican), of Wisconsin, wanted to know how the $500,000 was to be spent and what land was to be bought. He concluded by denouncing the plan to buy the land secretly. Representative La Guardia (Republican), of New York, joined in the denunciation.

Representative Underhill (Republican), of Massachusetts, who introduced the resolution, declared that it had been his ambition ever since he had been in the House to see Congress buy land here without paying tribute to the real estate operators.

He told how the Federal Government had to pay $50,000,000 for the Pennsylvania Avenue-Mall triangle, an area that it might have had for $15,000,000.

If Congress adopts the airport resolution, Underhill declared, and makes the $500,000 available so that the land can be purchased before the owners start boosting the price, $2,000,000 will be saved the taxpayers.

When Schafer insisted on knowing where the desired land was located, Underhill declared that it was not even in the District. At this point, the debate became somewhat heated. Underhill urged Schafer not to enter into a conspiracy to hold up the District, but later withdrew the statement.

Representative Byrns (Democrat), of Tennessee, said he was not impressed with the argument that the resolution was an emergency measure. In his opinion, he said, the local taxpayers should pay the entire cost of the airport.

Representative Dyer (Republican), of Missouri, disagreed with Byrns. The airport, he said, would be a national project rather than a District project.

The resolution then was in a position to be acted on, Schafer having withdrawn his objection. Huddleston, however, entered an objection at this point and the resolution went over.

FOURTH MAN IS DEAD IN SUICIDE OUTBREAK

Birmingham Business Leader Shoots Himself After Three Other Deaths.

YOUTH, 18, ALSO IS VICTIM

Birmingham, Ala., June 11 (A.P.).—Howard Fulenwider, 35, prominent Birmingham business man, was found dead from a bullet wound in the temple in his rooms at a fashionable apartment-hotel here today. Fulenwider was the fourth person to meet a violent death in Birmingham since yesterday morning.

Fulenwider's body was found by his mother, who made her home with him. She told Coroner J. D. Russum she heard the fatal shot but did not connect it with her son. She said he had been in ill health. A brother, Leslie Fulenwider, of Atlanta, is here on a visit. The coroner issued a verdict of suicide.

Frank S. Coleman, 18, fired a bullet into his brain last night after discussing with members of his family the murder-suicide, twelve hours earlier, of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Wix. After asking his mother, Mrs. F. W. Coleman, which produced death the quicker, a bullet in the brain or in the heart, he walked out the door and shot himself. The coroner's verdict was suicide.

Mr. and Mrs. Wix, friends of the Colemans, were found dead in their room at a hotel they operated. The coroner's findings were that Wix killed his wife, then himself, after a quarrel. They had two sons.

In addition to his real estate business Fulenwider operated automobile agencies in Decatur, Tuscaloosa and Atlanta.

HOOVER OIL POLICY FOUGHT IN SENATE

ernors of oil-producing States participated.

The discussion was punctuated by denials that any "alarming" situation in the petroleum industry existed. Some of the delegates told the meeting that they had no authority to do anything more than gather facts and report back to their governors.

Prominent among these were the representatives from Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Troubled for two days by vigorous discussion of President Hoover's order barring public lands from oil prospecting, the conference late today began actual consideration of a proposed interstate compact designed to prevent overproduction and waste in the oil industry by controlling drilling and general oil development.

Official Delegates Meet.

The official delegates to the conference, four governors and personal representatives of seven other governors, met in closed session to discuss with Mark L. Requa, chairman of the conference, the general outlines of the compact.

The views and ideas of every oil-producing section of the United States have been presented from the platform. Mr. Requa's statement that he would urge coercive measures if the industry did not take advantage of the opportunity to cooperate was moderated and then brought under attack, and the atmosphere generally was declared full of highly controversial angles of the conservation problem.

Injection of the subject of Mr. Hoover's conservation order affecting the public lands of Western States had been incidental to the principal business as outlined by Secretary of Interior Wilbur, but its importance has been gauged by the persistent demand of the Rocky Mountain area for a rescinding of the order. Colorado, through its attorney general, Robert E. Winbourn, told the conference that it had a potential solution of the public lands problem which it would present. This, it was said, was a memorial, calling upon the Interior Secretary to rescind Mr. Hoover's order withdrawing public lands for exploration for oil and gas.

The demand of the independent operators, made through W. H. Gray, president of the National Association of Independent Oil Producers, that a tariff or similar restriction be placed on oil importations, was still being heard on the floor of the conference, but in diminished volume and whether this subject would be allowed to intrude any further into the deliberations had not been decided definitely by Chairman Requa.

One ruling of the chair, however, was considered significant. That was his decision that a resolution presented by independents of the midcontinent field calling for a limitation on crude oil importations and a rescinding of the Hoover public lands order was out of order. Later the chairman said any finding of the Rocky Mountain States could be brought on to the floor for consideration, and this was taken to mean by the representatives affected that the question of the Hoover policy would be thrown open for discussion if they so desired.

Oklahoma Man Speaker.

The day's harvest of addresses, concluding statements of position from every State party to the conference, as well as from numerous oil and gas associations, included one by John H. Rebold, representing the Okmulgee District Oil and Gas Association, which urged a tariff on oil as the proper means of eliminating overproduction.

Wirt Franklin, Ardmore, Okla., representing the Southern Oklahoma Oil and Gas Association, vigorously attacked Chairman Requa's expression regarding coercive government regulation of the oil industry in the event it was unable, after opportunities were afforded it, to eliminate waste and prevent overproduction. He declared that this was a "club over the heads of the delegates."

Chairman Requa himself at the opening of today's session, took occasion to amplify his Monday address. He said he favored "permissive" effort by the oil industry itself to solve its problems in preference to coercive regulations by the Government.

"As yet," he said, "the oil industry has not had the opportunity of exercising self government under a permissive effort, and until it has a chance to do so, coercive measures would be unthinkable."

E. B. Reeser, president of the American Petroleum Institute, submitted to the conference a statement of position on the part of that body which declared any "coercive power to create or enforce police regulations within any given State" could not legally be conferred upon an interstate commission.

Ching or King had a gaping bullet wound in the right side and another in the left side of his mouth. A cursory examination by hospital surgeons revealed that the bullet in the body apparently had passed through the upper abdomen and through the right lung. The bullet in his mouth was believed to be lodged in the base of the brain or the back of the neck near the spinal cord.

So seriously was the man wounded that surgeons had him taken immediately to the operating room for an emergency operation. The result of this had not been learned at an early hour.

Police stated that the man was taken to the hospital by Andrew Burnett Smith, of 498 G street southwest; Walter Smith, of 711 H street southwest; Charles A. Willour, of 717 Seventh street southwest, and Robert E. Howard, of 432 Tenth street southwest.

Auto With Liquor Cargo Taken After Short Race

HOOVER REQUESTED TO END DRY KILLINGS

Moderation League Chairman Addresses Open Letter to Executive.

RAPS AGGRESSIVE POLICY

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—Austen G. Fox, chairman of the Moderation League, tonight made public an open letter he had addressed to President Hoover in which he said: "It is the Executive alone who can put an end to the shocking and increasing assassinations of citizens by agents of the Federal Government." In recounting recent alleged crimes committed by prohibition enforcement officers, Mr. Fox said: "With the power that alone can put an end to grievance rests also the responsibility for the continuance."

His letter follows:

"A citizen finds in the first amendment to the Constitution his right to petition the Government for the redress of grievances. Plainly it is the Executive alone who can put an end to the shocking and increasing assassinations of citizens by agents of the Federal Government. With the power that alone can put an end to grievances rests also the responsibility for their continuance, who can doubt the abiding truth in the following statement:

" 'Our Government is the potent, the omnipresent teacher. * * * Crime is contagious. If the Government becomes a lawbreaker, it breeds contempt for law; it invites anarchy.' (Mr. Justice Brandeis in Olmstead vs. U. S.)

Aggressive Policy Scored.

"Yesterday F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League, in his first general survey of prohibition since the inauguration of President Hoover, said:

"Scores of Federal officials have adopted a more aggressive policy." The same day we read also the story of the killing in Minnesota—the latest result of this 'more aggressive policy.'

"Last month large numbers rose in the House from their worship at the altar of law enforcement and shouted their glee at the news that another fellow citizen had been shot to death, this time on the streets of the National Capital. Today we read that they all sat silent under the denunciation of the killing of the day before.

Riot Gun Employed.

"The Minnesota assassin took no chance of missing his victim. He used a 'riot gun,' put 26 bullets into the automobile, killed his man and barely missed two children and their mother.

"Too long has this 'more aggressive policy' resulted in assassination on land and sea. The men who put 'riot guns' in the hands of the men whom they send to 'patrol' the highways and the Great Lakes, or the sea, are removable, every one of them, by the President.

"Read the news from International Falls, Minn., today. 'Citizens of the town gathered in groups about the jail and discussed the advisability of going armed when motoring to protect themselves against similar attack.'

Tourists Leave Vicinity.

"With 'border patrolmen armed with .45-caliber pistols and repeating shotguns on the highway tourists are leaving for their homes.' The assassin White, was reported as 'still on the Government pay roll last night.'

"In closing, I repeat the words of warning that these assassinations by Federal agents are the very thing that 'lead to anarchy.' Make no mistake, Mr. President.

"When citizens arm in common defense against officers of the Federal Government who shoot at will, is it anarchy, or is it revolt? It was your immediate predecessor who told the American Bar Association that attempts to force an unacceptable law on an unwilling people would 'end only in revolt.'"

Business Men's Groups Plan Outing on July 24

At its regular meeting last night at 1419 Park road northwest, the Columbia Heights Business Men's Association voted to hold its annual outing in conjunction with the Georgia Avenue Business Men's Association at Marshall Hall on July 24.

The meeting was addressed by W. W. Cornette and W. L. Ford, of the Columbia Heights Citizens Forum; President Christopher Lenkuhl and Secretary E. W. Cooper, of the Petworth Citizens Association, and Milton Coolmer and Walter D. Beller, of the Georgia Avenue Business Men's Association. Edward R. has been supervising the organization of dry forces, that an investigation of the Minnesota slaying would be started at once by Treasury officials.

Would Give Widow $25,000.

Representative Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin, introduced a bill authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to pay $25,000 to Mrs. Virkkula, widow of the slain man, regardless of the outcome of the Treasury investigation.

Representative Hudson (Republican), Michigan, introduced a bill providing for immediate consolidation of all Federal law enforcement branches operating on the border into a United States border patrol. He would not wait for the joint congressional commission to investigate the feasibility of such a move.

Detroit, June 11 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The prohibition enforcement army in Detroit is swelling its ranks hourly today. Agents are pouring in from the East and West, the North and the South, to join in what the Government dry chiefs predict will be the most devastating drive ever directed against rum smuggling in the United States.

This mobilization coincided with another shooting by a border patrol agent, in which Archibald Eugster, 21, who said he was a fisherman, was dangerously wounded.

Between 70 and 100 new agents had arrived in the city today. New men were lounging about prohibition headquarters awaiting orders. It is understood the force will be raised to 400 agents.

Organization Parley Held.

Yesterday there were only 144 customs border patrolmen, 40 Coast Guardsmen and 35 Federal agents on duty in this area. The Coast Guardsmen man five 60-foot cutters, armed with 5-pound rifles and machine guns. The fleet is augmented by several speed boats.

As the new agents arrive their commanders were in the office of Edward R. Norwood, who has been delegated high chief of all the forces here. They were mapping out a campaign of action.

"An organization meeting," explained Norwood.

Those attending the "organization" meeting in Norwood's office included Thomas E. Stone, prohibition administrator for Michigan; Thomas H. Brennan, his chief aid; Elmer J. Lewis, of Montreal, chief of the special Treasury agents in the Eastern Division; Daniel Rankin, a prohibition agent; Walter S. Petty, assistant collector of customs, and Bernard Waite, deputy chief of national customs.

From Washington comes the possibility that martial law may be established by the Marine Corps in Detroit and along the 100-mile "front" as a means of stopping the flow of liquor across the international border.

Norwood's work of welding customs, prohibition and Coast Guard forces into one unit starts today with several meetings with various dry officials.

United States Defends Shooter.

The Federal Government stepped in today to defend Jonah Cox, customs border patrol agent, who wounded Archibald Eugster, 21, a reputed fisherman. Eugster, shot from ambush in the River Rouge slip off the Detroit River at 2 a. m. today, is in Delray Industrial Hospital, and is expected to die.

Assistant District Attorney Gregory H. Frederick was assigned to defend Cox. With the Government attorney in attendance, Cox was questioned by Assistant Prosecutor Van H. Ring. Later Frederick grilled the three companions of Eugster, who claim the patrolman opened fire without warning.

Cox's story of the affray was that he had been stationed on the river bank to guard a sunken boat loaded with liquor. He said from ambush he watched a motor boat containing the youths come down the stream. He yelled for them to stop and, when they failed to heed, fired four shots over their heads. The men beached the boat, he said, and started toward him in single file.

"As they walked toward me the man in front (Eugster) played a flashlight on my hiding place," Ring quotes Cox as saying. "I thought I saw something in his hand. It looked like a weapon. So I let him have it."

Cox Not Arrested.

After the shooting, Cox said he retreated and waited for two other customs men to come across the river. The customs men helped Eugster into their boat and took him to the hospital.

Following a conference with Prosecutor James E. Chenot, Ring said no decision had been made on the action to be taken against Cox, who has not been placed under arrest.

Ring also took statements from the boys who were with Eugster at the time of the shooting. All deny running rum and none has a police record.

All the youths told detectives the same story. "We had been fishing out in the river and were returning the boat to a well at the foot of Oakwood boulevard," they said, "all of a sudden there were some shots fired.

"We pushed our boat into shore and jumped out in the weeds. I led the way because I had a flashlight. Then there was another shot and Archie dropped. He shouted he had been shot.

"I yelled in the direction of the shot and some one told me to halt or I'd be shot, too. We took Archie back to the river bank and in a few minutes a customs boat came and picked him up."

State's Attorney Aroused.

International Falls, Minn., June 11 (A.P.).—Charging that the shooting of Henry Virkkula by a border patrolman searching for liquor smugglers "was a culpably negligent act," County Attorney David Hurlbert today said that hostility to methods of enforcing liquor laws is outstandingly evident among citizens along the international boundary.

All automobiles passing through this district are being stopped he said, because of reports that liquor runners are carrying contraband across the border.

"Citizens here," he said, "are aroused against a system which allows an officer to shoot with great danger of life, and against a system which forces a motorist to distinguish after dark between a holdup man and an officer."

Emmet J. White, the patrolman charged with shooting Virkkula, remained in jail today after his arraignment on a charge of second degree manslaughter. His bail was set at $1,500, which members of the border patrol were attempting to raise.

Although White was under guard at the inquest Monday, no extra precautions were taken today to shield him against possible violence, Hurlbert said. Reports that deputies were patrolling streets near the jail in fear of an outbreak were denied by Sheriff Hugh Reidy.

Virkkula's body was taken to Eveleth today, where funeral services will be held tomorrow.

L. H. Frye, Crushed By Mount, Is Dead

Prominent Leesburg Man Was Training Horse for Show.

Leesburg, Va., June 11.—Leon H. Frye, 40 years old, prominent business man and horseman of this city, was fatally injured this afternoon when the thoroughbred horse he was schooling for the approaching Leesburg horse show fell and crushed him. He died an hour later at Loudoun Hospital.

The accident occurred at the old fair ground, which is Mr. Frye's property and where he maintains a large stable of horses.

Mr. Frye was a partner in the Frye Motor Co., of Leesburg, and was active in civic and social activities, as well as fraternal circles and the American Legion. He was well known in Washington, and was a member of the Army and Navy Club of that city.

He is survived by the widow, who before her marriage was Miss Clara Swartz, of Leesburg; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Frye; and two sisters, Miss Ruby Frye, of Washington, and Mrs. Fred Tucker.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed at a late hour tonight.

Three Persons Honored At Business High School

Two students, an alumnus and the school itself were honored yesterday at an assembly of Business High School, at which the speakers were Allan Davis, principal; James K. Wilkes and H. Clay Espey. The school honor was the receipt of the Brown Cup, offered by Brown University Alumni to the high school in the District of Columbia presenting the best play of the year. Arthur Deerin Call gave the cup.

Melvin Payne, a student, received the honor of having his name inscribed on the University of Michigan plaque as the outstanding boy of the school, while Bernard Margolius was given the Harvard prize book by Dr. H. C. Marshall, of the Department of Agriculture. George P. Barse, the alumnus, received a gold medal from the school for his efforts in procuring an appropriation for the institution.

Ape Man Held in Mexico Shouts "Wah Oo Wah"

Mexico City, June 11. (NYWNS).—A short, thick-set ape man captured today just outside the suburb of Mexicoac has aroused intense interest among anthropologists of the Mexican Ministry of Education. Unable to classify him, they insist that he is a throwback to an earlier age of the race. The captive keeps lustily shouting "Wah Oo Wah!" Otherwise he is entirely inarticulate.

The anthropologists who have been studying him describe him as entirely ape faced," with a protruding jaw, receding forehead, powerful shoulders and arms reaching to his knees. He walks flatfooted.

The creature is being held for further scientific observation.

Mother and Girl Found After Kidnaping Report

Police of the Tenth Precinct and headquarters detectives last night investigated a report of the kidnaping of a woman, Mrs. William H. Franklin, 4323 Iowa avenue northwest, and her daughter, after the woman's husband, a clerk in the Federal Reserve Bureau, became alarmed when he found them missing when he returned home about 9 o'clock.

The mother and daughter were soon located visiting neighbors in a house several blocks from their home.

Moore Named Chairman Of Foresters' Section

Barrington Moore was elected chairman of the Washington section of the Society of American Foresters at the last meeting of the season last night at the Cosmos Club. Morgan Pryse was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Problems of overproduction in the mineral industries were discussed by F. G. Tyron, of the Bureau of Mines.

Hearings on Tariff Bill to Open Today

Senate Finance Group to Hear Witnesses on Valuation.

(Associated Press.)

The tariff bill passed by the House May 28 after a journey of nearly five months through committee and floor debate will start its long and doubtful Senate travels today with the opening of public hearings by the finance committee.

The full committee, composed of eleven Republicans and eight Democrats, will receive testimony from nearly a score of witnesses on valuation methods.

Two of the four subcommittees organized to hear arguments on the fifteen rate schedules of the bill will get into action tomorrow. Between that date and June 24, two or three of these groups will be sitting simultaneously. On the latter date all four subcommittees will begin to function at once, hearing testimony on four of the most important sections in the measure—sugar, wool, metals and sundries.

2 Washingtonians Given Air Corps Commissions

Two Washingtonians have been tendered commissions as second lieutenants in the Air Corps of the Army, having passed the examination held in March, the War Department announced yesterday.

Edwin M. Day, 1311 Emerson street northwest, who was a second lieutenant in the Air Corps reserve, and James H. Wallace, also a second lieutenant in the reserves, were the two commissioned. They will be stationed at Langley Field, Va. Altogether there were 57 men throughout the United States who were successful in the examinations.

Naval Man Sued for Divorce.

Mrs. Joyce Newsom Forte, of 501 Twelfth street northeast, sued Joseph C. Forte, of the Naval Hospital, Chelsea, Mass., for absolute divorce yesterday at the District Supreme Court. Through Attorney Godfrey L. Munter, the wife charged misconduct with an unidentified corespondent.

Day in Congress

SENATE.

Met at noon and recessed at 5:08 o'clock to noon today.

Confirmed the nomination of Perry W. Reeves, of Indiana, to be a member of the Federal Board for Vocational Education.

Received the nomination of Frederick A. Tilton, of Michigan, to be Third Assistant Postmaster General, and the nomination of Robert S. Regar, of Pennsylvania, to be purchasing agent for the Postoffice Department.

Rejected the compromise farm bill, 46 to 43.

Campaign funds committee ordered the arrest of Thomas W. Cunningham, former sheriff of Philadelphia, so that he can be brought before the bar of the Senate for questioning in connection with the Vare-Wilson election contest. It also decided to ask for a rehearing in the court proceedings growing out of Cunningham's refusal to answer questions.

Senator Cutting (Republican), New Mexico, and Senator King (Democrat), Utah, criticized Mark L. Requa, chairman of the governors' oil conference at Colorado Springs, for ruling out of order a resolution to rescind President Hoover's order barring prospecting on public lands.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 2:30 o'clock to noon today.

Approved the conference report on the census and reapportionment bill. The Senate yet must act.

Leaders decided to take up the farm bill report Thursday.

Representative Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin, introduced a bill to authorize payment of $25,000 to the widow of Henry Virkula, Minnesota merchant, who was killed by a border patrolman.

Representative Clancy (Republican), Michigan, called on Attorney General Mitchell to investigate the shooting of Archibald Eugster in Detroit by Federal agents.

Representative Stalker (Republican), New York, introduced a resolution to transfer enforcement agencies from the Treasury to the Department of Justice.

Representative C. Murray Turpin (Republican), Pennsylvania, who succeeds the late Representative Casey, took the oath of office.

Radio Corporation Gets New Channels

Commission Authorizes Use in Domestic Message Service.

(Associated Press.)

The Radio Commission yesterday assigned fifteen new communication channels to RCA Communications, Inc., the operating company of the Radio Corporation of America, for use in a domestic radio message service.

The commission also authorized the company to use 96 of its transoceanic channels in the domestic service it proposes to establish.

Applications of Mackay Radio & Telegraph Co., Chicago Federation of Labor, Wireless Telegraph & Communication Co., and Intercity Radio Telegraph Co., were denied.

The Western Radio & Telegraph Co., was granted five high-frequency channels, three of them to be shared with Canada, and four low frequencies.

The commission had previously assigned 40 frequencies to Universal Wireless Communication Co., Inc., for establishment of a domestic radio communication service.

MEXICANS FLY RED FLAG OVER COLLEGE

Students Seize National U.; Take Professors Prisoners as Hostages.

OFFICIALS LATER FREED

Mexico City, June 11 (A.P.).—A red flag floated tonight over the main building of the national university, one block from the national palace, and the building was in undisputed possession of striking students. They occupied it this afternoon and seized and held as hostages the secretary general of the university, the director of the national preparatory school and several professors.

The iron gates at the entrance to the university were closed and padlocked tonight and none was allowed to enter. A student guard was behind the gates and the second floor balcony windows were crowded by members of the occupying force. Others were perched on the roof, two standing guard on a gable beside the flagstaff, from which hung the scarlet banner.

Several hundred other students and curious persons stood in the streets outside the building, but there had been no violence and not one policeman was in sight. The government evidently determined to give the students their way rather than permit an outbreak such as occurred early in the strike. Clashes between students and policemen and firemen then resulted in injuries to several on both sides.

Later the students released all hostages, but said they were determined to remain until the university rector resigns, which he refuses to do.

WORLD BEAUTY PRIZE IS WON BY AUSTRIAN

Greater New York won the title of Miss United States last night was unanimous choice of the judges for second place.

Selection of Miss Austria for the world beauty title was the first time in the four years of the international pageant that a foreign girl had won.

Those who competed for the title of Miss Universe, besides the three mentioned, were Miss Germany, Ingebord Grahn; Miss Cuba, Elvira Moreno; Miss France, Germaine Labord; Miss Holland, Johanna Koepmann; Miss England, Benny Dicks; Miss Luxembourg, Ketty Hipp; Miss Spain, Rusario Velasezquez, and Miss Brazil, Olga Bergamini de Sa.

The pageant, which reached its climax tonight, was called the most colorful yet staged here. There was no doubt regarding the international aspect of the show. Behind the horseshoe stage, facing the audience, were operators for six special cable wires to New York, for the press associations and foreign correspondents.

At 8:20, to the lively air of a march, the lights went out and before a black velvet curtain the contestants paraded, one after the other, at two-minute intervals.

American girls who were entered in last night's contest for the title of Miss America were allowed to compete with the foreign beauties tonight for places next rank to Miss Universe.

After Miss Greater New York, in the ranking of the judges, came Miss Ohio, with Miss Massachusetts third, Miss Dallas fourth, Miss Roumania fifth, Miss Oregon, sixth, Miss Cuba seventh, Miss Tulsa eighth, Miss California, ninth and Miss Colorado tenth.

As a result of their victories, Miss Universe won $2,000 in gold; Miss Greater New York, who came next won $1,000; Miss Ohio won $500 and the next eight won $100 each.

JURY FINDS KELLEHER GUILTY ON 23 CHARGES OF GAMBLING

ball Team and now leader of the Detroit Club; "Goose" Goslin, Joe Judge and "Stuffy" Stewart, members of the local team; "Curley" Ogden, former Washington pitcher; George Marshall, manager of the Palace Basket Ball Team and owner of the Palace Laundries, and scores of prominent merchants, attorneys and physicians.

The keystone of the prosecution, which was conducted by Assistant District Attorney William H. Collins, nemesis of the local gambling fraternity, was the testimony of Charles B. Payne, erstwhile employe of Kelleher.

Payne, Herbert C. Alton and Charles Turner were jointly indicted with Kelleher. After Payne pleaded guilty on May 6, 1927, the charges against Turner and Alton were nolle prossed.

Payne Denies Inducement.

Denying that any inducement made him by the district attorney's office prompted his plea, Payne declared that Kelleher and Attorney Wright advised him to acknowledge his guilt. He testified that Kelleher paid him $50 a week from May, 1926, until the time of the raid to oversee a black jack game and take race horse bets. He said Kelleher operated in the Investment Building until September, 1926, when he moved to 1413 H street northwest and declared the list of prominent persons read into the trial records contained names of patrons.

Alton also testified for the prosecution. He declared that on many occasions he visited the H street establishment and made bets with both Payne and Kelleher. He stated that he was employed as a barber in the same building and merely chanced to be in the gambling den at the time of the raid and was arrested.

The defense, with Mrs. Kelleher as the principal witness, was built around a contention that Kelleher was engaged in the real estate business and never had an interest in a gambling place. Through the afternoon session half a dozen former employes, business acquaintances and friends of the dapper sportsman took the witness stand and testified Kelleher dealt in real estate exclusively.

The charges against the sportsman resulted from a raid on the H street premises December 28, 1926. Throughout the preceding month Robert L. Shivers, an agent of the Department of Justice, testified he made fifteen or more bets with Kelleher and Payne and gathered the evidence necessary for the raid.

In arguing to the jury, Attorney Wright dealt almost exclusively with an attack on the Governments witnesses. He branded Shivers an "informer" and called Payne a "liar," who testified for the Government merely to save himself from a prison sentence. He pointed out several discrepancies in Payne's testimony on collateral issues and asked the jury to disregard the entire testimony of "the liar" for that reason.

Prosecutor Collins upbraided Wright for improper argument and charged that the defense attorneys attacked the prosecution's witnesses only because there was no defense of any consequence to discuss.

$500 Clothing Theft Told.

Theft of clothing valued at $500 from the Frederick Clothing Store, 734 Ninth street northwest, was reported to police yesterday by S. Levy, manager of the store. Levy said that the store was entered through a transom.

The committee authorized by the State Legislature to conduct the election was composed of Charles W. Hawkins, Isaiah Miles, George A. Patterson, judges; Robert W. Palmer, Richard Johnson, clerks, and Clarence W. Jones, and Dennis Edwards, alternates.

Coolidge to Revisit Wisconsin, Report

Trip Delayed, Is Is Said, Because of Illness of Mother of His Wife.

Madison, Wis., June 11 (A.P.).—A return to Wisconsin by Calvin Coolidge is in prospect this summer, according to State Senator C. B. Casperson. Casperson has been informed by Charles E. Lewis, Minneapolis millionaire, that Mr. Coolidge planned to take a vacation at the Lewis summer home in Polk County at the opening of the trout season, but his visit has been postponed because of the illness of Mrs. Coolidge's mother.

While on the Brule last summer, Mr. Coolidge visited the Lewis family at their summer home. Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Lewis have corresponded frequently since that visit.

The outcome of the Coolidges' plan to revisit Wisconsin depends upon the condition of the health of Mrs. Coolidge's mother, according to the information which Casperson has from Lewis.

ERLEBACHER F ST.

Mr. W. C. Sweat Tells How Cuticura Healed Tetter on His Hands.

"I had tetter so badly that I could not put my hands in anything or do my work. It started with a small, dry blister, and then the skin would peel off. It itched and burned so badly that I scratched, causing sore eruptions. The eruptions burned so that I could not sleep at night. I lost about two months' work on account of the trouble.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in a week I could see my hands were better, and in a short time I was completely healed." (Signed) W. C. Sweat, Mitchellville, Tenn., June 23, 1928.

MARYLAND U. CLASS OF 240 GRADUATED

Students Are Addressed by Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

55 ARE FROM THE CAPITAL

Training in making adjustments to changed conditions is of as great value in a college education as subjects learned, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture R. W. Dunlap told the 240 members of the graduating class at the University of Maryland at College Park, Md., yesterday. Much of the information gathered in college life is out of date before it can be used and some there is never a use for, the secretary declared.

Mr. Dunlap traced the growth of transportation and the changed conditions of the agricultural world since his graduation from Ohio State University. He declared that it is impossible to forecast the rapid strides in mass production and group farming made possible by the advance in machinery.

Included in the 240 graduates were 55 from Washington, and a number were residents of the suburbs of the District of Columbia. The diplomas were awarded by Dr. Albert F. Woods, former president of the university, and the prizes were presented by Dr. Raymond Allen Pearson, president of the university. Col. Clarence Deems presented the military commissions. The invocation and benediction were offered by the Rev. B. P. Robertson, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Hyattsville.

Capital Men Invent Method To Improve Movie Films

Tom Moore, Pioneer Screen Exhibitor, and L. L. Steele Demonstrate Process That Makes Projection Machine Material Less Inflammable.

Successful demonstration of a new method of treating the surface of commercial motion picture film in New York yesterday presages vast saving to the industry in both time and money and promises added fame to two Washington men who invented and perfected the process.

The solution was brought to its present state of utility in the Essem Laboratories in this city, owned and operated by Tom Moore, pioneer motion picture exhibitor and theater owner, who built and owns the Rialto Theater, and Lawrence L. Steele, formerly connected with the Bureau of Standards and also a resident of the Capital.

The solution, after many protracted tests and much laboratory experimentation, has been proved to render motion picture film more durable than the untreated product now in use; to make it more pliable, and to provide it with a surface that is unscratchable, another consideration of utmost concern to those engaged in the distribution and repeated exhibition of motion picture prints. The new preparation has also been found to prevent shrinkage and the consequent variation in running time that may occur in the case of any film kept long in commercial use.

While the new process has not been found to fireproof the celluloid entirely, it has disclosed the power to reduce the film's almost explosive combustibility to one of slow inflammability, thus largely reducing the fire hazard which heretofore has been principally combated by fireproofing of the projection booths of theaters.

STRESEMANN INSISTS ON RHINE EVACUATION

Renews His Campaign in Talk With French Minister in Spanish Capital.

DECISION IS NOT REACHED

Madrid, June 11 (U.P.).—Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister, renewed his campaign for removal of foreign troops from the Rhineland here today in a private interview with Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, of France.

The two foreign ministers, who have had prominent parts in settlement of Europe's post-war problems, agreed that a new international conference should be held as soon as possible. The conference, Briand told the press, would be for the purpose of carrying out the policy of settlement of war problems made possible by success of the reparations conference at Paris.

A final decision on the international conference, however, was impossible because there was no representative of the new British Labor government present.

Conversation Is Unofficial.

It was understood that Briand informed Stresemann that, in view of the absence of a British representative, their conversation must be considered unofficial. In conformity with the agreements reached at Geneva, it is expected that Germany will initiate the negotiations for the conference, the French foreign minister pointed out.

England must be consulted, however, before any action of a definite nature may be taken.

Ramsay MacDonald, the new British prime minister, has shown a willingness to cooperate in every way possible to further liquidation of European war problems and it was assumed that the British would be agreeable to the suggested conference.

The conference probably would be convoked in London, Paris or Baden-Baden, Germany, early in August, it was said authoritatively. England France, Germany, Belgium, Italy and Japan would be expected to participate.

U. S. May Be Invited.

The United States might also be invited, it was said.

In place of occupation of the Rhine Valley, Dr. Stresemann is seeking establishment of limited allied control as indicated in agreements last year, which were to become effective when the reparations problem was settled.

The meeting today marked the end of the famous conferences in which Dr. Stresemann, Briand, and Sir Austen Chamberlain, the former British foreign minister, participated regularly during the last few years. These meetings were the most important of any international sessions so far as development of European policy since 1925 is concerned.

Chamberlain's Conservative party was defeated in England two weeks ago.

CIVITANS TO COMPEL VOTING BY MEMBERS

Must Take Part in Elections to Retain Name on Organization's Roll.

NEW HOSPITALS PLANNED

Atlanta, Ga., June 11 (A.P.).—An amendment to its constitution making compulsory the voting of its members to retain membership in the organization was adopted unanimously today by Civitan International in annual convention here. The amendment to which there was no opposition provides that for membership an applicant "is upon his own statement, a duly qualified voter, properly registered, so that he may take part in local, State and national elections and thus fulfill one of the highest duties of citizenship.

A proposal to build four sanitariums for treatment of tuberculosis also was considered by the convention and received favorable support. The proposal made by Fred Lykes, of Asheville, N. C., provides for the expenditure of approximately $1,000,000 with the locations suggested as Denver, Colo., El Paso Tex.; Asheville and Saranac Lake, N. Y.

Mr. Lykes proposed that the projects be financed through the contributions of Civitan members. The sale of preferred stock certificates and issuance of first mortgage bonds were suggested and to obtain sinking funds, a special form of life insurance policies would be issued on the lives of members. Definite action on the proposal was deferred for the time being.

Catts Trial Is Monday In Counterfeiting Case

Tampa, Fla., June 11 (A.P.).—Sidney J. Catts, former governor of Florida, was ordered today to appear for trial next Monday morning on a charge of conspiracy growing out of his alleged connection with a counterfeiting ring. The trial date was set by Judge A. Akerman in Federal District Court here following a plea of not guilty, offered by the defendant.

Judge Akerman earlier had denied a demurrer and motion to quash a counterfeiting indictment against the former governor.

Plane, Carrying 3, Crashes Into Bedroom of Governor

Machine Lodges in Ceiling of New Jersey Executive's Summer Home at Seagirt, After Hitting Flag Pole on Parade Ground and Losing Wing.

Seagirt, N. J., June 11 (A.P.).—A Waco "ten" biplane tonight crashed into the roof of the "Little White House," Gov. Morgan F. Larson's summer home, and lodged in the ceiling of the executive's bedroom. The governor was not at home at the time of the crash.

The plane was piloted by William Taft, of Red Bank, who had as passengers Mrs. Olive Jeannine and Roger Ryan, both of Red Bank.

None of the occupants of the plane was severely hurt.

Mrs. Regina Larson, the governor's mother, was about to enter her son's room when the plane fell.

Firemen were called to extinguish a blaze which started after the crash.

Taft first took his friends to the parade grounds at Camp Larson, in front of the governor's cottage, and landed. The trio spent a short time conversing with Mrs. Thomas Hanson, wife of the secretary to the governor, and Capt. Harold S. Larson, nephew of the executive.

Taft experienced difficulty in starting his plane, which gained altitude slowly. He circled over the governor's house two times when he crashed into a flagpole on the parade grounds, ripping off the lower right-hand wing, and sending the plane into a nose dive through the roof of the cottage.

Dr. Metcalf, 61, Rests After Fall

Johns Hopkins Man Hurt as He Seeks Woman to Get Massage.

Portland, Me., June 11 (A.P.).—Dr. Maynard M. Metcalf, a research associate in Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, today was reported in a "fairly good" condition after a fall down a flight of steps as he sought a Mme. Helen for a massage treatment. The 61-year-old scientist was found at 17 Myrtle street late last night with both wrists broken and other injuries.

The masseuse lives at 11½ Myrtle street, and police said Dr. Metcalf apparently had mistaken the doorways and entering No. 17 had fallen down a short flight of steps just inside. Dr. Metcalf's chauffeur said that his employer had been at his summer place at Harrington, Me., and had stopped off here en route to Boston to meet Mrs. Metcalf and a daughter.

Baltimore, June 11 (A.P.).—Dr. Maynard M. Metcalf, injured in a fall down a flight of stairs in Portland, Me., is a research associate in zoology at Johns Hopkins University. For a number of years before becoming associated with the Johns Hopkins faculty he was associate professor of biology at Goucher College here, and before that had been a member of the faculty of Oberlin College. Dr. Metcalf was one of the witnesses in the Scopes evolution trial at Dayton, Tenn., in 1925.

MRS. HERMAN'S BURIAL.

Funeral Scheduled Tomorrow at Calvert Street Home.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home for Mrs. Babette Herman, 1945 Calvert street northwest, who was stricken suddenly yesterday at her residence. Burial will be in the Washington Hebrew Congregation Cemetery. Mrs. Herman came to Washington 65 years ago and had lived here since that time. She was one of the charter members of the Washington Hebrew Congregation.

Surviving are seven daughters, Mrs. Ben Rosenfeld, Mrs. Sol Oppenheimer, Mrs. Milton R. Ney, Mrs. Louis Kneheimer, Mrs. Samuel Ullman, Mrs. Florence West and Mrs. Leon Strauss; twelve grandchildren, five great-grandchildren, a brother, Meyer Moses, of Baltimore, and a sister, Rosie Meyer, in Germany.

BIGAMIST TESTIFIES IN TORCH CASE TRIAL

reverses which had come to him in the last five years after a period of success during which he lived happily with his legally wedded wife and three children, supporting them comfortably on a $25,000 a year income.

Until three years ago, when he was deprived of his savings through unfortunate real estate investments, his life was not unlike that of millions of other American business men. He had been successful in several lines of endeavor and had few worries to bring unhappiness to himself or his family.

The failure of a promotional scheme in Salisbury, Md., in October, 1926, appeared to have been the turning point. After that "everything seemed to fail through," he said. He suffered a nervous breakdown, took to morphine, mortgaged his home and moved to a small house in Westbury, N. J. He tried in every way to borrow funds, find employment or locate a partner to help him start a new business, but he was too old to be wanted then, he said.

When everything else had failed, he conceived of corresponding with women secretly through matrimonial bureaus, hoping to find one with enough money to start him in business. It was in this way he came in touch with Mrs. Mowry. She wrote to him first, he said.

"I persuaded her to let me have $1,000," Campbell testified. "I meant to pay her back as soon as I could, but money came slowly."

"Why did you marry her while you were living happily with your family?" Francis A. Gordon, defense attorney, asked.

"She seemed interested in me," the defendant said. "She believed in what I hoped to do. She said she had enough to help me through."

After the bigamous marriage Mrs. Mowry returned to her home in Pennsylvania, and Campbell told her he would send for her when he had established a home near New York. Finally she grew tired of waiting and came back, asking either to be allowed to live with him or to have her money back.

"I met her in Philadelphia," Campbell said. "I wanted to give her the money and get rid of her, for I was thinking of my wife and children.

"We drove to Salisbury, Md., and to Baltimore, but I could not arrange a loan at either place. I was suffering from neuritis and could not sleep, so I took morphine. Finally, we started back to New Jersey. By the time we approached Westbury, I was so nearly dead that I don't remember what happened.

"The next morning when I awoke at my home I saw red and an image of something on fire. I couldn't get the picture straightened out. I took bromides and morphine to quiet my nerves."

When Campbell had finished the story, court was recessed until the following day. Before he went to the stand his wife, Mrs. Rosalie Campbell, who has remained loyal to him, told of the financial worries and drug habits which left him morose and despondent, but said she knew nothing of the Mowry affair until his arrest.

The case likely will go to the jury tomorrow.

Reconciliation Halts Wife's Suit.

Suit for maintenance instituted against George C. Newlen in October, 1927, by Mrs. Nellie S. Newlen was dismissed yesterday by Justice Peyton Gordon in equity branch of the District Supreme Court. The wife, through Attorney Godfrey L. Munter, asked that the suit be dismissed because she has been reconciled with her husband.

GALLAUDET COLLEGE AWARDS 18 DEGREES

Former Chancellor Hamilton Is Speaker at Sixty-fifth Commencement.

LEADERSHIP IS STRESSED

Eighteen young men and women yesterday received degrees at the sixty-fifth commencement exercises of Gallaudet College in chapel hall. More than 250 relatives and friends of the graduates attended the exercises.

The Rev. John W. Hamilton, former chancellor of American University, who made the principal address, contrasting the methods used in educating youth today with those of several decades ago, pointed out that in former years the schools and colleges took the "empty shells called students, crammed them with a lot of Latin, Greek and other studies and sent them away as educated persons ready to battle with the world."

Under present methods, he said, the schools and colleges try to bring out the qualities for leadership and other capabilities already in the students and thereby are enabled to send them out better prepared to make their way through life.

Dr. Percival Hall, president of the college; Charles Russell Ely, vice president; Prof. Isaac Allison and Sam B. Craig conferred the degrees. The Rev. C. T. Warner, rector of St. Alban's parish, asked the invocation, and the Rev. Arthur D. Bryant, minister to the deaf at Calvary Baptist Church, offered benediction.

Those receiving degrees were: Bachelor of arts, Louis Mark Byouk, Glenn Arthur Gallagher, David Elmer Mudgett, David Pelkoff, Thomas Ralph Peterson, Otto Franz Reins, Arthur J. Roy Ridings and Robert Fowler Wilson.

Bachelor of science, Misses Ida Christine Hanson, Della Leonora Kittleson and Lera Carrie Roberts.

Certificate of graduation from the normal department, Miss Helen R. Allabough and Alfred Cranwill.

Master of arts in the normal department, Earle Kenneth Bouteiller, Lewis McLaurine Mayers, Dwight W. Reeder, Miss Ruth Claudia Vance.

Honorary degree of master of arts, Arthur Percy Buchanan.

David E. Mudgett, who had the highest standing in the class, delivered an oration on "The Unknown World—the Ocean." Miss Della eLonora Kittleson spoke on Norse mythodogy.

Byouk, Ridings and Gallagher were prominent in all athletic activities at the school, and Pelkoff, editor of the college magazine, won the highest rating in a course in English at George Washington University.

POST-FOX THEATER PLAN BIG CONTEST

Post, the Fox Theater here and the Fox Film Corporation have united in an effort to discover such talent among the thousands who make Washington and its environs their home.

There may be any number of Ina Claires and George Walshes hidden under a bushel in this area. Who knows but that a number of future Jackie Coogans or Sonny Boys are playing in the parks and on the lawns of the Capital? There may be George Fawcetts, Lon Chaneys and William Powells in many homes. Players who some day will grace the billboards as do George O'Brien, Lois Moran, Charles Farrell and Greta Garbo may be simply waiting for opportunity to call them.

Screen tests will show at once what potential stars exist in this vicinity. So The Post, the Fox Theater and the Fox Film Corporation are going to put on a Post-Fox screen contest, so that each and every man, woman and child may determine whether or not he or she has an appearance suited for the motion pictures.

Remember, the raving beauty of the community may not register nearly as well on the screen as some other girl who has not attracted any attention. Men and women who have passed the youthful stage may win recognition as character actors and actresses. Children, through some favorite expression, may win a place in the movie firmament which will bring them glory and riches.

All any one has to do to secure this screen test is to comply with the rules of the Post-Fox screen test contest, full details of which will be carried in a full-page advertisement in next Sunday's issue of The Washington Post. John E. Campbell is director-producer of the screen test contest for The Post.

There will be nothing difficult about these rules. They will be easy to obey and, once the spirit of the contest is felt, there will be a rush to land among the winners. Watch for this startling announcement, which may be much to you. It will be worth your while to read all about the contest, even if you have never had any aspirations to enter the movies. The screen tests will tell the story.

Confessed Hall-Mills "Witness" Sent to Prison

Detroit, June 11 (A.P.).—Kenneth Gladeau, 32, a Federal prisonere here, who on Saturday "confessed" to being a witness to the Hall-Mills slayings in New Brunswick, N. J., six years ago, today was sentenced to six years in the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kans., on Dyer and Mann act charges.

Authorities gave little credence to Gladeau's story. Francis L. Bergen, prosecutor of Somerset County, N. J., yesterday telegraphed Detroit authorities that he felt further investigation unwarranted unless more definite information could be obtained. Federal officers at Detroit said other "confessions" of Gladeau had proved groundless.

CITY IS UNDERTAXED, SIMMMONS DECLARES

by the action of the Board of Trade, whose members, according to the press, have stated that they are going to ask the President to appoint a national committee of economic advisers to study the problem of fiscal relations of the United States and the District of Columbia.

"Every study of fiscal relations that has been made either by the House or the Senate by the Bureau of Efficiency or by the Bureau of the Census—all of have demonstrated the fact that Washington is now, if anything, undertaxed and not overtaxed, and that the contribution of the Federal Government is not only fair but generous.

"Yet, as I say, we are in the annual campaign to try and get more money out of the Federal Treasury."

Simmons described as "absolutely false" a statement appearing in The Post to the effect that a $3,000,000 fund in the Treasury credited to the District is made up exclusively of the local taxpayers' dollars. The surplus og $7,000,000 in the Treasury credited to the District he said is made up of the joint funds collected from the general revenues of the District plus the $9,000,000 contributed by the Federal Government.

Referring to a statement in the same editorial to the effect that the Federal Government will be dodging its share of the expense of the municipal center project if that project is paid for through the sale of the District building to the Federal Government, Simmons said:

"Here are the facts about the present building. The land on which the building rests was bought and paid for, 50 per cent by the United States Government and 50 per cent by the people of the District of Columbia. The building was paid for the same way. It cost approximately $2,500,000; or, in other words, the present District Building, costing $2,500,000, is owned equitably 50 per cent by the District government and 50 per cent by the Government of the United States.

"My proposal was that we not divide it in that way, but that we pay the present value of the building to the District government and allow them to build a new building from the proceeds. The District has the user right in the building. I propose to buy that right for the use of the United States.

"It is estimated that this value would be about $5,000,000. I have advised the Secretary of the Treasury that I am willing to accept the value placed thereon by the present District assessor. In other words, I am proposing to pay the District of Columbia $5,000,000, or whatever they agree upon as a proper figure, in return for their investment of $1,250,000 and their right of user in the present building. And yet they complain."

Girls Held Bigger Than Antecedents

Those Entering Universities for Women Show Steady Development, Claim.

Chicago, June 11 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Girls in all the universities and outside the colleges are growing taller and thicker. Mrs. Katherine Blunt, of the University of Chicago has records from Vassar, Smith College, Stanford and the University of Chicago to prove it.

"The Vassar students today average almost 2 inches taller than their predecessors of 30 years ago," Dr. Blunt said. "In 1891-1895 the average girl entering Vassar was 63.1 inches tall, weighed 117 pounds and had a girth of 24.3 inches. In 1923-1927 her height had increased to 64.9 inches, her weight to 123.9 pounds and her girth to 25.4 inches.

"This change in height has been almost perfectly steady. If this is true of college girls, it probably is true of girls everywhere in the country."

Diet, lighter clothing and outdoor life is given by Dr. Blunt as the cause.

Circus Sues Tom Mix; Broke Contract, Charge

Ponca City, Okla., June 11 (A.P.).—Tom Mix, motion picture actor, who twenty years ago was working for the Miller Bros., of 101 Ranch fame, at $18 a week, has been sued for alleged breach of contract by the Miller Bros.' Circus, George W. Miller disclosed here today.

The suit, filed at Binghamton, N. Y., alleges Mix has broken a contract, signed with the 101 Ranch Circus last April at a reported salary of $7,700 a week, and has joined another circus at a salary of $15,000 a week.

Cleveland Man Slain In New Gang Warfare

Cleveland, June 11 (A.P.).—Sam "Black Jack" Todero was shot and killed late today in what police said was a fresh outbreak of gang warfare here in retaliation for the slaying eighteen months ago of "Big Joe" and John Lonardo, bootleg corn sugar merchants.

The theory of revenge which was said to have resulted in an outbreak of gang warfare in Chicago was advanced by Detective Lieut. Kurt Gloeckner and Deputy Police Inspector James Veasey, who ordered a relative of the Lonardos held for questionng.

Plot to Kill Soviet Atheists Revealed

Eight Workmen and Wives Arrested; Gorky's Life Was Sought.

London, June 11 (U.P.).—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Riga tonight said secret police at Moscow had arrested eight workmen and their wives on charges of plotting the death of Maxim Gorky, noted Russian writer; Yaroslavsky, Communist leader; Bucharin and other prominent leaders of the Atheistic Congress.

The dispatch said children of the workmen informed police of the plot. Police advised the congress to abandon its original plan to hold a banquet in one of the cathedrals at Moscow and sentries were posted at the hall where the delegates are in session.

The Atheistic Congress, which convened yesterday, is attended by delegates from all parts of the Soviet Union and from freethinkers' organizations in Germany, England and other countries. Yaroslavsky addressed the meeting yesterday.

Asbestos-Clad Men Attempt To Cap Flaming Oil Wells

Los Angeles, Calif., June 11 (A.P.).—Fire which broke out yesterday in the center of the Santa Fe Springs oil field, 12 miles south of here, burned uncontrolled today in two flowing wells. Ten derricks had been razed by the blaze, which had caused damage estimated at $4,000,000.

Officials of the Rio Grande Petroleum Co. were taking a roll call of employes to check rumors that a workman was seen engulfed in the first rush of fire and smoke yesterday. A force of 400 fire fighters checked its spread.

The burning wells, Rhode No. 1 and McKeon No. 2, both on the McAdams lease, owned by Edward McAdams and O. H. Rhode, had a combined flow of 4,500 barrels of oil and 28,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

An unsuccessful attempt to shut down the wells was made by asbestos-clad workmen, who advanced to the flames with streams of water played upon them. Tangled metal derricks late today were being dragged from the fire in preparation for a capping attempt. Should capping fail, a tunnel beneath the surface to the well casing will be made. This method was used recently to snuff out two fires in the same district.

Reports that a man was burned to death in the present fire were circulated after several employes said they saw a man running from the McKeon No. 2 at the time the fire broke out. They said the flames enveloped him. The well was operated by the Rio Grande Co. An immediate check of employes was impossible.

Farmer-Labor Nominee For Vice President Dies

Charlotte, N. C., June 11 (A.P.).—Dr. H. Q. Alexander, 66, for many years president of the North Carolina Farmers Union and nominee for Vice President of the United States on the Farmer-Labor ticket last year, died here today.

Captured in China, Missionary Is Safe

Dr. Holleman, American, Is at Taipusien, Having Escaped Bandits.

Amoy, China, June 11 (A.P.).—Dr. C. H. Holleman, American Presbyterian missionary, who was captured by bandits on May 23, informed his wife by letter today that he was safe at Taipuhsien, in northeast Kwangtung.

Dr. Holleman wrote that he was at the British Presbyterian Mission Hospital at Taipuhsien, although no foreigners were there, all having been evacuated because of warfare in that area. He said that the fighting between Taipuhsien and Swatow had prevented his escape to the latter place.

The American consul at Swatow is sending two Chinese detectives to Taipuhsien to assist Dr. Holleman to Swatow. The U. S. S. Tulsa, which is assisting in the Holleman case, was ordered to Swatow.

Dr. Holleman's letter was dated June 4. After his capture by the bandits he succeeded in escaping and started afoot toward Taipuhsien.

FARM RELIEF IN DANGER.

Farm relief has again been delayed and imperiled by a majority in the Senate, which refused yesterday to adopt the conference report proposing to eliminate the debenture provision. If the House should refuse to vote on the debenture feature the farm relief bill will fail. Some of the advocates of the debenture in the Senate indicate their willingness to drop that feature from the bill if the House should defeat it by direct vote.

There is a strong feeling in the House that the debenture proposal is a bill affecting revenue, which can not constitutionally originate in the Senate. Many members hold that the House has already turned down the debenture, and they are opposed to taking a separate vote upon it. They intimate that the Senate majority is now trying to compel the House to assume the responsibility for accepting or rejecting the debenture, thus relieving the Senate from public criticism from either the advocates or opponents of the proposal.

The Senate majority adhering to the debenture plan is made up mostly of Democrats, assisted by men who claim to be Republicans but who for one reason or another are determined to discredit the Republican party in its effort to expedite farm relief. The political motives of the Democrats are obvious, and if they are willing to take responsibility for opposing a workable plan for relieving American farmers they are within their rights. But the public opinion of the country has already condemned the so-called Republicans who insist upon a provision which they know is so unacceptable to the President and the House that it never can become law. These senators deny that they are "playing politics," but there can be no denial that they are obstructing a farm relief measure that could become law, and that their stubbornness will not accomplish their ends, if their only object is to make the debenture plan a law. Even if the House should vote for the provision, a veto will kill the bill.

Explain and expostulate as they will, the Senate Republicans who have insisted upon the debenture will be charged by the country with disloyalty to their party at a time when loyalty is needed to redeem the pledge upon which the party was given control of the Government. The House, by voting separately upon the debenture provision, can not change disloyalty into loyalty, or remove the stigma that has been placed upon the Republican party for its failure thus far to provide farm relief. The renegade Republicans of the Senate may not be playing politics, but if they had made a secret agreement with the Democratic party to destroy the Republican party they would have voted as they voted yesterday.

ARMY-NAVY FOOTBALL.

With Representatives Fish and Britten interesting themselves in the West Point-Annapolis football controversy there is reason to hope that playing of the great service classic will be resumed at an early date. Since 1926, when officials of the Naval Academy informed athletic authorities of the Military Academy that they would schedule no more Army-Navy games until the cadets subscribed to the three-year eligibility rule, teams representing the two academies have not met. Until that time, the Army-Navy game was recognized as the climax of the football season. As a spectacle it was incomparable, and there has been general regret that the breach occurred.

Representative Fish has proposed a compromise, and Representative Britten states that if the Fish compromise is not accepted he will propose that President Hoover specify the conditions under which the games shall be played in the future. The trouble arose in the fact that the Naval Academy subscribes to the three-year eligibility rule that obtains in all American colleges, whereas the Military Academy has a six-year rule under which college stars are able to play three additional years of football at West Point. Mr. Fish suggests, as a compromise, that a four-year rule be adopted by both academies. The Military Academy has not indicated whether or not it would favor such a compromise, but information filtering out of the Naval Academy indicates that it would be acceptable to the midshipmen.

The fact that athletic relationships between the Military and Naval Academies are strained is not of national importance. Nevertheless, there is a general desire that the playing of Army-Navy games be resumed, and it is gratifying to the public to see signs of activity that bid fair to lead to the reestablishment of harmony.

OFFICIAL MURDER.

The killing of Henry Virkkula, Big Falls, Minn., merchant, by prohibition agents near Little Fork, Saturday night, in its essential elements, is similar to the other killings by prohibition agents of recent date. Here was a peaceful citizen, returning from an outing to his home with his wife and children. He was driving along a road utilized frequently by rumrunners, but there was no reason to presume that he was carrying contraband. Nevertheless, two Government agents ordered him to halt, and when, perhaps because he failed to hear their command, or perhaps because he was afraid that he was facing highwaymen, he continued along his way, one agent swung a sawed-off shotgun into action. The body of Virkkula's machine was pierced by 26 slugs; Virkkula was killed instantly by a slug that lodged in his neck.

The American judicial system is based in the presumption that an individual is innocent until he has been proved guilty. It is not up to the individual to prove his innocence; it is up to the prosecution to prove his guilt. Enforcement agents, however, frequently violate this fundamental principle. The agent who killed Virkkula acted on the presumption that his mere failure to halt proved his guilt.

Testimony of the agent accused of the shooting is illuminating. His story does not tally with that told by Mrs. Virkkula, who says that neither she nor her husband heard a command to halt. The agent says he was seated in a car with another officer when the Virkkula car approached. Both agents got out of the car, one bearing a sign with the legend "U. S. Customs—Stop" and the other with the sawed-off shotgun. Because Virkkula did not heed the command imprinted on the sign, or the verbal order to halt, the officer reached a verdict of guilty and executed the condemned man on the spot.

Another killing by a customs patrolman was reported yesterday from Michigan. The details of the killing have not been fully disclosed, but a young man alleged to have been innocent of wrongdoing is dead at the hands of an officer, who obviously had no means of knowing whether or not the victim was a lawbreaker.

Assistant Secretary Lowman, of the Treasury Department, is investigating these cases. The use of firearms by customs and prohibition officers is prohibited except in self-defense. Apparently this order has been flagrantly violated, with loss of innocent life as a consequence.

The free use of the highways and waters of the United States by law-abiding citizens is a right that will never be yielded by the people. No twisting of reasoning can make it right or lawful for any officer to shoot down an innocent man. The increasing number of official murders makes it imperative that the Government shall forthwith put a stop to the use of firearms by patrols and dry agents, except in defense of their own lives. All officers should be warned that the wayfarer is entitled to the benefit of the doubt, in case of suspected lawbreaking, and that firearms shall never be used to effect a capture unless the suspected party resists arrest by force.

Any bandit can paint a sign reading "U. S. Customs—Stop." If motorists were so foolish as to heed the wayside signals of strangers they could be held up, robbed, and murdered with impunity. A law-abiding motorist has a right to keep moving upon the highway. No law requires him to stop, and his safety may depend upon his quick escape from a robber posing as an officer. The refusal of a motorist to stop, whether he sees a signal or not, can not be used as justification for shooting him down.

The responsibility for killing law-abiding citizens upon the highway rests squarely upon the Government.

NO DUTY ON PETROLEUM.

Coincident with the opening of the oil conservation conference in Colorado comes a petition to Congress from the United Mine Workers for a tariff on imported petroleum. Government and State officials meeting in Colorado are trying to work out a program that will eliminate overproduction and waste from the industry. The coal miners are asking for a duty against imports on the theory that domestic oil would furnish less competition with coal.

The statement of the miners that fuel oil has made extensive inroads into the coal market are true. It is doubtful, however, if the proposed tariff on petroleum would afford any relief to the coal industry, and it would mean disaster for the oil conservation programe Less than 10 per cent of the crude petroleum consumed in the United States comes from foreign countries. In 1928 domestic production amounted to 900,364,000 barrels, which was 87,600,000 barrels in excess of demands. The surplus was further increased by importation of 79,583,000 barrels. Oil tariff advocates argue that the overproduction problem would be largely solved by excluding foreign oil.

On the other hand a duty on oil would result in increased production within the country with attendant wildcatting, waste and ultimately increased prices. All that has been accomplished toward conservation would be wasted effort. The United States would proceed to exploit its oil reserves at a reckless rate, while the rest of the world conserved its supply for future use.

A broad view of the situation is essential. This country uses a large percentage of the oil consumed in the world, largely because of its automobiles and extensive machinery. With only 13 per cent of the world's petroleum reserves, the United States is producing 72 per cent of the total annual consumption of petroleum products. The supply of oil is limited. If exploitation is to continue, and be accentuated by a duty on petroleum, the United States will have exhausted its oil reservoirs long before any other nation. Importation of petroleum would then become a necessity, and the country might have to pay dearly for its lack of foresight. National defense and prosperity for this machine civilization will be jeopardized when the domestic supply begins to fail.

The amount of oil importation is not sufficiently large to cause the coal interests serious concern. The interests of the country as a whole must be considered above those of a single industry. The problem is to limit domestic production to an economy basis, so that neither the coal nor the oil industries need be demoralized.

WASHINGTON'S VITAL NEEDS.

On Monday night the Citizens' Advisory Council approved a budget for the District involving a total expenditure of $50,641,855. This is approximately $2,500,000 above the total fixed by the Commissioners as the limit they will submit to the Budget Bureau and some $2,000,000 larger than the estimate made by the District auditor in the five-year fiscal program. The items that go to make up the $50,000,000 budget, in the opinion of the advisory council, are all of an urgent nature. Consideration of the list leads to the conclusion that none of the items could be dropped or reduced without serious consequences. The council holds also that the $1.70 tax rate is not higher than the rate imposed in comparable cities and should not be increased. The council suggests that the Federal appropriation of $9,000,000 is constantly becoming a smaller percentage of the total annual budget and should be increased as a matter of justice and to permit necessary public works.

It would be well if Congress were to study carefully the budget suggested by the advisory council. Not an item in it is subject to challenge. Not an improvement it contemplates could be abandoned or postponed without stunting the development of the city. A budget smaller than $50,000,000 will serve to put Washington on a starvation diet, and the Nation's Capital should not be so treated. There is no law to stand in the way of an increase of the tax rate, it is true, but there is a limit above which taxes may not be pushed without adversely affecting the growth and development of a municipality.

If the $9,000,000 lump sum is not abandoned in favor of a more liberal and more equitable method of Federal contribution the city will suffer. If the tax rate is raised the city also will suffer. In the keeping of Congress lies the fate of the National Capital. What does Congress want to make of Washington?

It is announced in London that plans are under way for the production in the United States of a seven-horsepower automobile. This should be cheering news to pedestrians.

COLLEGE SATURATION

By CHARLES FRANKLIN THWING,
President Emeritus, Western Reserve University,
In the New York Times.

The great annual increase of students in the colleges and universities has apparently come to its end. In 90 representative institutions, as shown by figures collected for the current year, as for preceding years, by H. R. Ratcliffe, of the Boston Transcript, the increase is less than 1 per cent. In the year 1927-28 the increase was only 2 per cent over the preceding year. If one were able to gather the facts for the 600 colleges and universities, it is possible that a slight increase would become a positive decrease.

This relative diminution stands forth in significant contrast with the increase for 30 years, an increase running from 120,000 to 850,000 students. The contrast also is equally impressive as applied to the second half of the whole period; in the 15 years covering and succeeding the World War the rise and the fall in the number of students was most striking. In the decade in which the war fell the increase was about 20,000 a year, but for the years immediately following the war the increase was no less than 50,000. In recent years, however, a neap tide has set in, which in the present year represents a stoppage or even diminution.

Several causes might be assigned for the earlier and vast enlargements. Among these causes are the greater supply of money in the whole community, the higher requirements of professional schools in demanding a college degree for entrance, the deeper appreciation of the college as a social force, the more general use of loan funds for impecunious students and the increasing complexity of business demanding trained men. These causes and others which might be named have apparently in certain degrees ceased to function. The degrees, of course, differ with different conditions, but in general it may be said that social movements go in cycles.

It would seem that the cycle of the enlargement of the college has run its course. It is apparent that the saturation point of colleges for receiving students has been reached. Many colleges are directly or indirectly limiting the number in their freshman class. Moreover, it is also evident that what may be regarded as the providing point of the American home for sending its sons and daughters to college has been reached. But whatever the causes, it is clear that in this year the number of students is no greater than it was in the year preceding. If one may venture a prophecy, it is probable that the number will also be statical in the year 1929-30.

Closely associated with the falling tide of attendance is the rising tide of individualism. For as the colleges cease to gain in number of students they are coming to give special heed to the students already enrolled. This emphasis is indicated in many ways and under diverse forms. As the masses cease to come to college, mass education also declines. The lecture system in the college represents mass education. The lecture system is one of the bad results of the influence of the German university over the American, as the seminar or seminary, so-called, is one of the good results. The academic lecture has its place as a method of orientation and of inspiration; but as a permanent form of intellectual discipline it is unavailing and unremunerative.

PRESS COMMENT.

Stop, Look, Listen.

Toledo Blade: Pedestrians have the right of way. And so, also, has the ambulance.

Poor Fellow.

New York World: This is also be kind to animals week, but for 51 weeks the pedestrian has to look out for himself.

Stepping Up.

Greenfield Republican: Our social position has just about reached the point where we are thinking seriously of iceless refrigeration.

Of Course.

Indianapolis News: It is assumed, of course, that the Rome fliers have Mussolini's permission to use his air after they pass over the Italian coast.

How Come?

Cincinnati Enquirer: It's pretty hard for the citizens of a "dry" nation to understand Sir Esme Howard's willingness to be temperate by choice.

And So It Goes.

Cincinnati Enquirer: The man who used to spend all his money in the corner saloons now turns it over to the corner filling stations which displaced them.

The Woman Pays.

Bennington Banner: A man in Brooklyn, sentenced for wife-beating, was instructed to kiss his wife every morning for six months. After all, it is the woman who pays and pays.

Maybe 'Twas.

Springfield Union: It is reported that liquor prices in Washington are considerably lower than they were just after the Jones law was passed. Was that the idea?

Leave it to a Bus.

Detroit News: Astronomers reckon that the planet Jupiter missed a collision with the moon by only 289,760,000 miles, but we imagine an interstate bus would at least have crowded it off a culvert.

Signs of Age.

Hillsboro News-Herald: Among the numerous signs that we are not so young as once we were is that we not only have no desire to own a sport model car but don't even want to ride in one.

Maybe It Would.

Ohio State Journal: We often wonder if it wouldn't be cheaper for a taxpaying consumer in the long run if Congress would put the infant industries on the payroll and give them regular salaries, instead of a commission on every sale.

Big Business.

Baltimore Sun: Nine clerks from outside have been drafted to help the lone postmaster at Menlo Park, because stamp collectors are ordering many thousand dollars' worth of the special postage stamps on sale there to commemorate Thomas A. Edison's first electric light. And whether Mr. Edison regards this as a suitable form of celebration is uncertain. The stamps will be saved uncanceled—a negation of their proper purpose that may seem ridiculous to the practical inventor. In the same spirit would be the hoarding of unused electric bulbs by the thousand in Mr. Edison's honor, but the bulb manufacturers seem not to have thought of that.

Waterway Tours.

New York Times: Waterway tours seem to be the fashion in official vacations this summer. President Hoover, deprived of any chance of getting away from Washington during the hot months, is planning a trip down the Ohio and Mississippi in the fall. Gov. Roosevelt is soon to start on his inspection tour of the State canals.

There he will be following in the track of the President, who took a quiet boat trip around New York State a year or two ago. The Barge Canal and the St. Lawrence both have a national as well as a State interest, because of the controversy over the route of the proposed deeper waterway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic.

Mr. Hoover in many of his public addresses has discussed the waterways as a factor in farm relief. As a result they are a live political topic. In making a vacation trip by canal and river a Chief Executive may combine recreation and politics.

Like Birds.

New Orleans Times-Picayune: We long have wondered why it was that early flying machines looked very little like birds, but that in exact step with the progress of artificial flight the machines have developed near and nearer to actual bird lines. It would seem almost as if man at first had refused to accept as a fact that nature knew what she was about when she built her feathered planes. Apparently the whaling industry is not to be so hard-headed. Any fisherman knows how the birds fly high so that their eyes may penetrate beneath the surface and spot the schools of fish, and from this the whalers have taken their tip. The latest big whaling company of Standefjord, Norway, has added a plane to its equipment, this to be used in "locating" the big fish—which aren't fish. If the undertaking is as successful as predicted, no whaler will be without its airplane pilot fish in the early future. Perhaps, too, in due time the fliers will not only spot whales but actually will harpoon them and maybe do a little aquaplaning behind the angry cetaceans.

A Whipped Collie Pup Becomes a Cringing Collie Dog.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

SIXTY years ago a farmer preacher moved to town and established his family in a rented house. His sons were superior to town boys in strength and agility, for they had grubbed stumps and pitched hay for years; but they wore country clothes and at once became objects of ridicule.

They fought their tormentors and won—usually by virtue of their copper-toed boots—but one of them, who had the fine sensibilities of an artist, suffered a humiliation of spirit from which he never recovered.

In later years he became prominent in one of the professions and few suspected the existence of his "complex;" but to the day of his death he remained resentfully self-conscious and inwardly cringed before brazen men who were far inferior to him.

Another boy ran away from home in his middle teens and joined the Army. He was proud and resentful of discipline, and in those days the Army was much more "hard boiled" than it is now. The result was inevitable—and tragic.

The boy learned to obey quickly; learned to stand uncovered in the presence of his superiors; learned to depend on those who had authority. He was "harness broke."

In civil life, years later, he acquired some wealth and fame; but he never outgrew the habit of obedience, and a sharply spoken command from an unknown bully would make him surrender his rights today.

He doesn't feel inferior to anybody. His broken spirit simply reacts to an angry command as a dog that has been whipped cringes before an upraised stick.

One more case. A woman who married well and now ranks at the top in the social life of her city cannot overcome the feeling that she is inferior to the women who envy her.

The others seem sure of themselves—conscious of their excellence—at ease in their exalted place; and she feels humble and grateful in their society because her spirit was broken in childhood by the shame of poverty.

The parents of the poor are reproached at times because they are extravagant and do too much for their children.

It is an undeserved reproach. The poor can't do too much for their children.

Torn stockings, a ragged sweater worn too many years, a garment out of style—things like these may engender shame that will break a child's spirit and handicap it for life.

At any cost or sacrifice the poor should protect their children from humiliation of spirit.

No experience in life is so bitter as the shame a sensitive child feels. The wound never heals.

Many an able man takes orders from an inferior because he was whipped in spirit before he reached his teens.

LEFT-HANDERS.

For centuries even the Latin word "sinister," for left, as opposed to the word "dexter," meaning right, has cast a slur on left-handedness. Statistics furnish a surprisingly constant ratio to prove that 4 per cent of the human race are naturally left-handed, as against 96 per cent who are naturally given to use of the right hand. But a recent magazine article by Robert Kingman, says the Boston Transcript, seeks to explode the popular notion that a left-handed person is unlucky because of his characteristic; on the contrary, the man or woman who favors the use of the sinister hand has been found to be rather above the average.

Kingman refers to records recently compiled to show the advantage of left-handedness in the world of sports. In baseball, the excellence of the "southpaw" hitter is well known. A "southpaw" tennis player puts up a game that is hard to beat. Left-handed golf players have never distinguished themselves as champion, and in general left-handedness is considered a handicap in polo, though in each sport there have been exceptions. Boxers find it necessary to develop the left hand, and several brilliant football players have been both left-handed and left-footed.

Many ambidextrous persons have been famous in history. Among the artists Michaelangelo, Holbein, Sir Edwin Landseer and Robert Pennell were skilled in the use of either hand. Sir James Barry and Sir Robert Baden-Powell are ambidextrous.

Kingman further indicates the dangers of mental and physical instability which threaten the child who, naturally left-handed, is forced to use his right hand. Nervous disorders of many sorts can be traced to attempts of this nature. Instead of trying to reverse a child's tendency to use his left hand, he should be encouraged to become ambidextrous, a condition which is known to make for more symmetrical development of both mind and body. Some schools in Japan and France seek consciously to train children to a skillful use of both hands.

Even Benjamin Franklin put forward a plea to "those who have the superintendency of education" in a quaint "Petition of the Left Hand."

"But conceive not, sirs, that my complaints are instigated merely by vanity," says the Left Hand, through the medium of Poor Richard's pen. "No; my uneasiness is occasioned by an object much more serious. It is the practice in our family, that the whole business of providing for its substance falls upon m sister and myself. If any indisposition should attack my sister—and I mention it in confidence upon this occasion, that she is subject to the gout, the rheumatism, the cramp, without mention of other accidents—what would be the fate of our poor family? Must not the regret of our parents be excessive, at having placed so great a difference between sisters who are so perfectly equal? Alas! We must perish from distress; for it would not be in my power even to scrawl a supplian: petition for relief, having been obliged to employ the hand of another in transcribing the request which I have now the honor to prefer to you."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Street Cars and Motorists Violate the Traffic Signals and Endanger Life.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In these days of law enforcement, or lack of same, may I take enough space to call attention to a very flagrant violation of the traffic laws; one which will eventually cause the loss of life or great bodily harm. The regulation in question is the traffic signals. Every one driving a car is supposed to know that they are not to cross a street on the "Caution" sign, yet you cannot drive anywhere but what you meet cars that are nearly halfway across the street before the signs change. Especially is this true of the taxicabs and street cars.

To watch the standing cars waiting for the signals to change reminds one of the old racing days, before they used the starting gate, when all the jockeys were trying to beat the flag. That is just what the auto drivers do now. They begin to creep up when they think it is about time to have a change of signals, and before the signals are actually flashed they are off.

Some people naturally make mistakes and do not intentionally violate the laws, but it would be an easy matter for a mounted officer to follow one whom he had seen crossing before his time and then he could see if such violations were chronic with him, and if so, press the charges against him to the fullest extent.

"OLDTIMER."

MacDonald's Proposed Visit Hailed as Biggest Piece of News Since the Signing of the Armistice.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The biggest while apparently not the most sensational piece of news that has been printed since the signing of the armistice flashed over the cable the other day, announcing the proposed visit to the United States of Ramsay MacDonald, just elected by the Labor party as the new premier of the British Isles. Mr. MacDonald is opposed to the preparation for the next war by building battleships and other implements of war. That was his command from the English people in the recent election. The people of the United States want peace, not more battleships and war at their expense, and blood, as was shown by the ratification of the Bryan-Kellogg peace treaties. It is silly to talk peace and build battleships at the same time.

Ramsay MacDonald, the head of the greatest nation on earth, is visiting the United States on a peaceful mission, the object being to do away with battleships and other instruments of war. His mission is portentous of the most far-reaching results to humanity since the signing of the armistice, and it is for that reason that I say his announced visit is the biggest piece of news since then. Argument for Civil Service Selection of Census Workers Set Forth by Secretary of Reform League.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I read with much interest and concern your editorial, "The Census Bill," which appeared in the May 31 issue of The Post. In that editorial you criticize as impracticable the proposal of Senator Wagner to provide for the appointment of field employes of the census in accordance with the civil service rules.

The sole issue in connection with the appointment of the supervisors, assistant supervisors, special agents, interpreters and enumerators is this: Shall we have the census handled by persons appointed on a purely political basis, whose work and motives may be open to serious question or shall we have some assurance through the merit system that the persons appointed are at least unbiased and have the semblance of qualifications? To apply the merit principle in the employment of these employes is not carrying the civil service principle to a "silly condition" by any means, as suggested in your editorial. We agree with you that it is not necessary to have formal written examinations to fill the places of enumerators, the civil service rules are sufficiently flexible to permit of the appointment of enumerators without scholastic or academic written examinations. The Civil Service Commission, through its over 4,000 representatives throughout the country, can quickly secure qualified persons to act as enumerators by requiring candidates to file a statement of their qualifications.

Of course, the Census Bureau would prefer to have candidates appointed after their own examinations, but it is obvious that the pressure from political quarters on the census director would be far more than any director of the census could stand. That has been the experience in the past. Congressmen know that they can not hope to secure partisan appointments through the machinery of the Civil Service Commission. They would rather bank on the director of the census to secure "pap."

If we are to have an accurate, honest and impartial census, a census in which both political organizations will have faith, the taking of the census should be on a nonpartisan and businesslike basis. Certainly the appointment of supervisors and special agents who must be well qualified persons should be made after examinations conducted by the Civil Service Commission. To leave it to chambers of commerce and boards of trade to make recommendations, as suggested by the director of the census, is merely directing the attack of patronage seekers from the census office to the local business organizations. Members of Congress will exert pressure on the officers of chambers of commerce as well as on the Census Bureau to have their political followers secure the field jobs in the census.

The appointment of these temporary employes will not unduly delay the taking of the census. The civil service rules can adequately provide for temporary appointments in an emergency. The real secret to the opposition to the Wagner amendment is that the Civil Service Commission can be trusted to be nonpartisan in the control over appointments in the field positions. That is something congressmen do not like.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

London Couple Arrive to Visit Kin in Capital

Mr. and Mrs. E. Simpson Will Be Entertained by Friends.

By JEAN ELIOT.

MR. and Mrs. Ernest Simpson, of London, have arrived in town for a visit, having come earlier than they had originally intended because of the illness of Mrs. Simpson's mother, Mrs. Charles G. Allen. As Mrs. Warfield Spencer, Mrs. Simpson made her home here at one time, and has many friends who will welcome her return. She was a Baltimore girl, Miss Wallis Warfield, and in the days following her debut she used occasionally to visit here. Her marriage to Mr. Simpson took place last July in London.

Plans for Mrs. Simpson's presentation at the Court of St. James this month had been made. She had been sent her formal notification of inclusion in the group to be received at Buckingham Palace, and Mr. Simpson had attended one of the formal levees as a preliminary to accompanying her; but the presentation was postponed and Mr. and Mrs. Simpson made plans to sail immediately when word of Mrs. Allen's serious illness was received.

They found her better, however, and the presence of her daughter, whom she had not seen for over a year, has helped her in her progress toward recovery. Mr. and Mrs. Simpson are staying with her aunt, Mrs. D. Buchahan Merryman, in her apartment at 1911 R street.

It was with Mr. and Mrs. Simpson that Mrs. George Barnett stayed when she was in London recently at the time of her presentation at court. Mrs. Barnett is a cuosin of Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Merryman. The Simpsons have a little house in one of the fashionable sections of Mayfair and Mrs. Simpson, who has a flair for decorative effects, has made of it—from all accounts—a very charming place. Mr. Simpson will return shortly to England, but Mrs. Simpson expects to linger with her mother for several weeks.

When she does make her debut at court, Mrs. Simpson will not be presented with the American group, but as an Englishwoman, under the wing of Mr. Simpson's sister.

Mrs. Hoover Will Give Garden Party Tomorrow.

The first White House garden party of the Hoover Administration will be given tomorrow afternoon, when Mrs. Hoover will be hostess to the League of Republican Women of the District of Columbia. Should the weather be inclement, the tea will be held indoors. Guests will be limited to members of the organization.

The Spanish Ambassador and Senora de Padilla will go to New York the middle of next week with their sons and two nephews, who will sail June 20 for Spain. The Ambassador and Senora de Padilla probably will go abroad later in the summer, but have not yet completed their plans.

Mlle. Jeanne Cretziano, daughter of the Roumanian Minister, will pass the week-end with a party of friends at the Cavalier Hotel at Virginia Beach.

The Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Lamont have given up their apartment at the Hay-Adams House and have moved to the Wardman Park Hotel, where they will make their headquarter until they move into their new house on Kalorama road.

The Secretary of the Netherlands Legation and Baroness van Boetzlaer will leave this evening for York Harbor, Me., where they have a cottage for the season. Baron van Boetzelaer, who arrived in New York last week from a month's vacation in the Netherlands, will come back to Washington the second week in July and will join his family at times during the summer.

Mr. Richard Claytor Is Engaged to Marry.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Howard Ellison, jr., of Philadelphia, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Sarah Morris Ellison, to Mr. Richard Claytor, son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Ash Claytor, of this city.

Miss Ellison was a debutante of winter before last, a graduate of Miss Moos' School of Paris and a member of the Junior League and Acorn Club. Mr. Claytor is a graduate of Yale, class of 1917, and a member of Scroll and Key. He has made his home in Philadelphia since his graduation.

Maj. and Mrs. Henry Leonard entertained a large party at dinner last evening at Grasslands.

Mrs. McCormick-Goodhart Entertains at Langley Park.

Mrs. McCormick-Goodhart and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Leander McCormick-Goodhart, were joint hostesses at a garden party yesterday afternoon, entertaining at Langley Park, the country home of the elder Mrs. McCormick-Goodhart, near Hyattsville, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Garrett were hosts yesterday at a musicale given in the little theater of Evergreen, their home near Baltimore. This was one of a second series of programs by the Musical Arts Quartet and the series will continue daily through June 23, excepting June 14 and 19. Some of the musicales will be given in the afternoon, others in the evening—as was the case with the recently completed series of similar concerts, which were attended by many music loving Washingtonians as well as guests from Baltimore.

The former Secretary of State and Mrs. Frank B. Kellogg are expected in New York today and will be at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. They have been at their home in St. Paul, Minn., since their return from Europe.

Miss Anne Squire will spend the summer in Canada, dividing her time between Coburg and Murray Bay. She expects to leave town about July 1.

Winsome Early Summer Bride

Harris & Ewing.

MISS DOROTHY DUFF, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hamilton Duff, who will be married on June 26 to Mr. Lewis Mercer Smith. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Charles J. Smith, Jr.

Many Parties Arranged For Bride-to-Be

Miss Persis Conrad Will Wed Dr. Emmett G. Coiner Today.

Miss Persis Conrad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fairfax Conrad, who will be married today to Dr. Emmett Grayson Coiner, has been much entertained prior to her wedding. Last evening, following the rehearsal, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad entertained the bridal party at the Powhatan Hotel, and on Monday evening Miss Virginia Fairfax had a bridge party for her sister, Dr. Coiner being guest of honor at the same time at a man's dinner and theater party, given by Mr. Lawrence L. Gourley. Mrs. Cyril D. Gallagher also entertained for Miss Conrad, giving a bridge party for her last Saturday, and on Friday Miss Virginia Harrison gave a bridge party for her.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. James M. Savely was hostess at a bridge shower for Miss Conrad. The guests were Mrs. Edward Brooks, Mrs. Michael Kennedy, Mrs. Chester Norman, Mrs. Lawrence L. Gourley, Miss Virginia Harrison, Miss Virginia Conrad, Mrs. Cyril D. Gallagher, Miss Mary Lewis and Mrs. Samuel Parker.

The wedding is to take place in All Souls Episcopal Church at 5 o'clock, with a reception afterward at the bride's home for the wedding party. The bride's attendants will be Mrs. Lawrence L. Gourley, matron of honor; Miss Virginia Conrad, maid of honor, and Anna Bruce Gallagher, flower girl. Mr. Lawrence C. Hollis, of Winchester, Va., will be best man, and the ushers include Dr. Ernest A. N. Seyfried, of Nazareth, Pa.; Mr. Gourley and Mr. Robert Bruce Moorman.

Mr. Vernon H. Brewster To Wed Miss Wharton.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Wharton have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Agnes Wharton, to Mr. Vernon Harcourt Brewster.

Miss Wharton attended Central High School and will graduate this year from Smith College. Mr. Brewster is a graduate of Northwestern University and George Washington University Law School. He formerly was assistant to the President of George Washington University and now is associated with the National Geographic Society.

Miss Jeanette Rankin, first woman member of the House, who has been visiting Miss Louise MacDonald in Washington, will leave tomorrow. She motored north from Georgia, where she established her residence several years ago. Although divorced from the turmoil of Congress, which once filled her life, Miss Rankin keeps in touch with Washington and especially with developments in international relations.

Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall have taken a cottage at Rehoboth Beach and will leave Washington about June 27. Mrs. Marshall and her two sons, Mr. John Marshall, jr., and Mr. Paul Marshall, will pass the rest of the summer there and will be joined frequently by Mr. Marshall.

Miss Bertha Bolling, who has been at the Powhatan since last fall, left yesterday for Atlantic City for the summer.

To Play in "Sherwood"

Underwood & Underwood.

MRS. FRANK ASHBROOK, who will have the part of Titania—interpolated by Alfred Noyes—in "Sherwood," to be presented at the Sylvan Theater on June 20 under the auspices of the Community Drama Guild. Mrs. Ashbrook is widely known as Caroline McKinley.

Miss Hume Wed To C. W. Hayes At St. Paul's

Bride's Parents Married in Same Picturesque Capital Church.

The marriage yesterday of Miss Annie Graham Hume, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hume, and Mr. Charles Willard Hayes, jr., was an event of exceptional interest to the "cave dwellers" of Washington, with whom the Humes and the Coxes—Mrs. Hume's family—are affiliated. Mr. Hayes, too, is of Washington, the son of Mrs. Charles Willard Hayes.

The ceremony took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, in which the bride's mother, formerly Miss Sally Cox, and her father were married. The rector, the Rev. Arlington A. McCallum, officiated. Afterward there was a small reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hume at 1809 Twentieth street.

Whenever one of the large Hume clan is married there is always a grist of pretty cousins to call upon as bridal attendants. Miss Hume had three in her wedding party, Miss Helen Hume.

who was maid of honor; Miss Jeannette Hume and Miss Virginia Glassbrook. Her other bridesmaids were Miss Rosa Hayes, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Mary Seldan.

The wedding party also included little Evaleth Hale, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Willis Hale, as flower girl, and two small pages, Lawrence Benet Hume, brother of the bride, and John Merriam, son of Mrs. Wallach Merriam. The little boys have almost "turned professional," for they were ribbon bearers when Miss Janet Newbold was married to Mr. Allan Ryan, jr., and again at the wedding of Miss Virginia Mason and Dr. Montgomery Blair.

The best man was Mr. Sidney Paige Hayes. The ushers were Mr. William Cushman, Mr. Gorham Freer, Maj. Hugh Mitchell, Mr. Edward S. Coons, jr., Mr. Richard L. Wheelock, Mr. William B. Jefferies, Mr. Frederick S. Cross, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Mr. T. Norville Hubbard, of Detroit, Mich.

Veil Covers Bride's Face on Entering Church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin, fashioned with a close-fitting bodice and a train cut in one piece with the long circular skirt. The neck was V-shaped and the sleeves long and tight. The tulle veil, which Miss Hume wore over her face when she entered the church, to be thrown back after the ceremony, was caught with seed pearl pins, which had belonged to her grandmother. She carried a sheaf of calla lilies.

The maid of honor wore yellow and the bridesmaids pale green, their frocks being fashioned alike of chiffon, with ruffled godets, giving fullness to the skirts, which dipped in the back in the prevailing mode. Fluttering capes, falling over the arms, decked the bodices. They wore hats of baku to match their gowns, small and turned up smartly off the face, and their slippers were of the same tone. Each carried an arm bouquet of spring flowers. The flower girl wore a white organdie frock and carried a hat full of white and yellow marguerites. The candle-lighted church was decorated with calla lilies.

At the reception Mrs. Hume and Mrs. Hayes stood together to greet the guests, the one gowned in yellow, flowered chiffon, with a large yellow hat; the other wearing black and white printed chiffon and a large black hat. Four sisters of Mrs. Hume were present at the wedding, Mrs. Lawrence Benet, of Paris; Mrs. Stuart Jackson, of Montclair, N. J., and Mrs. Larkin W. Glazebrook, of this city, as well as her brother, Mr. Robinson Cox, of Washington, New York and Florida.

When Mr. and Mrs. Hayes left for their wedding trip by motor to the North Shore, she wore a tan ensemble, with smart brown accessories. On their return they will make their home in Edgemoor.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Langhorne have closed their house at 2311 R street and will be at the Mayflower for a day or two before leaving for Bar Harbor, Me., for the summer.

The Secretary of the Roumanian Legation and Mme. Popovici will arrive in New York on the George Washington Saturday and will come immediately to Washington.

A group of New Yorkers are in the Capital to attend the wedding of Miss Hester Anne LeFevre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. LeFevre, to Gordon Lindsay Luke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Keith Luke, of New York and Devon Hall, Irvington-on-Hudson, which will take place today in St. Margaret's Church.

Miss Geta Triesta, secretary at the Roumanian Legation, has canceled all social engagements on account of the death of her father in Roumania. She will sail early in July for Europe to pass several months.

The Hon. O. H. Stanley and Lady Kathleen Stanley, of London, are at the Mayflower.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. John A. Hull will return today from New York, where they passed several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Maxim Karolik are passing a week in Boston before going to Newport for the season.

A PROPOSITION THAT SHOULD BE ACCEPTED
In order to prove to the world that Cancer in any form, regardless of the age of the person afflicted, can be cured, I will make the following proposition to the American Congress: I will allow each Congressman to have the county commissioners of each county in his district pick out a person afflicted with cancer and send them to Lima, Ohio, and I will treat them positively free. The longest time I will keep them here for treatment is six months and the shortest time one month, and 75% of all who come will not stay longer than the one month. I positively produce the desired results in 80% of all the internal and 95% of all the external cases I treat.
In regard to my honesty and reliability, will refer you to the First American Bank & Trust Co. of Lima, Ohio.

YOST IS REELECTED PRESIDENT OF BANK

East Washington Savings Also Renames All Its Other Officers.

GAS LIGHT STOCK SOARS

By Thomas M. Cahill.

The organization meeting of trustees of the East Washington Savings Bank was held yesterday, at which a semi-annual dividend of 7 per cent and an extra dividend of 1 per cent were declared. Officers were reelected and committees named.

Officers are John C. Yost, president; Samuel H. Walker, first vice president; Lewis Plemer, second vice president; Charles A. McCarthy, secretary-treasurer. Committees are the following: Executive, Mr. Walker, Mr. Yost, Henry H. McKee, Morris E. Marlow and Mr. McCarthy; appraisement, Mr. Yost, Mr. Walker and Mr. Plemer; auditing, Mr. Plemer.

Francis J. Kane is a new trustee, succeeding the late Francis B. Weller, and the following trustees have been reelected: John C. W. Beall, James A. Donohoe, Grants E. Dunkum, Mr. Plemer, John Ford, W. P. C. Hazen, Michael A. Lynch, Mr. McCarthy, Mr. McKee, Mr. Marlow, William N. Payne, jr., Mr. Walker, John C. Weeden and Mr. Yost.

Bank Merger Discussed.

Reports of the negotiation of a new merger, involving Chase National Bank and the National Park Bank of New York occasioned great interest in the local financial district yesterday, such a merger if materialized, meaning the combination of resources of approximately $1,600,000,000, capital funds of $200,000,000 and deposits in excess of $1,300,000,000, it was explained locally.

Officials admit that such action has been discussed. Consummation of the merger would place the Chase Bank on a level from a standpoint of resources, with the Guaranty Trust Co., which recently absorbed the National Bank of Commerce, it was said here, although the Guaranty, in line with a plan announced last week for increasing its capital funds to $260,000,000, would be the largest from this standpoint.

The merger, it was said in local banking circles, would place the Chase next to the National City Bank, now said to be the largest financial institution, with total resources of $2,000,000,000.

Gas Light Stock Moves Up.

Continued rise of Washington Gas Light stock featured a light trading session on the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday, the stock advancing from 124 to 125, a new high since before the last annual meeting.

On Monday the stock rose 2½ points on a small turnover, and yesterday sale of a block of seven shares brought it out at ¼-point gain and a second block of ten sent it to 125. It closed at 124¾ bid and 125 asked.

Capital Traction stock, active Monday, lagged yesterday, receding fractionally from 94 shares in three sales, two of 10 shares and one of 3, a falling off of 88 shares in total trading and indicative of investors' waiting attitude pending the next meeting of the directors for dividend action. Yesterday's bond market trading declined $4,700 from Monday's total with only $2,800 in bonds changing hands.

New Bonds Offered.

E. H. Rollins & Sons are offering an additional issue of $[illegible]00,000 Texas-Louisiana Power Co., a subsidiary of General Wat[illegible] Works & Electric Corporation, first mortgage 6 per cent gold bonds, series A, due January 1, 1946. The bonds are priced at 97.50 and accrued interest to yield 6.25 per cent.

The company, organized under the laws of the State of Delaware in 1925, is a public utility operating company

Wall Street Briefs

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—Steel ingot production increased more than 1 per cent during the past week to about 96½ per cent of rated capacity as against a figure slightly above 95 per cent for the previous week. Plants of the United States Steel Corporation are operating slightly in excess of 100 per cent of rate capacity against 102 per cent for the preceding two weeks, while independents are slightly above 94 per cent, as against 93 per cent last week.

United States Realty & Improvement Co. have authorized an increase in the capital stock from 1,000,000 no par shares to 2,000,000 shares of no par value. It was not announced what disposition will be made of the additional capitalization. All members of the board were reelected.

Holders of more than 43 per cent of the outstanding minority stock of the Tide Water Oil Co., have accepted the offer of Tide Water Associated Oil Co., the parent organization, to give 1¾ shares of its own common stock for each share of Tide Water Oil Co. common stock. Approximately 12 per cent of the stock remains to be acquired by the parent company.

Strip steel production at the Warren, Ohio, plant of the Republic Iron & Steel Co. during May broke all previous records, exceeding the March output, the best previous month, by 4,000 tons. June production is expected at least to equal that of May.

Sales of the Brockway Motor Truck Corporation for the first four months of 1929 showed a gain of 40 per cent over the same period last year, Martin A. O'Mara, president, said today. The outlook for future business is encouraging, he added.

Stockholders of Penick & Ford, Ltd., Inc., have approved an increase in the authorized capitalization from 450,000 shares of no par common stock to 750,000 shares.

Financing for Home and Foreign Securities Corporation, underwriting and holding company formed by the Wall street house of Arthur S. Kleeman & Co., will take the form of an offering of 75,000 no par cumulative preferred shares and 75,000 no par common with warrants in units of one preferred, one common share and one warrant to buy a common share. The units are priced at $60.

Offering is being made of $10,000,000 issue of convertible preferred stock for the financing of the Central States Electric Corporation. The shares, priced at $100 each, will pay dividends at the annual rate of one-sixteenth of a share of common stock or $6 in cash.

OUR OWN HONORARY DEGREES

LUTHER B. RADISH: after dinner speaker, radio fanatic and hockey fan; lifelong worker for the abolition of boiled cauliflower, detours, starched shirts, ferryboat violinists and the 20-cent cup of coffee; pioneer in the great movement to sneak a little minced meat into vegetable dinners; founder of the Luther B. Radish League for the Standardization of Hotel Doormen's Uniforms; inventor of the magnetic device for retrieving wooden tees, and the only man in the world to read the full text of the Reparations Agreement. I gladly admit you to the degree of Doctor of Law, Bachelor of Appeals and Knight of Habeas Corpus.

* * * *

WILTON P. CASSOWARY: pharmacist, book-reviewer and old-time substitute third baseman with the Brooklyn baseball club; conspicuous champion of fresher lettuce in restaurant salads; unrelenting worker in the cause of fewer shapes in men's straw hats; valiant leader in the fight to curb theme songs in talking pictures and the only drug store owner in America to refuse to convert 50 per cent of the premises into a chowder, soup, sandwich and pie counter. I take pleasure in crowning you Bachelor of Obstinacy, Leader of Lost Causes and Queen of the May.

* * * *

CASSIUS H. BEAVERBOARD: interior decorator, designer of gasoline stations and raiser of airedales; a steadfast crusader for more pineapple in pineapple drinks. Government supervision of strawberry shortcake and State control of musical auto horns; widely honored for your tireless battle against sliced cucumbers; fearless advocate of less greasing of the upholstery in automobile service stations, and one of the three men in the United States of America to refuse to indorse a cigarette. I am delighted to admit you to the degree of Doctor of Integrity and Master of Boy Scouts.

* * * *

CALEB K. M. PHOOCH: artist, share-drummer and merchant chief; long known for your opposition to flagpole-sitting as a profession and your crusades to submit all cross-country hikes and dance marathons to a public vote; able propagandist in the cause of honest labels; inventor of the self-watering radio battery; stout defender of man's right to refuse to participate in Apple Week, and competent broadcaster of the notion that the key to the traffic problem is fewer big city signal-light systems in one-horse towns. I am happy to christen you Master of Artlessness and Doctor of Muscular Rheumatism.

FLOYD B. FULLERBUNK: home gardner, wagon-wheel striper and patron of burlesque shows; unswerving foe of all golf course water holes; outspoken critic of unnecessary switching and jolting of sleeping cars by playful railroad crews; inventor of a device for removing bones from shad by violet ray; leader in the movement to disinfect taxicabs at least once a month, and the only man east of the Mississippi to be offered a low number on his automobile tag and refuse it. I am more than pleased to admit you to whatever degrees you like, with or without mayonnaise dressing.

This is the time of year when many a senior must wonder whether he is being graduated, pardoned or just thrown out as quietly as possible.

THE RETURN OF OLD KING BRADY

Revived by MERLE W. HERSEY.

(Copyright Protected. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.)

In the third chapter Harry follows Turner into the woods, loses the trail of the maniac and gets lost in the forest. He is found by a couple of boys and taken to an old hut. Old King Brady meanwhile witnesses a fight at the old house between Big Bart Brown's gang and another. He gets away with their buggy, which contained a heavy hamper.

TRAPPING THE "TERROR" OF TODDLETON.

CHAPTER IV.

The Bradys Make Strange Friends.

OLD KING BRADY wondered what had happened to Big Bart Brown.

He retraced his steps to the hollow and proceeded to examine the hamper. To his surprise, he found a tag on the padlock with Turner's name on it.

"It is the banker's cash!" thought the old detective. "Those suitcases were a bluff and I've captured the real thing!" He congratulated himself on having secured the buggy.

Nothing further could be done until daylight, so he settled down by the hamper and remained there until dawn.

* * * *

Meanwhile, Harry and the two boys had arrived at the hut. There was no answer to their calls. Young King Brady was thoroughly tired out and sat down on a bench too discouraged to make a move.

"Waal," drawled Tom, coming back at last, "mah paw hain't hyar, and we'uns is all tuckered out."

"I am the same way," answered Harry.

"We'uns want to go to sleep. But yaw'll run away if we do."

"Perhaps I might if I knew where to run to," said Harry, "but as I don't you'll find me here when you wake up."

"We'uns been coon huntin' all day," continued Tom. "Only one coon to show."

Harry closed his eyes and leaned his head back against the hut. "I'm going to sleep right here."

It was true he was tired, but he had no notion of sleeping. To pull away in the dark would be mere folly, so he has made up his mind to remain where he was.

After a little talk between themselves, Tom went inside the hut and did not come out again, while Boney threw himself down on the ground at Harry's feet. In a minute he was snoring.

For a long time Harry sat there, listening to the hum of the insects, broken in upon occasionally by the barking of dogs. After a while he fell asleep also.

Somewhere along in the night he began to dream of Big Bart Brown. It seemed to him that the outlaw had come to the hut, where he stood talking with Tom. That was the dream part of it—then came the reality. In an instant Harry knew he was awake and the talk he was listening to was no dream.

"I ketched him in the woods, paw," Tom was saying. "He kin read, so I brung him hyar."

"Shouldn't wonder if he could," replied the man. Young King Brady could see out of the corner of his eye that this was not Big Bart Brown, for the man was rather small, dressed in the usual mountaineer style. "He's a Yank, all right, and most of 'em can read, but thar ain't no need now."

"What yer mean?" demanded Tom.

"Lorzee, boy, you've been away two days. Lots has happened sence then."

"Oh, did yer get that letter read thet yer stole from Big Bart?"

"Yep. I found a man who could read it. I got onto his tricks. It told all about the comin' of thet Yankee banker an' how he hed a prety gal, and how he had arranged to sneak his cash into Blueburg in charge of ex-Sheriff Braxton, taking along with himself two bags stuffed with paper. Dunno who give the Yank away. Some of the lead miners must hev heerd him talk in the office. Thet told me what Bart was drivin' at so I got me a lot of fellers together to hed him off. We went to Gunyon and made a haul thar, and learned the Yank hadn't come yet. We seen him pass us on the road and we lay by fer the sheriff. We got him and we got the stuff locked up in a straw basket—two hundred thousand dollars, Tom. What do yer think of that?"

"Say, pay! Yer don't mean it!" cried the boy. "An' yer got it? Gee whiz, we'll all be rich."

"Naw we won't nuther. It's gone!"

"How?"

"We come to the ruined house; the boys seen a light thar and would stop to find out what it was. Waal, they found out. They're all dead, Tommy; only me left, boy! Every blamed one of 'em."

"Paw, yer don't mean it!" gasped the boy, horrified. "An' what were you'uns doing all that time? Didn't yer do nuthin', paw?"

"We laid out three on 'em, but Bart's got the dust an' he's got the Yank's gal; they say he wants to marry her. But what do I git?" The mountaineer's voice was fierce—it now rose to almost a scream. "Got left! That's what now, but jest you wait. I swore to be revenged on Big Bart Brown for the way he used me, but now I swar I'll kill him and break up the Toddleton gang. Git down on your knees, boy. Swar! Swar!

And kneel down they did together, taking a fearful vow against the Terror of Toddleton. As they rose, Harry got up, too. He decided it was the best chance he would have.

"I'm in on that, friend!" he cried. "I want revenge against Big Bart Brown, too."

"And who are yew?" the mountaineer demanded. "My name's Jed Gurley. What be your'n?"

"Harry Brady."

"Didn't yew ride that red hoss at the Guyon fair? What makes yew hate Big Bart?"

"I did ride the red horse. Suppose I tell you that I was engaged to the girl Brown carried off tonight, wouldn't that be enough?"

They talked for an hour, and then as morning began to dawn shook hands on it. Harry had scored a point, for Jed Hurley had promised to show him the way to Toddleton. He felt confident that he could rescue the banker's daughter from the secret camp.

While Harry was finishing out the night in this way, Old King Brady was still sitting beside the hamper. Just as dawn began to break he was startled by the sound of footsteps. He sprang to his feet and drawing his revolver, stepped behind a big oak.

A man appeared. His clothes were of an up-to-date cut, but now were covered with dust and blood. He was bareheaded, and had a cloth tied over his forehead, which was also badly blood stained. His face was very pale, but he had a determined air. He had a big club in one hand, and walked slowly toward the edge of the hollow, where, catching sight of the hamper, he gave a smothered cry.

"What's this! How came it here? It can't be true. But it is. There is a chance to save it yet."

He leaned his head on his hand as he sank down beside the hamper. His whole frame shook.

Old King Brady saw he had no formidable enemy to deal with, and he now stepped into view. "Good morning, friend!" he called, still holding his revolver so that it could readily be seen.

The man raised his head and faced him. "Who are you?" he gasped. "One of the Toddleton gang, I suppose."

"Nothing of the sort," replied the old detective. "I am the guardian of the hamper."

"No, I see now you are a different brood. Well, I'm at your mercy, I am in no position to defend myself."

"My good sir, I've no desire to kill you," replied Old King Brady. "If you would just explain who you are and why you are here it would ease matters up."

"My name is Braxton," replied the man. "I was once sheriff of this county."

"My name is Brady," responded the detective. "I hail from New York."

"Not Old King Brady, the detective?"

"Yes."

"This hamper was stolen from me, Mr. Brady. I belongs to my cousin, Mr. Turner. I—"

But here the sheriff suddenly paused, and reeling, sank down at Old King Brady's feet.

Another chapter of this enthralling serial is in tomorrow's paper. Watch for it.

"I am so happy—that the last pimple is gone"

You may be happy, too!

The way to the skin is through the blood. Strong, healthy blood nourishes the body and fights against infection and disease.

EVERY evening thousands enjoy themselves at dinner-parties, dances, theatres, games, clubs. Many thousands more are denied the joy of such merriment and happiness.

Maybe this denial is due to a skin trouble. First impressions cannot be good without a clear skin—first impressions are quickly made and are not soon forgotten. Old friends may excuse pimples and secretly sympathize, but new acquaintances may not be so charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting. Neither can they be covered up. They embarrass. Hold people back. Steal away joy and happiness.

A lovely—clear skin—is within the reach of all. To those who have lost it, hope is offered. You, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

Many thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking S.S.S. It is Nature's own blood tonic for raising the body's power of resistance to disease, improving the appetite, building firm flesh, and clearing the skin.

Take S.S.S. at meal-time. You will be delighted with its blood building and tonic effect.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

SERVANT TO THE MILLIONS

For You—And A Million More

Two-to-one. That's the way "Standard" outsells any other gasoline in this state. Two-to-one! That's the preference of motorists for gasoline that's primed with power, eager to set its pace along the road. Here's the reason.

"Standard" Gasoline leads the field with 8 distinct basic qualities. Eight points of superiority. 1—Easy starting. 2—Quick acceleration for sliding ahead of traffic. 3—Steady power for long hills, muddy roads and long runs. 4—Mileage efficiency. 5—Safety to motors, clean, free from carbon and corrosive elements. 6—Complete combustion, none left to dilute the motor oil. 7—Uniform everywhere. 8—Available at thousands of red "Standard" pumps. A million motorists recognize these qualities and stick to "Standard," two-to-one.

A Genuine Anti-Knock Motor Fuel

Are you tired of getting knocks from your motor? Tired of having to shift gears at the bottom of the hill—or halfway up? Change to ESSO.

The slight extra cost shouldn't worry you. ESSO is a genuine anti-knock motor fuel. And true anti-knock motor fuels must, of necessity, cost more. This "no-knock" rating, combined with its other super-qualities, makes ESSO the best motor fuel obtainable anywhere at any price. And many claim enough extra motor performance and extra mileage to more than make up the slight difference in price.

Fill up today with this red-blooded, virile ESSO. The "makings" of a sweet-running motor is for sale at every silver ESSO pump with the ESSO globe.

Esso
THE GIANT POWER FUEL

Never has the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey swerved from the path of making "Standard" products the most reliable for year 'round use. In research work alone it employs a staff of 300 men who strive constantly for betterment. Most motorists are confident of this. And show it by the fact that "Standard" products outsell any other brand in this state two-to-one.

For Our Trucks—And Yours

Thousands of "Standard"-owned tank trucks and motor cars tour the highways and byways. In blizzards. Beneath a broiling sun. Through rain and slush.

Day after day their work must go on.

And somehow, though the road be snow-bound, though the detour be rutted mud, their motors pull them through.

Such motors must have power. They have. They are lubricated with "Standard" Motor Oil—that oilier, clinging oil that seals in the compression and adds power to every piston stroke. A hardier oil, too. Resists dilution. Stands up under pressure.

This premium oil is for sale at any "Standard" dealer's—and at a popular price.

Program by Canada on Air Tonight

Premier Ferguson and Artists of Dominion With Band to Be Offered. New Radio Series by "The Two Troopers."

What is said to be the first sponsored program originating on foreign soil will be heard by the American radio audience over the coast-to-coast network of the Columbia Broadcasting System when the Kolster Radio Hour is broadcast from Station CKGW, Toronto, Canada, at 9 o'clock tonight. G. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Canada, will deliver a five-minute address on international good will.

A special program featuring Canadian artists has been arranged with the cooperation of the Canada Steamship lines. The Forty-eighth Highlanders Band will provide the music for the program, with Madame Jeane Dusseau featured as soprano soloist. Madame Dusseau will be heard in the national anthems of the United States, Great Britain and Canada, and also a group of three songs, "Annie Laurie," "Ben Bolt" and a French-Canadian song.

Edwin Carewe, noted motion picture producer-director, will address a nation-wide audience at 9:30 o'clock tonight during the Palmolive Hour. Carewe, who makes his films for United Artists stars, has directed many screen favorites, and was the "discoverer" of Dolores Del Rio. He has just returned to New York from Hollywood after completing a new picture, "Evangeline." He will discuss the subject of beauty and its relation to the silver screen.

There will be the usual musical program, featuring Olive Palmer and Paul Oliver, and a male quartet under the direction of Frank Black.

Works of Austrian composers will be featured in the Mobiloil Concert at 7 o'clock. With Frank Black directing the symphony orchestra, vocal soloists will include James Stanley, tenor, and Beatrice Belkin, soprano.

Frank Luther, tenor, will be the soloist with the Happy Wonder Bakers at 7:30 o'clock. Murray Kellner, first violinist with the Troubadours, will be featured in a medley of concert selections—Saint-Saens' "The Swan," Drigo's "Serenade," and Massenet's "Meditation" from "Thais." Dance music will make up the rest of this program, which includes orchestral selections from the new shows, with vocal choruses.

A new radio series to be known as "The Two Troupers" will be broadcast by Marcella Shields and Helene Handin each Wednesday evening, beginning tonight, at 9:30 o'clock.

The Slumber Music arranged for 10 o'clock includes the overture to "Jean de Paris," "L'Arlesienne Suite" and selection from "The Pearl Fishers," Bizet; a cello solo by Gaston Dubois, "Eternelle Ivresse," Ganne, and "Pavane," Ravel.

The Palais d'Or Orchestra will provide an hour of dance music between 11 o'clock and midnight.

The United Symphony Orchestra, with George Rymer, tenor, will present a program of light music from WMAL at 8 o'clock. Mr. Rymer will sing "From the Hills of Dreams," "Just Been Wandering All Day Long" and "Wild Bells of Memory Chime."

Morrell and Beckwith, musical team; Dale Wimbrow, song writer, and La Palina will be heard in a varied program at 8:30 o'clock, assisted by Freddie Rich and his orchestra. The orchestra will play "Walking With Susie," "Big City Blues" and "Breakaway" from the Fox Movietone Follies.

Stanley Bell and Les Colvin will do another DX request program from 11 o'clock until midnight.

A radio party by the winners of the U. S. Flag Association's contest will be staged in the studios of WOL at 6:30 o'clock this evening. Many of the young people can play and sing and have arranged this informal broadcast.

Hook Kennedy will be heard in a typical half-hour program beginning at 7 o'clock, followed by Dorothy Seamans, violinist, and the Honolulans.

Navy Needs Some Shoes.

The bureau of supplies and accounts of the Navy Department advertised for bids to furnish it with 140,000 pairs of shoes. The bids will be opened July 9. The shoes must be black and low.

Gifts to the Bridesmaids

AMONG the bride's considerations beside the wedding-gown, the trousseau, the bridesmaids' fittings, and the thousand other things that make one wonder how she appears at the altar with such demure dignity, are the small cadeaux that she offers her attendants. Here we show some particularly charming selections in an effort to lighten her last-minute worries.

An evening bag is always an appreciated gift, and when it is beaded in solid seed pearls and framed with antique gold, it is a piece de resistance, worthy perhaps to become the groom's gift to the bride.

One of the newest and smartest ideas in jewelry is the ring of solid crystal. This type of ring has put in a chic appearance in Paris and Cannes and is now available here. A crest engraved upon it is most distinbuished, of course, but in the case of bridesmaids' gifts, the monogram is more appropriate.

A cigarette holder takes on an especially feminine air when it is made of crystal and becomes very elegant when banded with small jewels.

If the bride's attendants should scorn holders, they will surely find Russian cigarette cases irresistible when little Katinkas dance over them.

And twisted emerald or coral beads fastened with a jeweled clasp might grace the loveliest wrists supporting the loveliest flowers.

VIII. MANU AND THE FLOOD.

IN regions where there are rivers people are often placed in danger by floods. Melting snows and heavy spring rains send the water level upward, and there is sometimes heavy loss of life.

One part of India is known as the Punjab, meaning "Land of Five Rivers." In the Punjab, long ago, a story grew up of a flood which had covered all the earth.

The fish saving "Father Manu," according to the Indian myth.

If you had asked an olden Hindu to tell you about the flood, he would have replied in this fashion:

"There was a man who lived soon after the beginning of the world, and he was called Father Manu. He was a very good man, and proved his love of the gods by standing in a forest on one leg for thousands of years. (How tired his leg must have become!) One day he was sitting near a stream when a fish came to the surface and spoke, saying:

"'Please save me from the big fish who want to eat me up!'

"Father Manu took the little fish into his hands and carried it home, placing it in a jar. It grew too large for the jar, so it was placed in a tank.

"After a while, the fish became too large for the tank; so Father Manu took it to the Ganges River. Even that body of water proved too small, and the fish was at last taken to the sea.

"While Father Manu was carrying the fish to the ocean, it said to him: 'Noble protector, the end of the world is at hand. A terrible flood is going to sweep away everything. Build a large, strong boat and put in it seeds of all the plants.'

"When the flood came, Father Manu was prepared. His boat floated on the waters, but he feared that it would tip over. Suddenly the head of a giant fish appeared, and there were horns on the head.

"Father Manu threw a rope around the horns and the fish pulled the boat back and forth over the raging seas. Finally the waters sank, and Manu found dry land—the peak of a mountain. The fish was the god, Brahma, in disguise, and said that Father Manu would have the power to create people."

Pittsburgh to Move KDKA Transmitter

Better Service Expected by Washington Fans by Taking Station 35 Miles Away; KYW Also to Improve by Moving.

Station KDKA, Pittsburgh's pioneer broadcasting station, has been granted a permit to move its transmitter to a new location, and several sites, all about 35 miles distant from Pittsburgh, are now being tested by engineers. When a satisfactory new site is selected a new and modern broadcasting transmitter will be installed which will improve the station's service range. This is of especial interest to Washington listeners, inasmuch as KDKA has been received here with difficulty by a great many fans since the new allocation last November.

At the same time, H. P. Davis, vice president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., revealed that Station KYW, Chicago, has been given permission by the Federal Radio Commission to construct a new and more powerful tranamittter in a site also approximately 25 miles from its present location. These two moves are expected to do much to improve the service of these two stations.

"An entirely new transmitter will be constructed for Station KDKA," Mr. Davis said, "which will utilize the same power as before. The new location, however, will give generally better transmission characteristics, especially in so far as distant points are concerned. We feel that the new station will deliver a better average signal level and increase the service range of the station without subjecting Pittsburgh to an excessive high signal.

"With the building of the new station KDKA will use a new type of high-power tube, which was recently developed in our laboratories," Mr. Davis said.

"He also said that the experimental short-wave broadcasting set, famed for its broadcasts to the far North and Antarctic will not be moved at present. The short-wave receiving station, which makes possible the rebroadcasting of European and Australian programs will remain in the same location.

The moving of KYW is a step which the owners believe will assure a more complete service over the Middle West territory, which this station has served since its first program November 11, 1921.

Perhaps for the first time in the history of the radio industry, airplanes will be used on a large scale for delivery purposes when wholesale distributors in several large cities will send ships to Cincinnati within the next few days to obtain samples of the 41-S, newest development in the receiver line to be turned out by the Crosley Radio Corporation.

Distributors in 39 cities have notified Powel Crosley, jr., that they are desirous of having their samples delivered to them at the Lunken Airport in Cincinnati, from whence they will take them by plane to their own cities.

Station WLW, Cincinnati; WOR, Newark, and WLS, Chicago, will be united next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock for a program, originating in the Crosley studios in Cincinnati, for the purpose of announcing the 1929-30 receiving sets to the public. The program will trace the development of radio during the eight years Mr. Crosley has been a broadcaster and manufacturer.

Graham Smackatmee, chief sports announcer for the Irrational Broadcasting Co., will give a puff-by-puff description of the underweight boxing contest between Turnip Head Gilbert and Muscle Feet Sullivan to be heard when WLW, Cincinnati, joins the lavendar network for the broadcast during the musicale novelesque period at 10 o'clock next Sunday evening.

Children to Rehearse Flag Day Capitol Rites

Final rehearsal by more than 1,000 public school children who will participate in the flag day exercises to be held on the east steps of the Capitol Friday night at 7:30 o'clock will be held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The exercises, sponsored by the G. A. R. Woman's Relief Corps, will be given under direction of Mrs. Cora Manoly, patriotic instructor of the organization.

Music will be furnished by the United States Marine Band and a chorus will sing the national anthem and other patriotic airs in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the Stars and Stripes. A group of Civil War veterans, whose ranks are rapidly thinning, are expected to participate in the celebration.

And So INTERPRETS the MODE

A stunning evening outfit, with dress of pale green georgette with matching lace insertions, and coat of the same light green georgette and lace with a large collar of long-haired beige fur. (Courtesy of Martial et Armand, Paris).

THE recent bloodless battle over hats cut high at the back had one longer hair, curls at the neck and definite result, even though it ended in defeat for the hairdressers. And that is that there is assuredly this season a type of hat for every lovely lady.

For several years now hats have been comfortable, undoubtedly, but it could not always be said that they were beautiful. Uniformity in hats has been most unfortunate, from one point of view, for the hat, being placed directly next to the face, has a tremendous effect on the entire expression and appearance.

This summer, without any doubt, you can find exactly the type of hat that best becomes your face. For in the Paris shops we have seen tiny felt hats in every shape and cut, cloches of every style, hats with narrow brims at the sides only (one of the most fashionable shapes at the moment, incidentally), hats with wide brims, berets of every style and description—in a word, something for every one.

Not only are hats being shown in every possible shape, but the range of colors and materials has broadened noticeably. The return to favor of straws of every discription and notably the tropical straws and those of large, flat weave, has increased the variety of hat styles, for these straws are being used in every color and in combination with every sort of material imaginable.

In all the swirling and twirling, milling and teeming beach—of course, the beach doesn't, but the people on it do, one spots only here and there the "knockout figure" in the knitted bathing suit.

'Salright for she of the k. f., but how about the rest of us?

Well, we just sent a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet, which tells us how to make a chic bathing suit, which discreetly covers our "knockoutless figure" and makes everyone sure that we have a k. f.—cause we're so nonchalant about it!

Have you mailed your envelope, we mean?

Fashion French.

Oh-o-o-o-o, such a luv-lee evening ensemble we've sketched for you today!

Lovely and typically Martial et Armand in its elegance—with the beautiful gown of light green georgette and its matching lace insertions and its pale green wrap of the same color and material trimmed in the lace that covers the entire upper part of the back, and light beige fur.

Mme. Dare's weekly fashion letter appears in Washington exclusively in The Post. Watch for it.

What Today Means to You

JUNE 12.

By MARY BLAKE.

"GEMINI."

IF June 12 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6 a. m. to 8 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m.

The astrological indications for this day are very negative in character. It will be difficult to evoke an interest or enthusiasm for things, and many expectations will not be realized. It will be a day of extreme inactivity.

Children born on this date will be keenly observant and very good mimics. They will be able to do what they see others do, without further preparation. They will be extremely fond of social life and all kinds of sporting activities.

You are distinctly a "mental" type of person in all you undertake. There is nothing faulty about your reasoning powers. You are able to concentrate to an exceptional degree. You master a subject from A to Z, with an understanding which few possess.

Your theories are flawless and you can mentally vision the correct way to do things. You are a master teacher, a born critic and an ideal director. You, however, would be a failure at physical or manual work. Supervising, instructing or research work, in some form or other, is your forte. You are a keen student of human nature and you are not often fooled in your character analysis. You can express yourself by word or writing in a simple, concise and most understandable way. You are very tolerant, very sympathetic and very human. "There is no wisdom that can take the place of humanity."

You are not an intellectual snob, and you are patient with those who are less alert. You are able to find interesting qualities in the simple and uneducated—you recognize diamonds in the rough. You can see good in the midst of much that is unlovely. You help a great many others to reach their goals, and you glory in their success. You are very unselfish.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

June 12.

THE great English author, Harriet Martineau, was born this day, 1802. This woman made a name for herself in the literature of the world in spite of the fact that she had no sense of smell, taste or hearing and had to earn her own living. She touched on many subjects. Her work, "Household Education," expounds the theory that freedom and rationality rather than command and obedience are the most effectual instruments of education.

She wrote a series of tales for children. One of her best-known works is "Society in America." Intended as a comparison of the "existing state of society in America with the principles on which it is proposedly founded." She paid a long visit to this country in 1843. A remarkably candid autobiography was published after her death. In 1844 her health was restored after a course of mesmerism. She was a believer in philosophical atheism. In her later years she cultivated a tiny farm with success.

Alice M. W. Rollins, American author, was born this day, 1847.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE PRICE.

There is a price for everything.
And so before you take
One step in doubt, be sure about
The bargain you must make.
For when the tempter offers you
A chance to play the cheat,
To take that fee, a cheat you'll be
To every man you meet.

Not every bill is written out,
Not every cost foretold.
But youth should know where'er they go
That fame is bought and sold.
Some barter men's respect for gain.
Some, tempted by a vice,
Sell out to sin, a thrill to win,
And long regret the price.

But who would be a manly man,
An upright man and true,
Must oft deny the easy lie
And lose a joy or two.
And he must brave the trickster's sneers
As true to all he stays
And touch no gain that brings a stain,
And that's the price he pays.

So choose you well what joys you'll buy,
And what from life you'll take.
What sort of fame, what kind of name
You really want to make.
Don't blindly seize on this or that Until you know the cost,
For there's no gain which leaves a stain
That's worth the pride you've lost.

"Parking With Peggy"

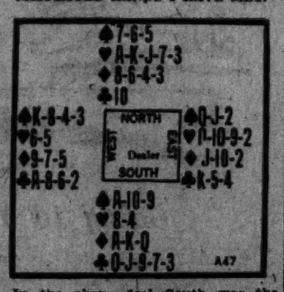
The fact that the woman pays and pays is what keeps the man of the family broke.

Quartermaster Corps to Celebrate.

The officers of the Quartermaster Corps of the Army will celebrate the 154th birthday of the corps with a dinner Saturday night in the Press Club Building. Similar celebrations will be held throughout the United States and in outlying garrisons.

WORK ON BRIDGE

MISPLAYED HANDS I HAVE MET.



In the above deal South was the Declarer playing a No Trump contract (at Auction the contract would be two No Trumps, at Contract three No Trumps); the play was as follows:

West led the Deuce of Clubs. East played the King, South the Trey. East, appreciated that his partner had led a four-card suit and consequently that South must have four Clubs remaining and be longer than West, shifting from Clubs to Spades, leading the Queen. The Declarer held up his Ace of Spades until the third round, but in spite of this precautionary measure he was unable to make game.

Was there any way in which he could have done so?

THE CORRECT PLAY

The question asked above cannot be answered positively because it is impossible to say what East would have done under conditions that did not arise. It can be said, however, that the Declarer's best chance to go game would have been to play his Seven of Clubs on the first trick instead of the Trey. Had he done so, East probably would have assumed that West held the Trey of Clubs and had led from a five card suit. If so, South would have only three Clubs remaining and East would be apt to deem it advisable to return his partner's suit up to dummy's weakness, rather than open an untried suit. If East, to trick 2, should return his partner's Club lead, Declarer could take ten tricks without difficulty—one more than game—as in that case he would win three Clubs, four Diamonds, one Spade and two Hearts. The play of the Seven of Clubs may not produce the desired result, but at least it can do no harm and is well worth trying.

UPTURN IN UTILITIES ENDS BEARS' DRIVE

Stock Trading Drifts Along at Slowest Pace Since Last August.

CALL MONEY 8 PER CENT

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—The stock market appeared to have fallen into a period of stagnation today, comparable to those which followed the breaks of March, 1926, and June, 1928. Trading drifted along at the slowest pace experienced on the exchange since last August—the day's turnover exceeding 2,000,000 shares by a narrow margin—and prices fluctuated uncertainly as professional traders contested rather feebly for control.

A bear drive during the morning depressed a wide assortment of issues about 2 to 4 points, but shorts were driven to cover before the close by a brisk upturn in the utilities, which carried the Associated Press Price index of 30 leading utility stocks up about 2 points to another record level.

Call money held at 8 per cent, the figure reached yesterday, and bankers predicted that it would hold around that level for a few days. Time money, however, was a fraction higher, at 6¾ per cent for maturities up to 90 days, reflecting the prospect of rather stringent money conditions the last half of the month.

Gain in Bank Loans.

The Federal Reserve condition statement of weekly reporting member banks showed a gain of $85,000,000 in loans on securities, a rather disappointing showing after the recent declines in brokers' loans.

The days news included a slight increase in crude oil production for last week, greater output in California offsetting declines elsewhere. Steel mills were said to be operating at a slightly higher rate than last week, an extraordinary trend for this time of year. The expected 5-for-1 splitup of Burroughs Adding Machine stock was announced, and the new stock placed on an 80-cent annual dividend basis, equal to $4 on the old, which paid $8.

Pan-American Petroleum announced that an offer to minority stockholders of Mexican Petroleum would be deferred pending more favorable stock market conditions.

Volatile Issues Move Up Easily.

A few of the more volatile issues were rushed up easily in the unusually thin market. Commercial Solvents jumped 12 points, to another record price at 410. Warren Bros. climbed 11 points and Allied Chemical, Auburn Auto, Commonwealth Power and National Biscuit, 7 to 9. In the utilities, American Water Works, Federal Light & Traction and North American reached new high ground, the last climbing 6 points.

Food shares were again stimulated by merger rumors, Fleischmann rising nearly 5 points to a new peak. Independent steels were also in demand, reflecting reports of increased operations. Crucible sold up about 5 points to a new peak, and Youngstown & Republic made fair gains. Motors displayed a better tone, Chrysler, Packard and General Motors moving up a point or two. Nash closed firm after sagging to a new low for the year.

National Distillers preferred mounted about 6 points to a new peak on reports that it may be redeemed at 110. Air Reduction, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and General Asphalt also reach new high ground.

Burroughs Drops 12 Points.

Burroughs Adding Machine dropped about 12 points, to 305, on "selling on the good news of the split-up, but closed at 310. Sparks Withington dropped 8 points, and Hershey Chocolate lost 4. Hayes Body and United Fruit were among issues selling at new lows for the year. Radio dropped a couple of points to 79½, a new low for the current movement, but reduced its loss to a fraction before the close.

The commodities generally improved, with the exception of raw sugar. Wheat futures sold 2 cents and more a bushel higher, on better export demand and bearish weather forecasts. Corn made like gains. July Sugar fell to still another new low for this exchange, at 1.59 cents. As the Cuban sugar grinding season nears its end, crop estimates are being revised upward. With possibilities that the new tariff will be held up for some time, no improvement is looked for in the near future in this market.

Foreign exchanges were dull but somewhat easier, sterling cables falling to 4.84 13-16, the lowest level since the Bank of England raised its discount rate in February. German marks were also under pressure.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—The cotton market was quiet today and fluctuations correspondingly narrow with a slight early decline on reports of good weather and relatively easy cables followed by rallies on covering of trade buying in the near months and a little commission house demand for later deliveries, probably in addition of a bullish report on boll weevil emergence toward the end of the week. October sold up from 18.58 to 18.67 and closed at 18.65, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 5 to 6 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 1 to 4 points under light offerings accompanied by bearish comment on the standard cloth statistics for May, favorable weather reports, and easier Liverpool cables. July eased off to 18.41 and December to 18.74, or about 3 to 4 points below yesterday's closing quotations, but the small offerings were quite readily absorbed and the market steadied during the middle of the day.

Trading continued quiet and may have been restricted to some extent by uncertainty as to action in Washington on the farm relief bill. The firmness of grain, however, encouraged some buying, while there was talk of a probably bullish report from the Government on boll weevil emergence. This report is scheduled for publication at 3 o'clock, New York time, on Friday, June 14, but a good many private reports have been reaching the trade indicating little infestation, and the forbearance probably met a little selling on an idea that any bullish features in the approaching report had been discounted.

Some rather conflicting opinions were expressed as to the probable showing of the weekly report by the Weather Bureau tomorrow, which some traders expected to emphasize the recent rains, others thought it was likely to show better progress with farm work. The standard cloth statistics showed sales for May amounting to 61.8 per cent of production with an increase of 4.3 per cent in stocks on hand and a decrease of 11.1 per cent in unfilled orders.

Cable advices reporting that weaving employers had decided to press the same demand for wage reduction as spinners failed to attract much comment. Imports today, 1,320, making 1,740,297 so far this season. Port receipts, 5,763. U. S. port stocks, 1,010,642.

NATS, ON BATTING RAMPAGE, TROUNCE INDIANS, 13-3

Sprint Glory Again Aim of McAllister

"Flying Cop" to Make Comeback Monday Against Stars.

Has Retired Twice; Starting Blocks Seen as Aid.

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, June 11 (U.P.).—It was in a smoky, noisy, rather rowdy little Dutch night club—the only night club in Amsterdam permitted by the staid old burghers to remain open after 1 a. m.—that Bob McAllister, slightly flushed and very serious, made dramatic announcement of his retirement from the cinder path one morning last August.

The Olympic 100-meter dash had taken place the afternoon before and while Percy Williams was the toast of the town, friends were shaking McAllister's hand commiserating with him in pulling up lame after finishing sixth n that final dramatic sprint.

"I'll never run again," said Bob, with a tremor in his voice not unlike those he introduces in his concert appearances. "I wanted to close my career with an Olympic championship, but God struck me down. Its fate. I wasn't meant to win."

But now McAllister is coming back, to try once more against the fastest sprinters in the land.

Lure of Cinders Again Beats in His Breast.

Bob will change his police chauffeur's uniform for his old Olympic silks and spikes next Monday evening and engage in the special "twilight sprint," which brings together a field of stars.

The lure of the cinders, the feeling that one can really run just a little faster than the other fellow, sounds in the ears of a sprinter like the mating call to the wood dove or the clash of arms to the old war horse. Charles Paddock can't resist the urge to try again, despite repeated "retirements," nor can Jack Scolz, nor McAllister.

And it must be remembered that these fellows are veterans—all in their thirties—while the younger crop, the Simpsons, Tolans and Braceys, are reeling off centuries in 9 2-5, 9 5-10 and 9 3-5 seconds, not once but every time they take the track.

McAllister was actually in retirement, considered a veteran who had passed his prime, when the time for the Olympic tryouts came, a year ago. No one figured on the erstwhile "flying cop" doing more than cluttering up the cinders at Cambridge. Instead, Bob churned them up so successfully that he was at Frank Wykoff's heels at the finish of the finals of the 100-meter dash, and second-string sprinter when the President Roosevelt took the American team to Amsterdam.

Declares Starting Blocks Will Prove Help.

Bob always maintained that a pulled tendon cost him victory in the Olympic 100-meter dash. He said today that the same injury had come back to him but that he would give his best on Monday anyhow.

"I'll give my best. I always have. But I'm going to have to tape up my leg to do it," he said this afternoon as he stole a few minutes for a workout.

"I came back once before, and I didn't do so badly at Amsterdam. I might do so again," Bob continued. "If I can use starting blocks, it'll be right in my alley. You know how I can get away off those babies."

McAllister said he might try out for the "220" later on, in preference to the "100," but that his real effort would be made indoors next season.

AVENUE VALETORS PLAY.

The Avenue Valet Shop Nine has two games over the week-end. Saturday the Holy Rosary Tossers will be met on the Churchmen's diamond, while on Sunday the Kayo Athletic Club will be played on the North Ellipse. Both games will start at 3 o'clock. The manager of the Holy Rosary Team is asked to telephone Manager Mike Freshci at Franklin 9511.

MIDGET NINES PLAY.

The Lionel and Sam Rice Midget Nines will clash today at 5 o'clock on No. 2 Monument diamond.

Bracey Consents to Race Simpson in Capital Meet

CLAUDE BRACEY.

WASHINGTON will be the sprinting capital of the Nation on Saturday. Claude Bracey, of Rice Institute, Texas, who has earned the soubriquet of "Houston Express," yesterday consented to enter the special 100-yard dash of the South Atlantic A. A. U. games at the Central High School Stadium, where he will match strides with George Simpson, Ohio State's holder of the world 100-yard dash record if Simpson's injured leg suffered after his record-breaking feat last Saturday, is sufficiently improved.

Word received from Frank Casselman, Ohio State athletic director, by A. A. U. Commissioner Ernest L. Spitzer, declared that all possible effort was being made to have Simpson ready to race here Saturday, lending the meet the aspect of a sprinting classic of proportions unrivaled in track history. Simpson would appear in uniform, even if unable to compete, Spitzer declared, although expressing himself as confident that the Ohio State flash would run.

Bracey Outstanding Rival Of Record Holder.

Past records stamp Bracey as Simpson's outstanding rival. The Texan before Simpson's record-breaking run in 9 2-5 seconds last Saturday, generally was considered Simpson's superior after numerous brushes in which Simpson always trailed him, but the Ohio State man beat him a full stride in smashing the record.

Even with the possibility that Simpson might not run, a sprinting classic is assured the South Atlantic meet. The meet officials already have received the entry of Reginald (Pete) Bowen, University of Pittsburgh star and holder of the intercollegiate championship at 440 yards, who has been one of Simpson's outstanding rivals, although always trailing the Ohio State man. Bowen will oppose Bracey with the probability that it will be a three-cornered race with Simpson included.

The District of Columbia record for the 100 yards, set at 9.7 by Frank Hussey, when the Boston College runner was still a New York high school boy, seems certain to fall. Simpson, Bracey and Bowen rarely have failed to better the 9.7 mark, and the Capital may be the scene of a 9.5 "century" with the Central track in perfect condition.

Entries for the meet closed yesterday with officials expressing satisfaction at results. Approximately 125 athletes from the District, Maryland and Virginia will compete with the South Atlantic senior A. A. U. titles at stake in sixteen events.

Capital Police Training To Race Baltimore.

Intent on giving their brother minions of the law from Baltimore a real battle for honors in the special policeman's relay race, eight men of the Metropolitan Department are training daily in the Columbia Heights Stadium.

Although it will be their first appearance in competition of this kind, the Capital City policemen expect to offer a speedy exhibition.

The local team will be selected from the following: Karl Speise and Henry H. Prince, of No. 6 Precinct; Jesse D. Martin, Harry C. League and J. F Titus, No. 13 Precinct; John R. Pinkert, No. 12 Precinct; James E. Kenney, No. 10 Precinct, and A. E. Brown, of the Traffic Bureau.

Kipke Named To Michigan Grid Post

Former All-American Back Selected Head Coach by Yost.

To Succeed Wieman; Resigns Position at Michigan State.

DETROIT, Mich., June 11 (A.P.).—Harry G. Kipke, all-American half back at the University of Michigan, will return to his alma mater next September as head football coach, according to announcement late today by Fielding H. Yost, director of intercollegiate athletics.

Kipke succeeds Elton E. (Tad) Wieman, who was removed from his position by Yost. Franklin C. Cappon, former head football coach at the University of Kansas, will take over Wieman's duties as assistant director of intercollegiate athletics. Cappon already is a member of the Michigan coaching staff.

Wieman will remain at the university as assistant professor of physical education.

The athletic board of Michigan State College at East Lansing, met this morning and accepted Kipke's resignation as head football coach. Kipke had a three year contract at the college which still had two years to run.

Blott, Veenker, Oosterbaan Are Named as Assistants.

Kipke's assistants at Ann Arbor will be Jack Blott, former all-American center. George Veenker, who also is head basket ball coach, and Bennie Oosterbann, all-American end for three years, 1925, 1926, and 1927. Ray Courtright will coach the "B" team and Ray Fisher, baseball coach, will be in charge of the freshman squad. Clifford Keen, wrestling coach, will have charge of a sophomore football team.

Yost made the announcement of Kipke's selection to the head football coaching position after he was told late this afternoon that Kipke's resignation had been accepted by the athletic board of Michigan State College. The athletic director previously had said he would announce who would be the head coach at a meeting of the ninth district University of Michigan Club tonight at the Brooklands Golf and Country Club, near Rochester, Mich.

Yanks Make 17 Hits, 3 Triples, Beating Browns

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—The Yankees assaulted four St. Louis pitchers for 17 hits and 24 bases here today, and the champions won their third straight over the Browns by 11 to 5. Combs, Lazzeri and Durocher tossed triples into the Yankee collection. Comb's drive being his fifth triple in his last four games.

TWO UPSETS IN BRITISH AMATEUR

Walker Cup Stars Are Beaten; Dawson Is Idle Again.

By FRANK H. KING
(Associated Press Staff Writer).

SANDWICH, England, June 11 (A.P.).—While John Dawson, of Chicago, continued to wait for an opportunity in the British amateur golf championship, the first round of play was completed today and half the second-round disposed of.

Two major upsets featured the eliminations when two members of the last British Walker Cup Team, Lord Charles Hope and Maj. C. O. Hezlet, were defeated. Cyril Tolley and some other favorites had narrow escapes.

Six Americans remain in the competition. In addition to Dawson, Robert H. Baugh, jr., Douglas Grant, Joshua Crane and Charles Sweeney remain as a result of victories today, while Stuart Schefte1 advanced when his opponent defaulted.

Duncan Anderson carried Grant to the eighteenth hole and Bobby Baught, the Rhodes scholar, had to play nineteen holes to win his second-round match. Joshua Crane disposed of the titled Englishman, Lord Charles Hope, 4 and 2, and young Charles Sweeney revenged defeats of his two kinsmen yesterday by Downing C. H. Brickell, 6 and 4.

Dawson to Make His Debut in Play Today.

Dawson makes his debut early tomorrow, with Dr J. C. MacCormack as his opponent. The Chicago star will be equipped with a new set of wood clubs which clubmakers at George's sat up late last night to finish. Dawson has been using 14½-ounce clubs and his new ones weigh 15 ounces. He got good results with the new clubs in practice today.

The great match in today's play was Tolley's struggle with William Sutton, the Chesire artisan, who had his famous golfing opponent two down at the turn and fought him to the last hole before admitting defeat.

Tolley, former Oxford team captain and player of international reputation, had a difficult task in defeating the workingman from the West Cheshire Club, where he is one of twenty youths of golfing talent allowed to play on the course in the evening for a few shillings a year.

Fitzsimmons Deals Reds Second Shutout of Series

Cincinnati, June 11 (A.P.).—Fred Fitzsimmons won his second shutout from the Reds in hour days as the Giants defeated the home team by 9 to 0 here today to earn an even break in the four games. The big right-hander gave up seven hits today as against only three in last Saturday's game.

PROHIBITION
—Agents Now Are—PROHIBITED
By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, June 11.—Mr. E. C. Yellowly, the professional irritant who used to cause the citizens of New York some minor inconveniences on behalf of the prohibition department, is now causing serious discomfort among the golfers in the vicinity of Chicago. Until a short time ago the golf clubs there subscribed to a curious local rule whereby a prohibition agent was deemed to be a gentleman until the contrary was proved, and, by this odd social concept, Mr. Yellowly's deputies were permitted to frequent the golf courses on terms of respectability.

A prohibit on agent was even eligible to membership in a golf club, provided he had the money, which seems to have been a redundant provision if all one hears about the fascinations of this kind of work is true.

While golfing in this guise the agent made note of the character and quantity of the refreshments consumed by the members and of their effect on the consumers who reacted to their refreshments about the same as golfers everywhere react to them. Mr. Yellowly then ordered the presidents and managers of all the golf clubs around Chicago not only to forbid but to prevent their members from sipping the seductive rickey and the high ball in their locker rooms after their rounds of golf.

Sponsored Theory Prohibition Agent Was Gentleman.

I believe the rules have since been so amended that no prohibition agent may be regarded as anything but a prohibition agent at any time or under any circumstances. But the consequences of the original mistake are still being suffered in all the golf clubs around Chicago, and there is much indignation against the original sponsors of the theory that a prohibition agent may be a gentleman when he is not on duty or at any other time.

The annoyance is acute at the present time as every member of a golf club feels that he, personally, would not like to be responsible for the issuance of a padlock writ which would close the clubhouse to all the other members and compel them to change their clothes behind the shrubbery and take their baths in the water hazards.

In consequence of this, the members have removed their bottles of refreshments from their lockers and taken them elsewhere and one sees dry expressions about the locker rooms and the grills and verandas as the golfers endeavor to deceive themselves with near-beer that is not the remotest approximation of beer, even to the most optimistic imagination.

Near Beer Wins Prize as Championship Mockery.

It has been alleged on quite good authority that wine is a mocker and, on the basis of a rather conscientious research, I can corroborate this. But nothing has ever been said about the mockery of a drink of sarsparilla served in an old stone crock or stein that used to be filled with Pilsner, to a person of sedentary habits who has just come in after thrashing the burdock, the mustard and the clover in an 18-hole round of golf. I insist, that as mock-

Dykes, Simmons and Foxx Hit Circuit Drives in Rout.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics gave the Chicago White Sox a taste of their batting power today, hammering Ed Walsh, jr., and Danny Dugan on the mound for a 14-to-3 victory.

Jimmy Dykes hit the first home run of the game off Walsh with two on in the fourth, breaking a 2-2 tie. The other blows for the circuit were Simmons' thirteenth of the year in the seventh, and Foxx's eleventh of the season in the eighth.

6-Run Attack Ends Miller In Third

Marberry Goes Route; Nats Add to Lead Off Harder.

Goslin Is Hurt, Leaves Game; Hayes Drives Home 4 Runs.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

GIVING their best exhibition of plain and fancy hitting staged on the home heath this season, the Nationals soundly trounced the Indians yesterday, 13 to 3, to take the odd game of the current set. Having read somewhere that Johnson's charges are weak against southpaw slants and being convinced that the pummeling given Joe Shaute in the Sabbath fracas was an accident, Manager Roger Peckinpaugh used Walter Miller, another southpaw, yesterday, and what the Nats did to his slants was "nobody's business," as the players say.

Miller lasted less than three rounds, being pounded for six hits and seven runs before giving way to Mel Harder. The latter proved a little harder for the home boys to fathom until the sixth, when a four-run rally in which a half-dozen hits figured, made life anything but worth living for him.

George Grant hurled the last two frames and he limited the Nats to but one safety by the simple method of walking three in one inning and one in another. It was simply a case of all pitchers looking alike to Johnson's charges yesterday and every player who saw action, except Catcher Bennie Tate, who was up but once, took part in the attack.

Tribe Offers No Competition After Nats' Third Session.

While some of the home bingles were of the scratch variety and others were not played any too well by the Clevelanders, as a general proposition the Nats hit hard as well as timely, the summary showing a triple by Buddy Myer and two-base clouts by Joe Cronin, Red Barnes, Ira Flagstead and Sonny Boy Hayes. All except Barnes also were credited with singles, but Hayes gets top honors in this respect in that he propelled home four mates. Catcher Muddy Ruel had a perfect average, being intentionally passed twice and singling on the other two trips he made to the plate.

All of this stick work did not make it necessary for Fred Marberry to pitch as well as he did, the big fellow holding the Tribe scoreless until his mates gave him a commanding lead, after

WAR WHITES, 16TH FIELD ARTILLERY WIN AT POLO

Civilian Fours Defeated in Tourney

Artillery Team Victor Over Maryland Club, 15-6.

Middleburg Is Beaten, 11-8, by War Department Whites.

THE Sixteenth Field Artillery and the War White Polo Teams handily defeated Maryland Polo Club and Middleburg, respectively, visiting civilian teams, yesterday in Southeastern District intercircuit matches.

The Artillerymen spotted Maryland Polo Club five goals and held it to one earned marker, winning, 15 to 6. The War Whites conceded Middleburg a three-goal handicap and had a slightly more difficult time in getting a 11-to-8 verdict.

The only marker scored by the Maryland Club came from the mallet of Mr. Foster in the first chukker while the victors scored in every period but the fourth.

No Game Today, But Fort Benning and Third Cavalry Play Tomorrow.

Middleburg, on the other hand, contested the White four in every period and until the fifth the Virginians kept within two goals of the War Department Team.

Today will be one of rest for the polo'ists but tomorrow the Third Cavalry will make its first appearance in the tourney, having as its opponents the Fort Benning Team, which eliminated the War Blues last Tuesday.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LADY GOSSIP, $8.20, $3.44, $3.00; CLEORA, $6.22, $4.84; BOSSIE, $3.50.

LADY GOSSIP, away well and hard hustled, shook off repeated challenges from CLEORA through stretch and was drawing clear last seventy yards. CLEORA, prominent from start but forced wide through stretch by winner, held on determinedly, but was not good enough. BOSSIE, outpaced for three-eighths, moved up steadily thereafter and finished resolutely. BROOKDALE MISS closed a gap from a slow beginning.

SECOND RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-old maidens, colts and geldings. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:30. Off at 2:32. Winner, F. P. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SOUTHLAND PRINCE, $14.02, $7.16, $4.83; COBY, $6.82, $5.33; ON TRIAL, $4.85.

SOUTHLAND PRINCE, in close quarters to the turn, and responding when clear, outgamed COBY in a long, hard drive. Latter assumed the lead immediately after start, saved ground along the stretch and only weakened final strides. ON TRIAL, a forward factor and also saving ground through stretch, came again near the end when seemingly tiring and closed with good courage. LESPORT showed a good effort.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:05. Off at 3:06. Winner, S. W. Holman's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLANC SEING, $10.20, $5.46, $3.58; MASTER, $23.84, $11.32; LE FLORE, $7.80.

BLANC SEING, racing suddenly improved, was sent into a long lead on the turn and, continuing gamely, was increasing advantage through stretch. MASTER, always in nearest pursuit of the winner, held on courageously to outstay LE FLORE. Latter moved up determinedly and straightened out in stretch but was trying near end.

FOURTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. The Denmark. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:30. Off at 4:33. Winner, Callahar and Combs' ch. f. (2), by Bunting—Whirl. Trained by E. S. Combs. Value to winner, $900; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 1-5, 0:59 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LADY FINGERS, $7.10 $3.76, $3.12; FAIR ROSALIND, $3.06, $2.44; BETTY ANN, 43.00.

LADY FINGERS, reserved closely behind leaders to the turn and, responding gamely when ready, easily disposed of BETTY ANN. FAIR ROSALIND, hard pressed from start, bore out at extreme outside of the turn and, continuing well when straightened out again, outstayed BETTY ANN. Latter held on well to the last sixteenth, where she weakened badly. CAMPION could never improve position.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,300; claiming. The Grand Hotel. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:58. Off at 3:59. Winner, R. C. Stable's br. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BROWN FLASH, $11.22, $5.22, $6.32; DUNMORE, $6.56, $6.80; BUDDY BASIL, $10.16.

BROWN FLASH, held under restraint first half mile, moved around leaders when called upon entering the stretch and, taking command easily, drove out last eighth. DUNMORE, outrun to the turn, came with a belated rush on outside and closed strongest of all. BUDDY BASIL worked way to front first half mile, raced into a good lead while saving ground, but could not withstand winner's challenge. KENTUCKY ACE raced well throughout. FAIRY MAIDEN was pinched back rearing the far turn and could never reach a contentious position thereafter. BROAD AXE quit.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200. The Glencoe. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:22. Off at 4:29. Winner, R. S. Clark's ch. c. (4), by High Time—Sagacity. Trained by A. Baker. Value to winner, $900; second, $200; third, $100. Time 0:22 4-5, 0:46, 1:11 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WISDOM, $4.32, $2.46, out; ILLEGITIMATE, $2.18, out; RETORT out.

WISDOM took command at once, raced into a good lead under steadying restraint and, although tiring last sixteenth, held ILLEGITIMATE safe. Latter was reserved behind the winner, responded well when hard urged, but weakened slightly near end.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:00. Off at 5:02. Winner, Mrs. M. Two-dollar mutuels paid—STARS AND STRIPES, $6.70, $4.48, $2.94; LITTLE SCOUT, $6.06, $4.90; PURPLE SAND, $4.22.

STARS AND STRIPES worked his way up fast after reaching stretch and, racing PURPLE SAND into defeat, drew out decisively. LITTLE SCOUT was forced back on the first turn, moved up strongly when clear through stretch and held on gamely to outlast PURPLE SAND. Latter raced well throughout and only bogged tiring last sixteenth.

COLUMBIA OPENS QUALIFICATIONS FOR RECORD FIELD

Medal Sought In Tourney By 390

2-Day Trials to Start Today; Many Stars Are Entered.

Finkenstadt Returns to Old Haunts; Other News of Links.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

WHEN Major H. Robb and Joseph O'Hare both of Bannockburn, tee off this morning at 7:40 o'clock, they will be the first of a record field of 390 which today and tomorrow will battle for medal honors and the right to continue in match play in the annual invitation golf tournament of the Columbia Country Club.

Of particular interest in this event will be the showing of Robert (Bob) Finkenstadt, who, after several years' residence in Ohio and Chicago, returns to the Capital to compete over the course where he first learned the game. He suddenly sprang into prominence in 1919, when he won the District championship, and he maintained his rating as Washington's Number 1 golfer during the next two seasons.

Best Players in This Vicinity Entered.

If Finkenstadt wins medal honors in the tournament which starts today, he will have to underscore some of the best players in this vicinity for among the entrants will be Thomas W. Sasscer, of Baltimore, former Maryland champion; Miller B. Stevinson, of Columbia, District champion; Harry G. Pitt, of Manor, former Middle Atlantic Association title holder; Joseph DiLeo, medalist in the Town and Country and Indian Spring tournaments; and Page Hufty, Frank K. Roesch and S. H. Syracuse Club Relents After Striking for Salary

Syracuse, N. Y., June 11 (A.P.).—Syracuse baseball players who went on strike today because of failure to receive back salaries, agreed tonight to resume play tomorrow. After a conference attended by President John H. Farrell, of the New York-Pennsylvania League, which owns the club, and Manager Wilhelm, manager of the Syracuse Team, it was announced that the players would be given their salary checks tomorrow and would play their scheduled game against Elmira here.

The strike was called after attorneys for the players had twice served notice on John H. Farrell, of Auburn, president of the league, that unless the back pay was delivered before game time, 3 o'clock, there would be no game. The game for today, the last of a series with Williamsport, was declared forfeited, 9 to 0.

which he did not bear down until he had to.

It looked as though the Indians might furnish competition until the home third, for his offerings were knicked for four hits, one each in the first and second and two in the third. Snappy double-plays kept down any serious threats, however, although a runner was crossing the plate when the one negotiated in round 3 was completed. This would have matched a run molded by the Nats in their second stanza, the result of Tavener's error, Cronin's double and Hayes' sacrifice fly.

Judge and Marberry Hit to Foil Peck's Strategic Moves.

Then came the first of the two big home sessions, the third, and from then on it was just a matter of finishing out the string for the benefit of the small gathering of cash customers. The latter received its biggest kick from two hits of Pechtinpaugh strategy which went wrong, the intentional passing of first Cronin and then Judge. Both times the pass filled the bases and on each occasion the next batters up Judge and Marberry, respectively, followed with safeties, the pitcher's being a real one which scored two runs. Other contributions in the frame were singles by Myer and Goslin and Hayes' double.

A two-ply clout by Barnes, singles by Rice, Flagstead, Cronin, Hayes and Ruel and a passed ball figured in the 4-run uprising in the sixth, while Myer's opening triple and Rice's air sacrifice netted that coined in the seventh, in which Grant also passed three, who were left.

It was not until the sixth that the Indians did any scoring, J. Sewell's single, Falk's double and a sacrifice fly netting one marker, while two more were added in the next canto on Tavener's opening triple, Pinch Hitter Dick Porter's double which followed, and Fonseca's one-shot which came later in the inning.

PROHIBITION LESSON IS TAUGHT GOLF CLUB

ery goes, this is of championship quality.

The stewards and locker boys of the Chicago golf clubs have been impressed with the solemn importance of right-living until further notice and, although one may obtain cracked ice and ginger ale, or lime juice and mineral water, it is forbidden to serve or suffer to be found conveniently at hand, any spoon or swizzle-stick which might be used in the compounding of a stimulating beverage and, consequently, of a misdemeanor in the meaning of the statutes.

Storage Out of Bounds Is Found Inconvenient.

In some instances, the golfers have discovered facilities for the storage and absorption of their refreshments in farmers' cottages and similar unofficial premises situated outside but adjacent to the club property. But the inconvenience is great, nevertheless, and the more so because the golfers realize that they brought it upon themselves by their too-liberal social policy toward the prohibition agent.

Also, there is always the brooding possibility that the honest rustic owning the farm house will tire of his own silence and moisten his barbarian gullet with nectars imported from the Canadian Dominion at great cost of money and stealth to revive a director of corporations after a hard p. m. in the fields.

There was one club member but recently committed to the state of matrimony who, out of his vast inexperience in domestic diplomacy, invited all his fellow members to store their supplies in the furnace room of his dwelling, which stands near the old nineteenth hole. But this offer of asylum was withdrawn in some embarrassment within 24 hours.

Appeal to Washington Seen For Downtrodden Rich.

"The little woman," he was forced to explain, "does not understand that we are just a lot of grown-up boys who like some innocent fun after our golf. She states that she will not have any gang of bums making a saloon out of her cellar. I told her my friends were gentlemen and not bums, but she said, 'that is what you thought when you let the prohibition agents play golf at the club. You are no judge of gentlemen.'"

The situation is so wretched that I look for an appeal to Washington almost any day, signed by representative capitalists, merchants and professional gentlemen, asking that Mr. Yellowly be sent back to his native Vicksburg to irritate his old friends, who may understand him better. The golf clubs include the majority of that class of prominent citizens who hold that prohibition would be a fine thing for the workingman, because the workingman did not know when he had had enough to drink. Incidentally, I have always thought that the reason why the so-called workingmen did not know when they had had enough was because they never had enough, but that may be immaterial.

One of the club members was quite indignant against the present discrimination in the enforcement of the law, as he said Mr. Yellowly permitted the workingmen to drink timulants in speakeasies all over town, but would not permit the leading citizens to do so in their expensive clubs. He made a very pathetic appeal for fair play for the down-trodden rich.

Owen Tossers to Engage Black Sox on Sunday

CHEER UP! THEY'LL THROW RICE AND OLD SHOES AT YOU, AND IF ANY OF YOUR FRIENDS HAVE BIG FEET, YOU'LL WAKE UP IN THE HOSPITAL!
PULL IN YOUR CLAWS, MAIZIE, BEFORE YOU SCRATCH YOURSELF!
IF I GET THROUGH THIS MARRIAGE SAFELY, I'LL NEVER DO IT AGAIN! I KNOW I'M HAPPY, BUT I'M TOO SCARED TO SHOW IT!
YOU DON'T KNOW HOW LUCKY YOU ARE! I MAY BE BEST MAN, BUT IF I COULD MAKE IT A DOUBLE WEDDING I'D BE STILL BETTER! I'M GOING TO ASK ELLA AGAIN AFTER THE CEREMONY!

GASOLINE ALLEY — Don't Go Away, Skeezix

PHYLLIS WHO DO YOU THINK CALLED ON ME TODAY? OCTAVE! SHE HAD SOMETHING SHE WANTED TO TALK OVER IN HER APARTMENT BUT SHE CAME TO MY OFFICE WHEN I WOULDN'T CALL ON HER
WHAT DID SHE WANT THIS TIME?
OH THE USUAL! SKEEZIX OF COURSE, THE ARGUMENT BEING THAT NOW I HAVE A SON OF MY OWN SKEEZIX DOESN'T COUNT ANY MORE.
WITH ALL HER SOPHISTICATION SHE DOESN'T UNDERSTAND VERY DEEPLY.
SKEEZIX!
WHAT DO YOU WANT, UNCLE WALT? THE KIDS WANT ME FOR SHORTSTOP.
NOTHING SKEEZIX I JUST WANTED TO GET HOLD OF YOU A MINUTE!

ELIZABETH, WHAT IS THE MEANING OF THIS?
THE MEANING OF WHAT, FATHER?
OH?!
Darling When I return we must tell your father of our love. He will understand. I'm sure. Good bye my sweat heart - I adore you Stuart
I FOUND THAT IN YOUR DESK AS I WAS LOOKING FOR A NEW QUILL" AM I TO BELIEVE THAT IT WAS WRITTEN TO YOU AND THAT BEHIND MY BACK, YOU HAVE BEEN CARRYING ON A LOVE AFFAIR WITH A COMMON SOLDIER?"
THIS STUART REYNOLDS WHOM I FOOLISHLY MADE A LIEUTENANT SIMPLY AT YOUR REQUEST, IS HE THE MAN?"
"YES"
SURELY, CHILD, YOU DO NOT LOVE THIS SCOUNDREL?"
YES, FATHER, WITH ALL MY HEART. BUT HE IS NO SCOUNDREL AND I AM NO CHILD" I AM A WOMAN NOW, FATHER, BUT YOU CONTINUE TO TREAT ME AS AN INFANT" THAT IS WHY I DID NOT TELL YOU"
WE SHALL MEET THE LIEUTENANT HERE TOMORROW, FANS

DEMAND FOR RAILS STEADIES BOND LIST

Market Turnover Increases; Convertibles Move Off in Narrow Trading.

FOREIGN SUGARS SOFTEN

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—Better demand for numerous railroad issues, bought for large investment accounts, steadied the bond market today. The turnover was substantially larger than yesterday's when a new low sales volume for the year was established.

Convertibles moved narrowly and lower on the unsettled position of the stocks. Activity in this group was confined chiefly to American Telephone 4½s, American I. G. Chemical 4½s and Southern Pacific 4½s, with warrants, all of which receded fractionally.

The most active rail bonds worked generally higher, the best gains appearing in Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio 5s, Chicago & Northwestern 4½s and 5s, and Pennsylvania 4s. Such speculative rails as St. Paul adjustment 5s, Seaboard adjustment 5s and Seaboard 6s were soft, the last named selling off 1 point to a new low at 70. Certificates of deposit for the Seaboard adjustment 5s, making their first appearance on the list, changed hands at around 43, but attracted almost no attention.

Oil company obligations found a wider market, holding generally firm. Industrials, somewhat better supported than on Monday, were steady, while the utilities did little in thin trading.

Foreign sugars presented a conspicuously weak spot. New lows were made in this group by Cuba Dominicans 7½s, Vertientes 7s and Sugar Estates of Oriente.

United States Government bonds showed extreme apathy, and with the exception of the Liberty 3½s, volume of sales faded into insignificance. Prices of the few Liberty and Treasury issues that were traded barely moved from yesterday's close.

Announcement was made today of an additional issue of Central Power & Light first mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds, 1956 series, to be marketed soon at $6,800,000 par value. The offering price was not revealed.

Curb Review

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—Prices on the New York Curb Market drifted irregularly lower again today despite the strong rallying tendency that developed on the "Big Board." With professional operators appa ently unable to attract an outside following, there was a tendency to lighten long holdings and to conduct experimental short selling in shares of companies, the ,e specia of which appear pons too favorable.
Selling pressure was particularly acute against some of the radio, automotive and airplane shares. Aviation Corporation of America, Fokker, Dayton Air Express, Checker Cab and Paramount Cab all lost 1 to 2 points, while Grigsby Grunow dropped more than 3 points; Hazeltine, 2½, and Zenith Radio, 1½.
Public utilities were mixed. Commonwealth & Southern, one of the most active features, ran into further selling and dropped to another new low record at 23¾. Electric Investors, Penn-Ohio Edison and Southeastern Power & Light also lost a point or so, but United Gas Improvement moved up more than 2 points.
Trading started today in the new United Stores Corporation issues, the common selling between 26⅞ and 28⅝, the A stock between 72½ and 84⅞, and the preferred between 90¼ and 91½, with final quotations around the lowest of the day. Organization of this unit, which is expected to branch out into the drug and grocery lines, is regarded in some quarters as a counteroffensive against the chain stores which have been price cutting in the tobacco and cigarette field.
Oils were again sluggish despite the reported decrease in crude oil production last week, and the high hopes held out for the Colorado Springs Oil Conservation Conference. Transcontinental preferred was an outstanding exception, soaring about 11 points to around its redemption price, but losing nearly half of its gain.
Gt. Regis Paper and Alaska Packers prior preferred moved into new high ground.

Bankers Leave June 19.

The special train bearing members of the District of Columbia Bankers Association and their families to the eleventh annual convention of the association at Montauk Point, Long Island, N. Y., June 20 to 23, will leave Union Station Wednesday evening, June 19, at 9 o'clock, it was announced at convention committee headquarters yesterday. A returning special train will leave Montauk Point for this city on the night of Sunday, June 23, at 10:30 o'clock, arriving here at 7 o'clock the next morning.
Persons who will have trunks are asked to communicate with Chairman Claude H. Woodward, of the transportation committee, at Mount Vernon Savings Bank not later than Monday, June 17. He will arrange to have trunks called for and checked through to the hotel, and all trunks must be ready by 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning, June 19. All requests for convention reservations should be sent to Mr. Woodward at the above address not later than today and must be accompanied by check.

Postal Telegraph Statement.

Statement of the consolidated income and surplus accounts of the Postal Telegraph & Cable Corporation, and its associated companies for the three months ended March 31, announced by Clarence H. Mackay, chairman of the board, reveals a consolidated net income before interest charges on the $60,084,075.22 collateral trust 5 per cent gold bonds and debenture stock outstanding at March 31, of $1,317,945.22. After providing for bond interest, the net income was $681,894.36.
The radio activities of the associated companies of the corporation are being steadily extended. Commercial service between San Francisco and Honolulu was inaugurated on May 1 by the Mackay Radio & Telegraph Co., and on May 15 a powerful station at Bayville, Long Island, equipped with a modern short wave system, commenced a ship-to-shore service. The immediate use of these two new services by the public has been very gratifying, according to the statement.

Loading of Revenue Freight.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended June 1 totaled 971,930 cars, the car service division of the American Railway Association announced yesterday.
This was a decrease of 89,490 cars below the preceding week this year, due to the observance of the Memorial Day holiday, with reductions being reported in the total loading of all commodities except ore, which showed a slight increase.
Loading of revenue freight in 1929 compared with the two previous years follows:

	1929	1928	1927

T. H. Leith Wins Nomination.

T. Hunton Leith, assistant cashier, Security Savings & Commercial Bank, was nominated for membership in the executive council of the American Institute of Banking at the opening session of its convention yesterday at Tulsa, Okla., by James A. Soper, Lincoln National Bank, past president of Washington Chapter of the Institute.
A report last night from Frank M. Perley, American Security & Trust Co., first vice president of the chapter and member of the local delegation, stated 1,700 members attended the opening session yesterday.
The session was addressed by President Totten, Vice President Evans and former Senator Thomas P. Gore. Eight departmental conferences were started and are to be continued today and tomorrow for discussion of audits and accounting, bank administration, business developments and advertising, checks and collections, credits, investments, savings banking and trust functions. Finals in the national public-speaking contest were held last night.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, June 11 (A.P.).—Trusting to chances that farm relief would emerge in triumph from clashes over Boulevards, grain traders became active buyers today, and rushed prices upward. In some cases, the consequent rises in wheat values amounted to nearly 5c a bushel above a low level reached on tumbles which at the start resulted largely unexpectedly over the outcome of the Senate vote this afternoon as to farm relief.
Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1½c to 2c higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¼ to 3½c up, oats ¼ to ¾c advance, and provisions varying from 5c decline to 20c gain.
Overnight doubts aroused by disturbing phases of the renewal of Senate controversy concerning debenture plans led to heavy selling of wheat when the market opened today. For a brief time, prices dropped fast, but suddenly met with stout resistance in the shape of an array of standing orders to purchase on any sharp setback. There followed right-about-face action of the market, and throughout the remainder of the day, the course of values most of the time was decidedly in favor of the bulls, despite notwithstanding numerous quick fluctuations.
Changes in wheat prices during the day appeared to depend largely upon the news from Washington. Much of the buying was evidently on the part of previous speculative sellers who had become timid as to developments pending in at least some degree to success for administration forces in the Senate contest regarding farm legislation. Efforts to lift prices, too, were reports of insufficiency of moisture in Canada, together with a European forecast of natural future demand from countries that are importers of wheat. There was said also that Canadian wheat was being taken in fairly good volume for export, and that in particular China had been a buyer.
Meanwhile, statements distributed to the manager of the Canadian growers pool that a supposedly big world surplus of wheat is more apparent than real aroused considerable attention here. He was quoted as saying that wheat shipments from the four chief exporting countries the remainder of the crop year promises to be nearly equal to last season, adding that current talk of a large excess of wheat stocks resolves itself into an increase of 60,000,000 bushels in the world carry-over, which he asserts is partly offset by a decrease of the carryover in Canada.
Corn prices lightened up today, largely as a result of reports that about 25,000,000 bushels of contracts in the July delivery would be settled with only about 5,000,000 bushels of the actual cash Chicago-Tula stock, instead of enlarging, is being drawn upon freely to keep industries going. Meanwhile, cattle in Iowa pointed the pace to represent a much better return than corn sold on the basis of present Chicago quotations. Neither were oats taken today as a forecast of decidedly cooler weather, with possibly light frost northwest. Oats followed the course of other grain.
Provisions acted firmer, responsive to the upward trend of cereals.

297 ARE GRADUATED AT CEREMONIES FOR CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY

St. Matthew's Curate Is Qualified in Civil Law at Commencement.

PROFESSOR OF HARVARD IS PRINCIPAL SPEAKER

Pleads for Consideration of Medieval Ages in Talk to Class Group.

Degrees were presented to 297 graduates of Catholic University of America at the annual commencement exercises held in the gymnasium on the school campus yesterday morning. Among those who graduated was the Rev. John J. Coady, curate of St. Matthew's Church, who is the only priest in the Baltimore archdiocese now holding doctor's degrees in both canon and civil law.

Dr. J. F. M. Ford, professor of Romantic languages at Harvard University, was the commencement speaker. His address was a plea for fair consideration of the period now known as the "dark" or "medieval" ages, declaring that those who classify the time between the fifth and fifteenth centuries as such are actuated by ignorance or unreasoning prejudice.

The Most Rev. Pietro Pumasoni-Biondi, apostolic delegate to the United States, presided. The Right Rev. Mgr. Edward Pace, vice rector of the university, opened the services with an invocation, while the Right Rev. Mgr. James Hugh Ryan, rector, made the school's announcements.

Mgr. Ryan Confers Degrees.

Mgr. Ryan also conferred degrees upon the graduates as they were presented by the deans of their respective schools, following which John Francis Bergin, bachelor of science in chemical engineering, delivered the valedictory address.

Dr. Ford's address, based on the history of the so-called "Dark Ages," was, in part, as follows:

"As a matter of face, it was the prejudiced who first deliberately designated the Middle Ages as the "Dark Ages." They ignored the fact that the ten centuries between the fifth and fifteenth had never lost classical Latin culture and naively proceeded to style them barbarous and uninformed. In truth, the glory that was Greece had passed in great measure from the direct consciousness of western men of the Middle Ages, but these latter had never lost sight of 'the grandeur that was Rome.'

"Championed by Romanticists."

"For a long time the neo-classicists maintained the tradition of disesteem for the Middle Ages, and an unreflecting world accepted their attitude. But now, during a movement of romanticism, the rights of medievalism are being championed. A reaction was bound to occur. It comes now and it takes men back into the medieval world for the inspiration they need. For the content of their works, the romanticists, as the innovators are termed, turn away from pagan classic antiquity and fix their gaze upon the Christian and chivalric Middle Ages, which, as they existed in fact and as they are pictured in medieval literature, are found to be of rich and varied interest.

"What age is more justly to be termed 'dark' than our own, if lack of intelligent acquaintance with the great classical languages and their literature is a test of darkness? But even as we insist upon the imperative need of inculcating the ancient humanities and medieval Latin lore, we must not forget our other purpose of emphasizing the value of medieval culture in French Provencal, Italian, Spanish and Portuguese, which adapts the ancient culture."

RABENHORST HEADS NEW CITIZENS' BODY

Burroughs Association Picks Other Temporary Officers at First Meeting.

COMMITTEES ARE NAMED

William E. Rabenhorst, of 1801 Kearney street northeast, last night was elected temporary president at the organization meeting of the John Burroughs Citizens' Association, held at the John Burroughs School, 1820 Monroe street northeast. Approximately 65 residents of the vicinity attended.

Other temporary officers elected were Mrs. K. P. Armstrong, vice president; J. A. Koons, secretary, and Ira G. Blumer, treasurer. President Rabenhorst appointed the following by-laws committee: R. M. Furnis, chairman; J. Patch, K. P. Armstrong, R. N. Ashmun, R. K. Lynp, and Mrs. Arthur Fast. W. S. Finch was made chairman of the membership committee.

Both committees will meet Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the president, and will report at the next meeting of the association on June 18.

Radio Program to Honor Principal.

Members of the Greek letter fraternities and sororities at Central High School will take part in a radio program this afternoon over station WMAL. The program, which will be dedicated to the new principal, Harvey Smith, will be on the air from 5:00 to 5:30 o'clock. Ansell Talbert, a student, will be master of ceremonies.

Wife, Asking Divorce, Says Infant Swears

Mrs. May D. Baron, of 2147 O street northwest, instituted suit for limited divorce yesterday in the District Supreme Court, charging Samuel Baron has cursed her so much during their married life that their 2-year-old child has taken to swearing.

A charge of inadequate support also was made by the wife. She stated that failure of her husband to meet household expenses resulted in the child's clothing and their furniture being seized. According to the complaint, the parties were married December 17, 1923, and Baron has an income of $75 weekly.

Auto Hits Woman, Breaking Her Leg

Former Music Teacher Is Victim, but Sister Escapes by Dodging.

Miss A. Louise Clarkson, 33 years old, of the Chastleton Apartments, 1701 Sixteenth street northwest, suffered a fracture of the leg and numerous cuts and bruises yesterday afternoon when struck by an automobile in front of 724 Thirteenth street northwest. She is at Emergency Hospital.

Miss Clarkson, well known as a former music teacher, was crossing the street with her sister, Mrs. Helen Baker, of Texas, at the time of the accident. Mrs. Baker dodged the automobile which felled Miss Clarkson.

Charles Berkley Walton, 19-year-old drug clerk, of 903 Thirteenth street northwest, driver of the automobile, was questioned by police, but no charge was placed against him.

Girl Accused of Stealing Foster Mother's Ring

Marlyn Lester, 17 years old, 223 Indiana avenue northwest, was being held at the House of Detention yesterday on a charge of grand larceny in connection with the alleged theft of a $700 diamond ring from her foster mother, Mrs. Alice W. Lester, a music teacher.

The girl is slated to appear in Police Court this morning. She was arrested in Philadelphia by Headquarters Detective Dennis J. Cullinane. According to information gathered by the detective, the girl left Washington with a man known as John Norton, alias Anderson. They pawned the ring in Baltimore for $150, Cullinane learned. Shortly after this the man is said to have deserted the girl. Police are looking for him. The man is said to have been married to a Washington woman.

Mrs. Flanagan Heads Typographical Auxiliary

Mrs. Charles M. Flanagan was elected president of the Woman's Auxiliary, No. 12, to Typographical Union, No. 101, at a meeting held last night in the Typographical Union building, 423 G street northwest. Mrs. Todd Sharp, the retiring president, was presented with a gift by members of the organization.

Other officers named were: Vice president, Mrs. E. W. Morcock; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Jennie M. Saule; chaplain, Mrs. H. N. Carter and sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Frances Bensler.

$1,000,000 Parchment To Go to Smithsonian

An illuminated gold parchment, valued at $1,000,000, which will go on display at the Park Central Hotel in New York today, will be given eventually to the Smithsonian Institution, according to advices from New York.

$35,000 Is Donated To Visiting Nurses

Anonymous Gift Reported and Two New Managers Elected at Meeting.

Acknowledgement of an anonymous gift of $35,000, reports of officers and election of Miss Janet Houtz and Miss Virginia Hunt to membership on the board of managers featured the regular meeting yesterday of the board of managers of the Instructive Visiting Nurse Society.

In announcing the anonymous gift, Mrs. Whitman Cross, president, read a letter from the donor in which it was pointed out that at a later date the fund may be designated as a memorial. A resolution of thanks was adopted.

The report of the director of the society showed that 2,804 patients were treated during May at the various offices of the society and that 9,663 visits had been made by the nurses.

CITY BUSINESS MEN SEEK FISCAL BOARD

TAX LEVIES HELD UNFAIR

Reiterating its report of June 7, advocating creation of a commission to study the fiscal question of the budget between the District government and the Federal Government, the Chamber of Commerce of Washington passed a resolution calling upon Congress and officials to name such a commission at its monthly meeting at the Mayflower Hotel last night. Thomas Walker Page, of the Institute of Economics, declared that the $1.70 rate on real estate here is too high, and advocated the abolishment of taxes on intangible property and the institution of an income tax for the District.

The Chamber of Commerce committees had previously recommended that such a committee or commission be established, it was said, and it was added that the chamber had been advocating such a commission for two years.

Page said that the Federal Government actually pays less than 20 per cent of the budget of the District, and, with increasing values of property of District owners, unless the Federal Government increases its $9,000,000 appropriation, that it will be paying much less than 20 per cent in the future.

"Many of the expenditures here," he said, "are not for the benefit of the District people, but for the National Government; yet the District people have to pay a disproportionate share.

"The controversy over the fair apportionment of the payments between the two governments will grow more intense in the future, with the probability that the allocation of expense to the District people will be larger unless the proper shares of payment are determined.

"There are two important problems—to determine the taxable capacity of the District and in what proportion it should pay expenses."

He recommended that a commission be appointed to determine these questions, and that the unit be a small body of impartial economists. Taxes on business, he added, are chaotic.

It was announced by Charles Darr, president of the chamber, that the annual election of officers and directors will be held in October.
